Introduction

What is Live Action Role-Playing?

Live Action Role-Playing is the most intense gaming experience you can have. Picture yourself in the woods, pursuing of the elusive Unicorn. If you approach it, is your goal to capture it, kill it, or merely introduce yourself? Picture yourself as a Mage, standing behind your Warriors while casting spells at the attacking orc horde. Picture yourself as the Merchant dealing with a trader just come to town. Perhaps you are a Sage, wise and knowledgeable on many subjects. Maybe you are a Rogue, sneaking closer to your target in the night... The choices are as limitless as your imagination and creativity. You can be anyone, and your actions are up to you.

Costuming and the Atmosphere

Costuming is an important part of the atmosphere of a game. It is hard for people to believe you are Athgar the Mage when you wear jeans and a Lakers sweatshirt. Changing into your costume helps you get into the Role of the character you are playing.

Costuming does not need not to be expensive. It might be as simple as a plain t-shirt and similar color sweat pants, with boots and a simple tabard. It might be as elaborate as wrap pants with a tunic or jerkin, studded leather armor or chain mail, a fancy tabard, and a weapon belt with leather pouches. It can be almost anything you like.

To help preserve the atmosphere, try to avoid obviously modern accessories, such as visible zippers or Velcro, and any clothing with printing on it. For shoes; however, while it is nice if they look in period, it is more important that they be comfortable. For many players, this is a very active game. Uncomfortable clothes, especially shoes, no matter how good looking, will detract from your game experience. Please keep your expected activity level in mind when you design your costume.

One important aspect of costuming is making sure you look like your character's race. If you are playing an Elf, you will wear ear tips. If you are a Male Dwarf, you will have a very definite beard.

Role Playing

Role-playing is taking on a character, and acting as you feel the character would behave in the situations that come up in game. As much as possible, you should to avoid speaking about things from outside the game, to allow yourself and others the chance to stay in your Role. In game you should try to maintain the role of your character. Role-playing is completely improvisational acting. You do have a character, but you do not have lines or a script. What you say and do next is up to you.

Getting Started

So now before you jump into making a character we suggest that you read the sections on the Races, Backgrounds, and Classes to understand the world your character will be living in. All the information in this section can be taken as In Game Knowledge, since they cover the things that everyone should know about the world, the races, and the organizations that exist. In addition, reading this may help you develop a character concept. Separating your character from yourself is an important skill for players to understanding. For clarity and brevity, though, the remainder of this rulebook uses "you" and "your character" interchangeably.

Character Creation

The following section will explain how to build your character as well as the game mechanics for purchasing your skills. When deciding what to play it is best to start with a character concept, what is it that you want to be, such as a noble knight, a healer, or a powerful spell caster. Once you have a concept in mind, choose a race, background and class that best fits your character concept. Each option has its own unique flavor as well as features that the others do not get.

The first part is Race. Each race has its own unique role-play opportunities and In Game history. Once you have selected your character's race, you can find more information about them in the race packet found on the website.

Second is your Background. Backgrounds help give your character a starting point in the world. They also have special benefits that will make you better at certain skills.

Third is your Class. The thirteen classes provide the basic structure of character growth over time by setting the skills that are easily obtainable. Each class has a focused specialty. The class descriptions include charts showing the list of class skills, the SP cost of buying the skill and any prerequisites that may be. All characters can learn Basic skills that appear on their class chart and from the Everyman Chart, by simply spending the listed number of skill points, so long as they have the prerequisites.

These three parts can be mixed and matched to fit the character you want. After you start playing the game and becoming more involved with the world there will always opportunities to grow your character in ways beyond what is available at creation. A mage could seek out training from an Order to become more specialized and gain access to new skills. Likewise, an elf could gain an Attunement to another culture, changing into another type of elf.

Other Details

Character Names

Naming your character is one of the most important decisions you will make for your character. A name can say a lot about your character, or it may say little. Names like Kristoff of Hillsborough, tells you where, and for the knowledgeable, how he may have grown up.

Character History

When you make up your character history, you may want to make an outline first. Make sure that you say everything you want, and do not leave out any important details. Here are some things you may want to include: parents, siblings, where you come from, and important things that have happened in your life. Additionally, a short history of your character can help plot to integrate you into the story and give them ideas on things your character might like. As an added benefit, an approved character history earns five extra SP for new characters.

Skill Resets

Several skills and abilities have a limited number of uses each reset, which is roughly a 24-hour period. When checking in each game, players will be issued a character sheet with their skill resets on the back, as well as a clip of tags. The character sheet will have blocks of dots, labeled reset1, reset 2, and so on for daily abilities and the tags will be for. At game start, all players begin using the reset 1 block. At any time during the event, a player can spend 10 minutes concentrating to change to the next reset block of dots. When this is done, all unused skills from the previous set are considered used. This feature is in place to allow players to control when they need to reset their skills to fit better into their event activity. Since the game cannot always have everyone using up their skills at the same time like clockwork, this gives the players more flexibility.

Beginning a New Character

When you start a new character, you will start with the following, unless your race or background says otherwise:

- 30 Skill Points (SP) to spend on Basic skills from your Class chart and the Everyman chart.
- 1 Power.
- Read/Write Common.
- 1 Rank of Knowledge of your Race.
- 5 silver pieces.
- 1 Recipe for each level of a Production skill purchased.
- Weapon tags for up to 2 weapons
- 1 tag for a suit of armor up to the character's starting maximum armor points.
- A Standard Spellbook with 1 spell for each Spell Slot purchased.

You will also receive 1 day's production for any production skills you have, but only items crafted of base production materials, meaning no advanced items.

New Character Rewrites

Sometimes a race and class combo or a skill set does not play out the way you thought it might. In this case, you have one opportunity to rewrite part or all of your character, at any point prior to the start of your fourth game. A character rewriting away from production skills may be required to return some or all of the production items or their value in coin as part of the rewrite. If you have created such a character and still wish to rewrite, you may be asked to return some or all production items produced by your character in order to do so.

Earning Skill Points

There are three ways a character can earn Skill Points. Each time a character attends a game they will earn a set number of Skill Points (SP), at the end of the event based, on their character level at check-in:

- Levels 1-5 earn 4 SP each game
- Levels 6-10 earn 2 SP each game
- Levels 11+ earn 1 SP each game

Each game a player can pay an additional $10 when they pay their normal game fees to earn one (1) extra SP.

A character can gain extra SP at the close of an event by using Crowns and In Game money. The cost for this is five (5) Silver/Crowns times their current level per extra SP. These additional SP are purchased 1 by 1, at the point that enough are purchased to push the SP total into a new level then the cost of each SP will increase as well. With Crowns only 2 SP can be purchased this way each month, though there is no limit to SP purchased with Silver. SP is added in this order: Crowns>Silver>Event SP.

Under normal circumstances players can only receive SP from games that they attend. Once each month, if a player cannot personally attend any game, they can pay for a single event and earn the appropriate number of SP for that event. However, they do not gain Production Points or Favor for that event.

Races

What follows are common races of the game world. While there are many other game races, these starting races are ones that have very large populations and settlements stretched out across the globe. Each race has its own set of racial abilities that help keep them unique. In addition to the advantages listed, all characters begin with a level of Knowledge (Area) for their race. This is to reflect your upbringing with your own kind. Players can of course choose to not gain this benefit for their own role play reasons.

Deep Elves

"Like shadows in the night they move as the darkness. I could not be certain, but I am almost sure that I saw one step from the shadows themselves. To say they will give you chills and nightmares might be too little."

-Kias the Sage

Advantages

- Resist Magic- Deep Elves receive 1 resist at 1st level and every 10th level for free, and may purchase more.

Disadvantages

- Make-up of Elf Ears, and White Skin
- By 10th Level must purchase at least or 2 Craftsman or Knowledge skills.

Role Play

From deep within the world's mountains this race of nearly unknown elves emerges. While they are technically elves, the only similarity they have with their distant cousins the High Elves is the pointed ears. Until 500 years ago no one on the surface even knew of their existence, and even the dwarves of the mountains thought them but myths and tales of the boogie man. But they are as real as the sun in the sky.

Hailing from a very strict society of clans and houses, they are bred to have little to no fear and to follow under their leaders with blind devotion. Even in death the glory of the empire is all that drives them. Those that have set out from the homelands have done so with set purpose no doubt, always calculating their next move like a chess game. While many would whisper they seek to overtake the surface, which is but a fear for the surface has light which is very discomforting to them; however, the knowledge that the surface holds is what they value most.

Dwarves

"Beware of the smith. I cannot tell you how many times I have heard that statement and ignored it, well until the day I met the Hill Dwarves. Guess it is true that the man who can craft the item knows how to break it down. Known the world over and even on other planes, as some of the greatest smiths to ever forge; they are truly the cut above."

-King Lodar's Master Scribe

Advantages

- Resist Toxin- Dwarves receive 1 resist at 1st level and every 10th level for free, and may purchase more.
- Armor training- Dwarves receive the Armor Proficiency power for free.

Disadvantages

- Males must have a thick beard, which must be at least 1 inch in length; and Females must have their hair in thick braids, as well as braids of hair at their temples.
- By 10th Level must purchase at least 1 Production skill or 2 Craftsman skills.

Role Play

It is said that as the land was cut by the creators of old, the Dwarves were cut from the purest of stones and blessed with its strength and vigor. This would seem to be true as the Dwarves can be traced as one of the oldest races, and as such their will and virtue are rarely shaken.

While mining is often an important part of their lifestyle, they are not all skilled miners; but Smithing is in their blood. Most dwarves, from day one, train in some degree of Smithing whether it is armor or weapons. Along with forging they are skilled merchants, though this not their strongest area.

Ents

"After a long journey I found myself among the most perfect grove. Every tree and plant seemed to be soothing and gentle. Imagine my shock when they began to move and speak"

Advantages

- Being of the Woodlands- Ents receive the skill Tongue of the Land at no SP cost, regardless of class.
- Camouflage- Ents receive 1 Camouflage at 1st level and every 10th level for free, and may purchase more. This ability functions like the Conceal skill with the following changes; first the player must be touching a tree larger than the player in width or must be surrounded by bushes and plants. Secondly, the player cannot move while under this effect, and lastly the duration of this effect is 1 minute.

Disadvantages

- Make-up or mask of leaves and bark as well as leafy head coverage.

Role Play

Given life by the whims of nature and the Fey, the Ents have ever been the guardians of the natural world. However, over the passing of time they have become shadows of their former selves as their link to the Fey lands have weakened.

Many of the other races can find them difficult to deal with as they are not hasty in their decision making. Though their lack of haste is not due to a lack of intelligence but a vast almost shared wisdom that they consult before they speak or take action.

Felis

"If honor was the bar by which all kinds were judged, then the Felis would be the jury at all mankind's trial. The only thing more binding than blood is their honor and their word. If you ever are threatened by a Felis, you can take it as a promise."

-Sir Cavin of Gerivin

Advantages

- Resist Toxin- Felis receive 1 resist at 1st level and every 10th level for free, and may purchase more.
- Can use 2 Short Length Claws.

Disadvantages

- Full Face Make-up or Mask for the cat chosen.

Role Play

The Felis race is a lineage of cat people, so to speak. While they appear to be a human with feline features, they are in fact not some half-breed, but a natural occurrence.

Felis form clans together by their species, or family in Dens. The Den might spread for 50-100 miles of terrain, and is considered the homelands of each clan. As Felis reach the age of maturity, they leave their homelands in search of their path. Nevertheless, they make a journey to the Den yearly to gather with their family.

Gnomes

"Like a wonder, these bizarre creatures are truly a sight to see. I have heard many tales of the odd and marvelous city of the Gnomes, though words have never done it justice."

Advantages

- Resist Enchantment - Gnomes receives 1 resist at 1st level and every 10th level for free, and may purchase more.
- Receive a 2 Skill Point discount on Engineering.

Disadvantages

- Pointed ear tips, and brightly colored hair.
- By 10th Level must purchase at least 1 level of Engineering or 2 Craftsman skills.

Role Play

Almost like a creature of myth the, Gnome stands out among the races. Gnomes are, in actuality, a type of lesser Fey. While many Fey would not treat them as such, their heritage remains true. Eons ago a colony of wildlings became trapped, unable to return to the Fey world. As the years passed, and one generation led to another, their link to the Fey realm diminished; eventually devolving the Gnomes into what they are today.

Full of wonder and curiosity, Gnomes tend to have a very easygoing personality and are always looking for new fun things to do. This also leads to their love of engineering as it gives them a way to create the wondrous things for their amusement.

Half-Trolls

"Of brutes and savages I know none keener. Do not be fooled by their savage ways, for in your moment of doubt the beast will swallow you whole. Even further still their savagery is but the top layer to their kind's ways."

-Loremaster Simon

Advantages

- Regeneration-Half-Trolls receive 1 Regeneration at 1st level and every 10th level for free, and may purchase more.
- Can use 2 Short Length Claws.

Disadvantages

- Uneducated- Does not start with a Read/Write.
- Cannot have Scholar Background.
- Make-up of brown and green scaly skin.

Role Play

Born from the murk of the Great Swamp, the Trolls have evolved from a once primal animal into a killing machine. They are known for their short tempers, and their lack of any social skills with those outside their own race. To many, their barbaric ways are uncouth, and seem random. Nevertheless, there is much more to this simple race than meets the eye.

Their actions, while they may seem animalistic, are rigorously practiced. The Half-Trolls adhere to a sometimes strangely ritualistic clan based society. On the surface, they are like many animals, in that they raise their young amongst family to teach them to hunt and survive in the wild. The deeper layers of the Half-Troll society, however, are much more complex. At the head of each tribe stand a small number of elders. The oldest, and wisest, of spell casters is often the clan shaman, whose duty it is to advise the clan and guide the young. A War Chief, often the strongest of the tribe, is duty bound to secure his lands from intruders and to train the young Half-Trolls in combat so that they may continue to protect the Great Swamp.

To those not of the blood, the Half-Troll may appear a simple-minded savage, but in truth they are cunning and deadly predators. While they may lack the intelligence to carry on long discussions of past wars, they know what is truly important to them. People will often let their guard down around the Half-Troll, thinking them too dumb to be a threat. However, their cleverness will astound you when you lie defeated, humbled by the ferocious cunning of a Half-Troll.

High Elves

"For I've seen the grandest of things, and they are mere grains of sand that lie at the foot of an Elven city. There are words I am sure to describe the beauty and nobility of their grand palaces but they escape me."

-Kias the Sage

Advantages

- Resist Mind- Elves receive 1 resist at 1st level and every 10th level for free, and may purchase more.

- Arcane Lineage- This ability allows the character to spend time studying an item to reveal its magical properties. By spending 1 minute concentrating they can generate a Detect Magic effect; if they spend 10 minutes concentrating they can generate a Define Magic effect.

Disadvantages

- Make-up of Elf Ears
- By 10th level they must purchase 2 Read/Write or Knowledge Area Skills.

RolePlay

If Deep Elves were the darkness, then the High Elves would be the light of the Elven nations. Kept in their grand mountain castles and cities, they have little love for the filth of nature. Though they appreciate the beauty and grace that is abundant in nature, they prefer it off to the side of their exquisitely built cities.

The High Elves dwell in their great cities located in the high mountains, far to the north. Though high in altitude, the weather near the cities is very mild; the denizens account this to their mastery over magic and nature. They excel at the arts of both magic and crafting, mostly of extravagant and unnecessary things. They hold great pride in all their works, seeing it as their mark upon the world so that all ages shall know their name.

As they left behind their somewhat primitive ways like their kin of the forest, they sought out a better life one of softer things. Viewing nature as a tool not a master, they saw that it was their place to craft the world as they saw fit; manipulating the stone of the mountains into perfect works of architecture, likes of which could never be found in human lands. Education and etiquette are paramount in their society; being civilized is a way of life.

Human

"Giants among the mortal races, through civil war and conflict, their survivor spirit seems to overcome all. I have seen wonders from deep within all the great kingdoms, yet those of the humans seem to be unmatched. Perhaps the fates do have a greater plan for them."

-High Magister E'rilin

Advantages

- Burst of Knowledge- Humans receive a free skill that they meet the requirements for and that has a cost no greater than 3 Skill points. They gain this at 1st and every 10th level.

Disadvantages

- None

Role Play

While all of the great kingdoms play a part in the world, the human kingdom seems to have the most sway. They are the overly compassionate heart trying to save a world in peril. Adventures of every race set out to right the injustices of the world, but among the human race even the common man seems to try to better the world beyond his own borders.

Rok'shen

"Like a tsunami crashing against the unexpected shore line, so is the fury of the Rok'Shen in battle. A heritage of warrior breeding has hardened even the tamest of their ilk to be battle ready at a moment's notice."

-Minstrel Vardish

Advantages

- Resist Impairment- Rok'Shen receives 1 resist at 1st level and 10th level for free, and may purchase more.
- Can use 2 Short Length Claws.

Disadvantages

- Full Face Make-up or Mask for the animal chosen.

Role Play

The Rok'Shen is a descendent race of a clan of ancient shape changers. It is said by those outside the clans that long ago the elders of the race had the power to change shape at will, but as the bloodline weakened, they lost this power. When Rok'Shen are born they appear like human babies but are covered in a light fur that constantly changes colors, but as they approach their first year of life their bodies choose a form to take and are forever that way.

The Rok'Shen take many forms, but they are always humanoid versions of naturally occurring creatures, such as birds, rodents, medium sized mammals (not cats).

Rok'Shen are very tribal people while they do not group by their appearance, they hold strong ties to their tribal families.

- Receive 1 use of the Survival skill at no SP cost.

- Receive Power: Weapon Proficiency: Short Bow or Long Bow.

Classes

The following pages give a breakdown of the classes, and include a chart of in class skills. Each class chart has different skills, though not all are unique to a single class. The first chart on the following page is labeled Everyman. While these skills belong to no single class they are considered core skills that all characters can learn, with instruction, at the listed cost.

Learning New Skills

Any character can learn any Basic skill that is on their class chart without need of an instructor. Advanced Skills, all Everyman skills, and Techniques will require an instructor during the game. Any character can teach another character any skill they have on their card; so long as the student has all the prerequisites for the desired skill. Teaching/learning a Basic Skill/Technique takes 20 minutes, while Advanced Skills/Technique takes 45 minutes. Instruction time can be broken up into several shorter sessions over the course of an Event. The goal is to encourage player interaction and enrichment so training can take on many forms, not just a long discussion. One example might be; when teaching a crafting skill having the student 'aid' you during your crafting time; so that you can explain how it all works and walk through recipes and process. The goal is to be interactive, so long as you are working with the student in a manner that is reflective of the skill being taught there is a lot of workable room.

After instructing another character in a skill, they must write on the recipients' character sheet the following information: Date, Time, the name of the character teaching, and the skill being taught. If the character learning the new skill has all the necessary unspent build at the time of instruction, they can seek out a Plot Marshal to sign their card. This will allow them to spend the build and gain access to the skill at that time; otherwise the learned skill will be purchased during character updates after the game.

Unlearning Skills

Any character can unlearn skills they currently have, granted not quickly. To unlearn a skill a character must note it on their sheet and have a Marshal sign off. They will not be able to use the skill for 2 games, at the end of which the SP for the skill will be refunded. Only one skill can be unlearned at a time.

Artisan

While the world is filled with heroes and monsters, the real world continues to due to efforts of the common man. While many have learned a trade or a craft to survive it is those who have pushed themselves in mastering the arts. They are those who have chosen to not hide when trouble comes, but instead have taken their skills to the front line, to aid those who would rush into the fray.

Artisans, while not your traditional adventuring hero play a crucial role. While they have spent no time training in the ways of magic or martial expertise, they have spent plenty of time learning and being adaptive. And for this they are truly gifted in many ways.

Armor: Due to their vacancy of martial training Artisans can only wear Costume Armor.

Class Features

Time Well Spent: When you put your time into something you get out more than you put in. The items that the Artisan crafts have 3 additional months of duration (maximum of 15 months); in the case of weapons and armor, these 3 months do not consume additional components. Additionally, counted actions from using a skill are reduced by up to 1 minute, but will not reduce counts to below 1 minute

Will to Survive: While you are not hardened by the rigors of training for combat, your effort is not lost. Your drive and ambition to save this world grants your grip on life, extending your Bleed Out Count by 1 minute.

Adaptive Learner: When you get in a rut it is not always a bad thing, all that time not wasted on practicing for combat has made it far easier for you to pick up on new things. Learning a skill takes 50% less time than normal.

Bard

Untold wonders and secrets exist for those skillful enough to discover them. Through cleverness, talent, and magic, these cunning few unravel the wiles of the world, becoming adept in the arts of persuasion, manipulation, and inspiration. Typically masters of one or many forms of artistry, bards possess an uncanny ability to know more than they should and use what they learn to keep themselves and their allies ever one step ahead of danger. Bards are quick-witted and captivating, and their skills might lead them down many paths, be they gamblers or jacks-of-all-trades, scholars or performers, leaders or scoundrels, or even all of the above. For bards, every day brings its own opportunities, adventures, and challenges, and only by bucking the odds, knowing the most, and being the best might they claim the treasures of each.

Bards capably confuse and confound their foes while inspiring their allies to ever-greater daring. While accomplished with both weapons and magic, the true strength of bard's lies outside melee, where they can support their companions and undermine their foes without fear of interruptions to their performances.

Armor: Due to the difficulty heavy armors can imposing on singing and playing most instruments; Bards can only wear up to Light Armor.

Weapon Proficiencies: Bards are skilled with the following weapons: Short Weapon, Medium Weapon, Bow, Thrown, and gain the Florentine Power for free. As well can use instrument based/shaped weapons or the correct sizes.

Combat Slots: Bards have access to a limited amount of martial skill and Combat Techniques. They are limited to a maximum purchase of 6, 1st Tier Combat Slots.

Additional Note:

The first 2 Knowledge (Area) skills the characters purchases are considered Basic Class skills, and do not require an instructor. These cannot be Rare Knowledge (Area)'s.

Class Features

Hidden Lore: As a master of the road, the character has learned much about the world; in every town they travel to, they pick up a little more. This allows the character to summon up some small bit of information from a Knowledge (Area) without need of having that skill, and the information that can be garnered is equivalent to rank 4 in that Knowledge (Area). This skill can be used once each reset.

Perform: This gives the character the ability to affect more targets by giving an extended performance. For reasons dealing with combat safety, in combat this skill can be a 30 counted action, so as not to damage actual instruments. While performing the character must maintain concentration and interruption or stopping before the time is reached will prevent the skill from having affect and will waste the Combat Slot for the skill. When this skill is used the player must announce it before the skill to be affected, IE Perform Song of Healing. At the end of the performance the character will announce, in a tone no louder than the noise generated by the performance, "All Allies Voice <Effect>", expending the Combat Slot cost only once but still affecting many targets. If this skill is used with Dirges, then the attack becomes delivered as "<Target> Voice <Effect>", this will only affect a single target but greatly improves the range at which it can be used. This skill can be used 3 times each reset, and an additional time for each 5 character levels (5th, 10th, 15, etc.). Using this skill in conjunction with a performance art outside of combat; instrument, singing, prose, etc; will waive the times per day usage.

Caller

Within the purity of the elements and the order of the wilds lingers a power beyond the marvels of civilization. Furtive yet undeniable, this primal magic is guarded over by servants of philosophical balance known as callers. Allies to beasts and manipulators of nature, these often-misunderstood protectors of the wild strive to shield their lands from all who would threaten them and prove the might of the wilds to those who lock themselves behind city walls. Rewarded for their devotion with incredible powers, druids gain unparalleled shape-shifting abilities, the companionship of mighty beasts, and the power to call upon nature's wrath. The mightiest temper powers akin to storms, earthquakes, and volcanoes with primeval wisdom long abandoned and forgotten by civilization.

While some callers might keep to the fringe of battle, allowing companions to fight while they confound foes with the powers of nature, others transform into deadly beasts and savagely wade into combat. Callers worship personifications of elemental forces, natural powers, or nature itself. Typically, this means devotion to a nature deity, though druids are just as likely to revere vague spirits, animalistic primordial's, or even specific awe-inspiring natural wonders.

Armor: All callers can wear up to Light Armor, since many find heavier armor too cumbersome when they shapechange.

Weapon Proficiencies: Callers are skilled with the following weapons: Short Weapon, Staff, Spear, Thrown, and Small Shield.

Spell Casting: Callers have access to the Nature path of magic, as defined in the Magic and Spells chapter.

Class Features

Shifter: This skill allows the Caller to change forms into that of an animal on a 5 second counted action. While shifted, the character cannot speak, save for with animals of similar type, and they can use no active skills, abilities, or magic items that require speech. All non-self-generated protectives, blade spells, and Aspect effects are suppressed. See Appendix 1 for information on forms and their abilities.

Empowered Shift: While the very basic ability to change shape is innate to all callers, they also have the ability to give themselves over to the beast. In doing so, they gain more powerful stats based on the Empower Shifting skill; even without the skill they gain a small number of boosted stats while active. These are outlined in Appendix 1. This ability can be used once each reset at 1st level and once again for each 5-character levels, (IE. 1st, 5th, 10th, and so on.). When activated they improved stats will last for a single encounter, or up to 5 minutes, and the character to shape change one a 1 counted action.

Nature's Guide: Your bond with nature goes far beyond just physical to almost a spiritual level as the world around you almost speaks to you. This gives the character a few benefits: First, on the Prime or Essence, you can always find north and understand roughly where in the world you are. Second, you may spend a maximum of 3 times your current rank in Knowledge (Nature) from your pool of Knowledge points each reset, instead of the normal 2.

Champion

Some take up arms for glory, wealth, or revenge. Others do battle to prove themselves, to protect others, or because they know nothing else. Still others learn the ways of weapon craft to hone their bodies in battle and prove their mettle in the forge of war. Lords of the battlefield, fighters are a disparate lot, training with many weapons or just one, perfecting the uses of armor, learning the fighting techniques of exotic masters, and studying the art of combat, all to shape themselves into living weapons. Far more than mere thugs, these skilled warriors reveal the true deadliness of their weapons, turning hunks of metal into arms capable of taming kingdoms, slaughtering monsters, and rousing the hearts of armies. Soldiers, knights, hunters, and artists of war, fighters are unparalleled champions, and woe to those who dare stand against them.

Champions excel at combat—defeating their enemies, controlling the flow of battle, and surviving such sorties themselves. While their specific weapons and methods grant them a wide variety of tactics, few can match fighters for sheer battle prowess.

Champions are the classic frontline warrior, clad in heavy armor and shields. They are skilled in almost all forms of melee combat but tend to play a more defensive role, protecting other from harm.

Armor Proficiency: Champions can wear up to Heavy Armor, though often they will quickly learn to wear more, further improving their ability to soak front line damage.

Weapon Proficiencies: Champions are skill with the following weapons: Small Shield, Medium Shield, Short Weapon, Medium Weapon, Long Weapon, Spear, and Thrown.

Combat Slots: Champions have access to a limited amount of martial skill and Combat Techniques. They are limited to a maximum purchase of 12, 1st Tier Combat Slots.

Class Features

Defend: This skill allows the character to protect others from harm by getting in the way of the attack. To use this skill, the character must be within weapon reach of a target, have a weapon of shield in hand, and call “Defend”. When used, this skill will redirect a single attack to the character using the skill, which may then be negated normally with defenses. If the attack had a numeric value, the damage will be reduced by half. This skill can be used once each Encounter.

Armored Core: While wielding a shield the character gains additional armor points. These points go above the character maximum and are refit with their normal armor. As long as they are wielding a shield they gain 10 additional points of armor.

Evoker

Beyond the veil of the mundane, hide the secrets of absolute power. The power of the Inner Plane holds not only strength but also rare knowledge, such mysteries call to those with the ambition and the intellect to rise above the common folk to grasp true might. Such is the path of the Evoker. These shrewd magic-users have learned to harness the elemental energy of the planes and form it into a weapon. Evokers prove a cunning and potent lot, capable of smiting their foes, empowering their allies, and shaping the world around them.

While many Evokers might study to prepare themselves for any manner of danger, some choose to focus upon a single element that makes them exceptionally skilled within a specific focus. Yet no matter their specialty, all evokers are masters of the impossible and can aid their allies in overcoming almost any danger.

Armor Proficiency: Evokers are limited to wearing Costume Armor, while it is possible to learn to wear more; many find it hard to weave their magic under more burden.

Weapon Proficiencies: Evokers are skilled with the following weapons: Short Weapon and Staff.

Class Features

Arcane Mastery: This skill allows the character to tap into the raw power of their magic. The character can cast 1 Evocation spell of each level, up to the highest level Spell Slot they have purchased, each reset. This means the character gains up to 9 free spells if they have purchased a 9th level Spell Slot.

Magical Knowledge: Evokers can cast Evocation spells without need of the Spell Page in their Spell Book, though they must still have a Spell Book in their possession.

Planar Surge: Evokers have mastered Elemental magic and can draw upon the raw power of the Inner Plane to give their spells more power. When this is used, the character can change the incant of their Spell Pool to “Elemental X <Flavor>”, this works in all ways as the normal usage of Spell Pool; but, changes the DeliveryType for 5 minutes or an Encounter. This skill can be used 1 time each reset at 1st level, plus 1 additional time for each 5 character levels they have (IE. 5th, 10th, 15th, and so on).

Gladiator

Gladiators are strong warriors that stride through a blood-soaked battlefield, wielding that which was too big to be called a sword, massive, thick, heavy, and far too rough. Indeed, they wield a heap of raw iron that can cleave through even the most stalwart of foes. Despite a commander's best efforts, both magic and blade often fail to stop the overwhelming force of an indomitable goliath that has broken the line and ravages their troops.

While the class name is often confused with those who might fight in the great pit of an arena, they are far from so limited. Gladiators are known by many names filling the roles of Lancers and Pikemen. They serve as a powerful second line behind a shield wall using openings to unleash devastating onslaughts to break the enemy lines.

Armor Proficiency: Gladiators can wear up to Heavy Armor.

Weapon Proficiencies: Gladiators are skilled with the following weapons: Short Weapons, Medium Weapon, Great Weapon, Thrown, and Short Bow.

Combat Slots: Gladiators have access to a limited amount of martial skill and Combat Techniques. They are limited to a maximum purchase of 12, 1st Tier Combat Slots.

Class Features

Great Might: This skill allows the character to increase their Base Strength by 1 point and doubles their Strength for Feats of Strength.

Stalwart: Gladiators are a deadly presence on the battlefield and they are a force to be reckoned with. Effects that target the Gladiator's weapons are reduced by 1 tier; Destroy is reduced to Shatter, Shatter is reduced to Disarm, and Disarm is no effect.

Guardian

Guardians are the primal warriors of the natural world. They form strong bonds with the beasts of the wild and channel their prowess as a weapon. Often seen as nature's defender due to their bond.

Often their strong bond to the natural world calls them to its martial champion, though this is not always carried out with good action. Just as a hurricane gives little care for what it will destroy in its wake, a guardian can channel the skills into acts of destruction.

Armor: Guardians can wear up to Medium Armor at character creation and tend to wear armors that are less manufactured.

Weapon Proficiencies: Guardians are skilled with the following weapons: Short Weapon, Medium Weapon, Great Weapon, Spear, and Thrown. Additionally, they gain the Florentine Power free.

Combat Slots: Guardians have access to a limited amount of martial skill and Combat Techniques. They are limited to a maximum purchase of 9, 1st Tier Combat Slots.

Class Features

Heart of the Wild: While wielding either Two Weapons or a Great Weapon they can use their Defensive Techniques as Passive skills. This means that when under an effect that would prevent them from using Active skills/abilities (but does not deny all skills/abilities) they can still use their Defensive Combat Techniques. A few examples would be while performing any task that requires Concentration or is a Counted Action (not Bleeding Out/Dying).

Adaptive: While they do not weave the magic's of nature the character can train themselves to understand its denizens. This skill allows the character to speak with natural animals, though it must be done in simple short statements and questions.

Primal Fury: This skill allows the character to unleash the power of the primal world they protect granting them heightened combat prowess for a short time. When active, the character gains the following temporary benefits: +10 Body Points, +2 Permanent Weapon Damage, Immunity to Charm, Shun, Sleep, and Terror. This skill lasts for 5 minutes or one Encounter. This skill can be used as a defense against Berserk and will negate the attack and active this skill. This skill can be used once each reset at 1st level and once again for each 8 character levels, (IE. 1st, 8th, 16th, and so on.)

Healer

Healers have mastery over the restoration of the living form; while they have the ability to learn a wide variety of magic, they specialize in the healing of allies.

Armor Proficiency: Healers can wear up to Light Armor.

Weapon Proficiencies: Healers are skilled in the following weapons: Short Weapon and Staff.

Class Features

Font of Light: When casting Restoration Spell Pool Charges that heal Body Points, the caster adds “Font” to the end of their spell incant. When used on a target that is at 0 or -1 Body Points, the target receives double the normal value of healing. As well, they can use their Spell Pool in conjunction with Chain Spell. Additionally, the character receives +1 Bonus on their Contested Roll for performing Resurrections.

Magical Knowledge: Healers can cast Restoration spells without need of the Spell Page in their Spell Book, though they must still have a Spell Book in their possession.

Shadow Warding: Their study and channeling of the Cycle and Spirit magic has changed them. They have a 20-point Barrier versus damaging attacks with Body, Disease, or Shadow in the call. Once lost these points can be restored after 1 minute of concentration.

Shared Light: Through devotion to others, the same fortune is granted to the caster. When touch casting a beneficial spell on another target, the caster also gains the same effect.

Magus

Magus are skilled melee combatants who have also devoted themselves to the mastery of the arcane arts. This makes them deadly foes in close quarters, as they can unleash powerful spells through their weapons with little effort. While they practice the ways of Elemental Magic they are not as proficient as an Evoker with it. Splitting up their training time and the addition of heavy armaments makes can make for difficult mastery.

Armor: Magus skilled in combat they are able to wear up to Medium Armor; however, they are not skilled with shields, as such bulky gear gets in the way of their magic.

Weapon Proficiencies: Magus are skilled with the following weapons: Short Weapon, Medium Weapon, and Great Weapon.

Spell Casting: Magus have access to the Elemental path of magic, as defined in the Magic and Spells chapter. They are limited to a maximum number of 1st level Spell Slots, they can only purchase 6.

Combat Slots: Magus have access to a limited amount of martial skill and Combat Techniques. They are limited to a maximum purchase of 6, 1st Tier Combat Slots.

Class Features

Elemental Negation: Magus have mastered the art of mixing their martial prowess and magical aptitude allowing them to Negate damaging attacks with the Magic or Elemental delivery, by expending an equal amount from their Spell Pool. For example, the character is struck by Elemental 20 Fire, they could expend 20 points of their Spell Pool to Negate the attack and they would suffer no damage; but, they are down those points until they refresh their pool.

Channeled Power: Magus use their weapons as spell casting implements through the use of the Channel Class Feature. This skill can be used 3 times each reset at 1st level plus an additional time for each 3-character levels after that, (IE. 1st, 4th, 7th, and so on.). Characters can freely Channel their 1st-3rd level Spell Slots, and only expend a use the Channel ability for their 4th-9th level Spell Slots. This does not prevent the character from throwing their Spell Slot effects. Spell Pool- Magus by default cannot throw their Spell Pool but can deliver it with Channel without expending their per reset uses.

Channel: This skill changes how the character delivers their spells. Instead of throwing spells with packets, they deliver a spell with their melee weapon. To use this skill, the call is "Magic<Spell Name><Damage and Flavor/Effect>" and then swinging their weapon. The Spell Slot/Spell Pool points are expended regardless of if the attack hits or misses. This skill follows all the normal spell rules for affecting a target, as well as the Flurry rules for weapon swings.

Monk

Monks are a specialized melee class focused on honing their body as a balanced weapon. They have mastered the ability to fight and survive with the barest of means. While they are capable of standing the front line in a fight they also have the flexibility to be very mobile taking advantage of an ever-changing battle field.

While they spend a great deal of time training in what appears to be the ways of combat from an onlooker this is not the case. A monks training is a molding on oneself into a truly centered form.

Armor: Monks rely on speed and dexterity to avoid hits rather than soaking the impact of a strike. While they can wear up to Medium Armor, more advanced Monks will wear lighter armor as they become more adapt in their arts.

Weapon Proficiencies: Monks are skilled with the following weapons: Brawl, Short Weapon, Medium Weapon, Staff, and Thrown.

Combat Slots: Monks have access to a limited amount of martial skill and Combat Techniques. They are limited to a maximum purchase of 9, 1st Tier Combat Slots.

Class Features

Unarmed Combat: Monks are trained in the art of fighting without weapons, and therefore do not suffer the drawbacks of not being able to use Combat Techniques with Brawling weapons.

Additionally, Monks can use up to Medium length Brawl weapons.

Meditation: Reaching a state of harmony takes years of practice and constant work to maintain. Each reset the character will gain a pool of Chi points that they can use to power a few abilities. A character begins with 2 Chi each reset at 1st level and gain 1 additional Chi every 3 character levels after that, (IE. 1st, 4th, 7th, and so on.). They can use their Chi for the following:

- 1 Chi- Gain Fast Healing 5 for 1 hour or module, while not in combat.
- 1 Chi- Gain a reflexive Evade, this will be triggered on the first attack it would work on and cannot be stacked with itself.
- 2 Chi- Increase Dexterity Armor by 10 points, this goes over class maximum, for 5 minutes or 1 Encounter.
- 2 Chi- Increase Flurry by an additional 1 for 5 minutes or 1 Encounter.
- 3 Chi- Can Natural Stabilize a target with no counted action, within melee reach.

Perfect Harmony: Monks spend countless hours practicing both combat and meditation. With this effort comes a level of unmatched focus, allowing them to quickly enter a focused combat stance. This grants the character a +1 to their Flurry limit with Brawl weapons, and Immunity to Berserk.

Paladin

Paladins are on the most durable, survivable, and self-sufficient class in the game. As such, they make very well rounded character. In a party, they can serve as a Defender, Healer, or Striker.

Paladins are extremely versatile and can survive a long hard day of adventuring, but due to their split focus of skills they must carefully balance how they build themselves. They have a strong list of class features, that changes how they interact with the game.

Armor Proficiency: Paladins can wear up to Medium Armor.

Weapon Proficiencies: Paladins are skilled with the following weapons: Short Weapon, Medium Weapon, Long Weapon, Small Shield, and Medium Shield.

Spell Casting: Paladins have access to the Spirit path of magic, as defined in the Magic and Spells chapter. They are limited to a maximum number of 1st level Spell Slots, they can only purchase 6.

Combat Slots: Paladins have access to a limited amount of martial skill and Combat Techniques. They are limited to a maximum purchase of 6, 1st Tier Combat Slots.

Class Features

Lay Hands: This skill allows the character to heal a target for up to 30 Body Points. To use this skill the character must be and touching the target with a free hand. This skill can be used once each reset at 1st level and once again for each 8-character levels, (IE. 1st, 8th, 16th, and so on.)

Grace: Paladins have mastered the art of mixing their martial prowess and magical aptitude; their weapons become an extension of themselves and they can use their weapon to touch cast spells, this count as their “free hand” for casting.

Ranger

For those who relish the thrill of the hunt, there are only predators and prey. Be they scouts, trackers, or bounty hunters, rangers share much in common: unique mastery of specialized weapons, skill at stalking even the most elusive game, and the expertise to defeat a wide range of quarry. Knowledgeable, patient, and skilled hunters, these rangers hound man, beast, and monster alike, gaining insight into the way of the predator, skill in varied environments, and ever more lethal martial prowess. While some track man-eating creatures to protect the frontier, others pursue more cunning game—even fugitives among their own people.

Rangers are deft skirmishers, capable of skillfully dancing in and out of battle. Their abilities allow them to deal significant harm to their foes, most commonly with a hail of arrows.

Armor Proficiencies: Rangers can wear up to Light Armor.

Weapon Proficiencies: Rangers are skilled in the following weapons: Short Weapon, Medium Weapon, Short bow, Longbow, Gun, Spear, and Thrown.

Combat Slots: Rangers have access to a limited amount of martial skill and Combat Techniques. They are limited to a maximum purchase of 12, 1st Tier Combat Slots.

Class Features

Hunters Mark: This skill allows the Ranger to mark their target with unerring accuracy. This attack automatically hits a target within Line of Sight. To use this skill, the player must make the following call; “<Target> Voice <Skill Name/Effect>”. The target of the attack may use any defense that would normally apply to a Ranged Weapon attack. If the skill is used to deal only damage, the attack gains a +5 Permanent Weapon Damage bonus for the attack. This skill may be used 3 times each reset plus an additional time for each 5 character levels (1st, 5th, 10th, etc.).

Skilled Hunter: As masters of the hunt, Rangers gain a few benefits when using this ability; even without the Track skill they can gain the benefits of the “Observation” without making a Contested Roll; they only need to study the area for 2 minutes instead of the normal 5 needed for observation, and they receive a +1 Bonus if they do so before tracking.

Hunter’s Tactics: Chasing down your prey requires you to not only be able to follow their trail, but you also must get inside their head. Whenever you successfully use Skilled Hunter to identify a foe, your first Hunters Mark attack does not consume one of your daily uses.

Trickster

Life is an endless adventure for those who live by their wits. Ever just one step ahead of danger, rogues bank on their cunning, skill, and charm to bend fate to their favor. Never knowing what to expect, they prepare for everything, becoming masters of a wide variety of skills, training themselves to be adept manipulators, agile acrobats, shadowy stalkers, or masters of any of dozens of other professions or talents. Thieves and gamblers, fast talkers and diplomats, bandits and bounty hunters, and explorers and investigators all might be considered tricksters, as well as countless other professions that rely upon wits, prowess, or luck. Although many tricksters favor cities and the innumerable opportunities of civilization, some embrace lives on the road, journeying far, meeting exotic people, and facing fantastic danger in pursuit of equally fantastic riches. In the end, any who desire to shape their fates and live life on their own terms might come to be called a trickster.

Tricksters excel at moving about unseen and catching foes unaware and tend to avoid head-to-head combat. Their varied skills and abilities allow them to be highly versatile, with great variations in expertise existing between different rogues. Most, however, excel in overcoming hindrances of all types, from unlocking doors and disarming traps to outwitting magical hazards and conning dull-witted opponents.

Armor Proficiency: Tricksters can wear up to Light Armor.

Weapon Proficiencies: Tricksters are skilled with the following weapons: Short Weapon, Medium Weapon, Gun, Short Bow, Spear, Thrown.

Additionally, they gain the Florentine Power for free.

Combat Slots: Tricksters have access to a limited amount of martial skill and Combat Techniques. They are limited to a maximum purchase of 12, 1st Tier Combat Slots.

Class Features

Poison Use- This skill allows the character to apply Blade Poisons, without need of the Chemistry skill, to a weapon so that they can be used later. Normally up to 1 Blade Poison can be stored on Short Weapons/Thrown/Ammo, 2 on Medium/Long Weapons, and 3 on Great Weapons. Tricksters can stack 1 additional Blade Poison on their weapons. In the case of Vorpal the weapon gains the effect of the Blade Poison for all attacks leading up to a successfully landed attack; for all other Blade Poisons it is consumed on the next swing hit or miss. This skill takes a 10 counted action to safely apply each poison to the weapon. If placed on Ranged weapons the effect is only good for a single attack hit or miss.

Deft Blows: This ability allows the Trickster to use deception when teaming up on foes in melee. This increases their damage with melee weapons by 1 point when engaging enemies with their allies.

Cat-Like Grace: Grace and finesse are a way of life and as such ample training has paid off. The character can perform movement and dexterity related Feats of Strength/physical challenges as though they had an additional +2 Permanent Strength.

Skill Definitions

Skill Rules

Active skills are those that have a limited reset usage, such as Parry, or have a constant function, such as Long Sword. Active skills can only be used when a character is conscious and able to meet the requirements for completing the action.

Whenever you use a skill that requires a Combat Slot, the Combat Slot is expended and lost as soon as the skill is activated. If a skill does not list special rules for what you must say when the skill is used, then the Name of the skill is what you must announce at the time of use.

Mastery Skills

Are special skills that a character can use once each Reset for each time they purchase this skill. These skills must have an instructor that have a higher number of purchases, until the character reaches 3 purchases of an individual Mastery, after which the character no longer needs an instructor for that skill.

Deterrence Skills

These skills will allow the character to avoid potentially hostile encounters, or at least give the party an upper hand, while on Modules or Encounters that Marshals deem appropriate. These skills can only be used prior to the start of combat and cannot be activated once combat starts since they will either negate the encounter in some portion or will greatly affect the opposing forces and they will need to have their stats adjusted. These can be used once each Reset per purchase.

Ley Magic Skills

These skills allow the character to augment their Spells. Each Ley Magic costs a set number of Ley Points to use, in addition some require Combat Slots, Spell Slots, or Spell Pool points. Minor Ley Magic costs one Ley Point, Standard costs two, and Major costs three. Additionally, each time a Ley Magic skill is purchased; the character gains one additional Ley Point. Ley Magic skills cannot be used in conjunction with each other.

Abundant Leap (Mastery)

This skill allows the character to make almost super natural performances of athletic prowess. When activated the character can perform the Feat of Strength(Jump) as though they had an additional +4 Permanent Strength. Additionally, this can be used to block an opponent attempting to leave an encounter using Flee.

Aerial Totem (Mastery)

This skill allows the character to summon a totem of an aerial creature to grant them one of the following buffs: Immunity to Blind and can attack Hidden and Concealed targets, or Character gains 3 uses, hit or miss, of "Natural Venom Strike" with their melee weapons, or up to +2 Permanent Strength and allows the character to Break from Pin and Bind. This skill lasts for up to 1 hour or Module. A character can have 1 Totem active at a time.

Adrenaline Rush

This skill allows the character to call upon a surge of might to overcome the odds. When used the character gains one of the following benefits: Gain +4 Permanent Strength for Feats of Strength for up to 10 seconds, can Break Free From a single Pin/Bind effect, or increase their Bleed Out count by up to 60 seconds (this option can be used while Bleeding Out). This skill can be used once each reset.

Agility (Mastery)

This skill becomes active by announcing "Agility!" Once activated, it lasts for 5 minutes or 1 Encounter, whichever is longer. While this skill is in use, the character will take Reduced: Half Damage, rounded up, from all numerical damaging effects, such as weapon damage. This ability does not reduce effects, such as Nausea or Sleep, or any other effect that does not deal damage.

Alter Magic (Ley Magic)

This Ley Magic skill allows the character to convert their unused Combat Slots into raw magic. In addition to the normal 2 Ley Points used to activate this skill the character also expends up to 3 levels of Combat Slots. Each level of Combat Slot spent gives the character 3 levels worth of Spell Slots they can cast, up to 9 total levels. These Spell Slots must be used in the next 5 minutes or Encounter, or they are considered expended and lost.

Arcane Spell (Ley Magic)

This skill allows the character to cast a spell in its rawest form. When used, the character substitutes the normal spell casting incant with “Arcane <Spell Name>” for a single spell; or if used with Spell Pool points, it changes the Delivery Type for the current Pool. Example: Instead of the incant “I force the will to Charm You”, the call would become “Arcane Charm”. This skill costs 3 Ley Points.

Aquatic Totem (Mastery)

This skill allows the character to summon a totem of an aquatic creature to grant them one of the following buffs: Gains Underwater Combat and Breathe Liquid with no restriction, or Character gains 6 uses of the “Massive” Modifier, or Character gains 10 Natural Armor that stack above class maximum. This skill lasts for up to 1-hour or Module. A character can have 1 Totem active at a time.

Aura Emulation (Ley Magic)

This skill allows the character to funnel their magic outward as a defense in response to a successful melee weapon strike. This is an Active defense, and therefore cannot be used against Surprise. Skills or abilities that prevent the strike from making contact, such as Dodge, Parry or Magic Shield will prevent this skill from being used. The call for this defense is “Magic Aura <Flavor>”, which will automatically strike the attacker, dealing 30 points and the flavor is based on the characters Spell Pool for Magus/Evoker, Lighting for Caller, and Spirit for Healer/Paladin. This aura can be negated by appropriate defenses, and costs 1 Ley Point to use.

Barrier (Mastery)

This skill allows the character to funnel their magic into damage absorbing barrier on themselves. This grants the character 20 points of damage negation, which cannot be readjusted, does not stack with other armor buffs, and are the first points lost.

Bending Reed (Mastery)

By focusing the chi in their body, a Monk can lessen the impact of weaker blows. This skill grants the character Threshold5, lasting for 5 Minutes or one Encounter.

Boost Shifting

This skill is broken into 3 different categories, Defensive, Offensive, and Utility; and must be purchased separately for each. Once purchased the characters’ stats when shifted will change, as outlined in Appendix 1.

Brawl

Allows a character to use Short Weapons as fists (one in each hand), for melee combat. These weapons must be Yellow in color, cannot have a cross guard, and deal 1 points of base damage. Characters can apply Focus and Precision damage to their attacks made with this skill; however, they cannot use any Class Features or Combat Techniques. The weapons gained from this skill do not count as claws for the purposes of prerequisites.

Brew Potion

This skill allows the character to create potions that store the power of magical spells to be used later. Each time the skill is purchased, what they can produce and the amount they can produce, is increased. For more information, see the Production section of the book.

Bull Rush (Deterrence)

This skill allows the character to change the battlefield by charging headlong into the fray. When used it will affect up to 10 target enemies in the next Encounter. This skill will remove up to 1 defense from the targets.

Cancel Magic

This skill allows the character to end the duration of any spell that they encounter. The time it takes to cancel the spell depends on the spell's duration: if the spell's duration is in minutes, it takes 1 minute of concentration; if the spell's duration is in hours, it takes 10 minutes of concentration; and if the spell's duration is in days, or is a lasting effect, it takes 1 hour of concentration.

Chain Spell

This skill allows a character to maximize the efficiency of their Spell Slots when casting certain spells. Each time this skill is purchased, the character can affect an additional target with touch cast spells. This skill can only be used in conjunction with the Protective, Blade, Healing, Summon, and Dispel effects. To use this ability, the caster must complete the normal spell incant and add "Chain Spell" to the end of the incant. They must then plant their foot and can then touch each recipient with a packet and call "Magic<Effect>". This must be done immediately after casting the spell roughly within 5 to 10 seconds. The caster only spends a single Spell Slot for the spell being cast once. This skill can be purchased a maximum of four times.

Chemistry

This skill allows the character to create poisons and elixirs. Each time the skill is purchased, what they can produce and the amount they can produce, is increased. For more information, see the Production section of the book.

Chi Strike (Mastery)

The skill allows the character to deliver their Brawl damage and effects with packets, for the up to 5 minutes or one Encounter. This ability does not function with the Choke Hold skill.

Combat Slots

This skill allows a character to use their Combat Techniques. Each time a Combat Slot is purchased, a character can use a Technique of that Tier once each reset. Each time a character purchases a Combat Slot they gain a new Basic Technique. There are a few rules for how to buy slots; first each class is limited to a maximum number of Tier 1 Combat Slots they can purchase, which can be found in the Class descriptions, second a character can never have more slots of a higher level than a lower level. See Combat Slots and Techniques for more info.

Cook, Minor/Standard/Major

This skill allows a character to spend time in game creating items that can be consumed for some in game benefit, such as healing, curing of ailments, granting them temporary defense, or even restoring expended resources. Each cooking recipe will have the cost, time to prepare, and effect listed on it. If taken at character creation, the character will begin with 2 Minor recipes.

Craftsman

This skill can be taken for any art of crafting the player chooses. Some examples are: Glassblower, Brewer, Herbalist, Baker, Etc. At Event Check In, for each purchase of this skill, the character will either receive 10 Copper per rank, or produce appropriate tagged items related to their art of crafting. This skill has a max of 20 Ranks.

Create Familiar

This skill allows the character to manifest some of their raw energy into a physical form; bringing into existence a Quasit. A Quasit is a tiny, about mouse sized, but intelligent elemental creature that will stay with its creator. It remains Invisible unless the creator so chooses, at marshal discretion a Quasit can perform simple non-combat tasks. At event check in the character chooses which flavor of creature is summoned, Fire/Stone/Water/Wind. While summoned the character gains a Resist<Flavor> that matches the familiar, useable once each reset.

Create Grove (Mastery)

This skill allows the character to imbue an area with the power of nature, returning it to a purer state. The character must spend 5 minutes concentrating and role-playing to create the protective barrier on an area or small building. For the next 5 days the area is protected from unnatural creatures; Undead, Golems, Elementals, Fey, and Abominations, as well as a few other types, cannot enter into the area. A Phys-Rep of green lights must surround the area, if outside; or around the primary doorway if created on a building. This effect cannot be stacked with a Wizard Lock.

The glyph must be Red in color, have 4 lines and 3 dots and must be 6"x6", cannot be moved once created, and must be filled with a spell within 5 seconds of its creation or the glyph is lost. The next spell Touch Cast on to the glyph (and only effects the Glyph) will be stored. Once stored it can be used by anyone, by simply touching the glyph and stating, "Activate Glyph Magic <Spell Name>". Casting the spell follows all the standard spell casting rules. The tag for the spell should be attached to the glyph rep.

Create Phylactery

This power allows the character to manifest some of their raw energy into a physical form; by scribing glyphs upon the air. Once scribed the glyphs become Invisible but hang in the air around the character, granting them the ability to Resist Shadow or Disease (Rot, Plague, Wound, Vampiric) once each reset. Additionally, the character will be seen as less of a threat, when interacting with NPCs, meaning they less likely to outright attack them if they are hostile, if they are not already hostile they may even show a more favorable side toward the character, this can be announced as "Peaceful Aura".

Diagnose

This skill will allow the character to determine the condition of the creature, by asking the following questions: "Are you- (Dying, Dead, Conscious, Unconscious, Venomed, Diseased, Stunned, Sleeping, How much body are you down)?" discretion. You must be within arm's reach of the target though you do not have to touch them.

mechanical devices. The use of this skill requires a Contested Roll (see page 218), must be role-played, and takes 2 minutes of concentration to attempt. This skill can also be used to arm traps which also take 2 minutes of concentration. Some traps or puzzles may have physical components that can be disarmed without a Contested Roll, and the player has the option to still make the Contested Roll or can choose to physically try and disable the trap/puzzle and once the choice is made you cannot go with the other option. A large advantage to physically disabling the trap is that there is no time restriction and you can disable as fast as you physically can. A player can spend 30 seconds to analyze the object to be disabled at the end of which the marshal will tell them the level of the item as well as how well-crafted it is. Trap/Lock level is equal to the production cost of the item. This skill has a max of 20 Ranks, and each Rank adds 1 Bonus to the characters Contested Rolls.

You may ask questions to a Marshal or Plot member during a game; however, they may or may not have an answer for you at that time. Reasonable answers will be given immediately. Each time a rank of Knowledge (Area) is purchased, the character will gain 1 knowledge point. Purchasing the 5th rank will award 2 points instead of 1. All knowledge points are in a shared pool and can be used as the character needs with any Knowledge (Area) that they have. Appendix 2 has a list of what each knowledge area can do and the point cost to generate said effects. The highest effect that can be generated is capped by the rank in that Knowledge (Area) the player has purchased. Each reset a player can spend a limited number of the Knowledge points in a given Knowledge; they can spend a maximum of 2 times their current rank in the associated skill from their pool of points. This skill allows the character to strike fear in their foes. This can only be used against targets that are within melee weapon reach and is delivered as "<Target> Voice Arcane Fear".

Stash (Mastery)

This skill allows the character to hide an object, which may contain other items, for up to 3 hours. The object to be hidden can be no larger than 1 cu.ft. in total area. When this skill is used the character must place a "Stash" tag on the item and write the time the skill was used on the back of the tag. While similar to Secret Box this item can be found though not easily. To notice that there is a stash a character must have at least rank 10 in the Track skill, and even then, must make a Contested Roll that is considered to have 10 levels of counter tracking.

Storm (Ley Magic)

This skill allows the character to enter a stance by planting their right foot and announcing, "Spell Storm". This effect will last until the player falls unconscious, moves their foot, or uses any other Active Skills. While active, the player can throw an infinite number of packet attacks called as "Magic 10<Flavor>", with the flavor based on the character's paths (Evokers choose Fire, Stone, Water, or Wind, and Healers throw Spirit). This skill costs 3 Ley Points to use.

Strike a Chord (Deterrence)

Music soothes the savage beast and does not stop there. With a short performance you cause certain target types to drift into an entranced state, this allows your party of up to 10 players to move past the encounter without engaging. This skill only works when dealing with creatures that are not Immune to Mental Effects.

Sudden Storm (Deterrence)

Pulling on the natural forces around you, you summon up dense fog and high winds giving your party cover as you slip past a potential fight, this allows your party of up to 10 players to move past the encounter without engaging. This skill only works while on Modules set in a natural terrain.

Survival

This skill allows the character to make the best of their surroundings. When used, this skill can have different effects chosen at the time of use. Increase the character's death count by 120 seconds (this option can be used while Dead; or to scrounge up loose objects that can be used as crude tools or make-shift weapons for a single encounter; or ignore a Minor negative effect of a Terrain they are in for a combat. This skill can be used once each reset.

Take Cover (Deterrence)

This skill allows the character to change the battlefield by drawing fire. When used it will affect up to 10 target enemies in the next Encounter. This skill will remove up to 2 Strikes from the targets.

Theurgist, Minor/Standard/Major

This skill allows a character to operate a Node and collect Residium components from it. The amount and type of components that are collected is based on the level of skill the character has purchased. Additionally, the character can Refine and Extract components.

For more information, see Appendix 3.

Thrown

This skill makes the character proficient with all thrown weapons.

Tongue of the Land

The character gains the ability to speak with natural plants and rock formations. While most of the time such are not too smart, and communication can be difficult, the character can ask 2 questions that will be answered with a yes or no, of a given creature.

Track

This skill allows the character to detect and follow the marks a target's passage leaves on the environment it passes through, or to conceal the user's trail from others. It can also be used to gain information about the target creature, or creatures being tracked. To track, you must have a Marshal to perform a Contested Roll. Unless tracking conditions change drastically, only

Contested Roll pick should ever be needed to determine success or failure. Once you have failed a Contested Roll you are considered to have lost the trail and may not try again. At the time you wish to Track, you may choose to first make what is called an "Observation", where the character spends 5 minutes studying the area. This Contested Roll, if successful, will allow you to learn information about the target being tracked, though if you fail this pick you cannot make a normal Track Contested Roll. The advantage of the "Observation" is that you do not incur as many of the normal negatives since they do not yet apply. This skill has a max of 20 Ranks, and each Rank

Tracking Chart

This skill allows the character to deliver the effect "Arcane Turn Shadow/Elemental", with their weapon or a packet. This will cause an effected target to move away from the user as per the Fear effect for 30 seconds. This effect will break if the target suffers any damage. Paladins use Turn Shadow and Magus use Turn Elemental.

Unburden (Mastery)

This skill allows the character to temporarily overcome the touch cast limitation of Medium and Large Shields for 5 minutes or one combat, as well as the Bomb and Vial restriction.

Only the following mechanics are affected by this skill and anything not listed remains the same: weapons deal full damage, Spells can now be thrown, Bombs can be used (dealing only half damage), Acid Vials can be used (dealing only half damage), and the character can move at a slow walk. For the rules for Water Combat see page 245.

Warning Signs (Deterrence)

The signs are everywhere if you are looking for them. You can pick out tracks quick enough to notice a bad situation before you walk into, allowing you to find another route. This allows your party of up to 10 players to move past the encounter without engaging. This skill only works so long as there is another way to proceed.

Combat Slots and Techniques

Techniques

These skills are used in conjunction with Combat Slots, and are separated into Basic and Advanced (noted by "*" on the class charts). Each time a character purchases a Combat Slot they gain a new Basic Technique of that Tier, In-Game they can also be instructed in more. To gain Advanced Techniques the character must have at least 2 Combat Slots of the appropriate Tier, in addition to a teacher.

In order to use a Technique a character must have the following, an unused Combat Slot of the appropriate Tier, the Technique on their character sheet they want to use, be wielding the required weapon type; and must not be under an effect/condition that would prohibit the use of skills. If the character meets all of the requirements listed they can use the skill. When a Technique is used the character will announce the name of the skill (unless the skill provides a specific call when used), thus activating it; and then follow the specific rules for that skill. Some Techniques are instantaneous, while others have a number of uses or duration. Once the Technique has been called the Combat Slot is expended for the reset. In the case of most Offensive and some Utility Techniques, they allow for a limited number of attacks which are expended hit or miss.

Powers do not function like skills they are always considered to be in effect. Powers either give characters' access to a new ability or change the function of a skill they already have. At 1st level, all characters start with 1 power, and they gain an additional power at 4th level and every 4 levels after, i.e., 1st, 4th, 8th, 12th, Etc...

In addition to the normal powers, every 10 levels players will gain an extra power that can only be used for a power that is race specific, Humans are the exception to this they can pick any power they have the prerequisites for.

If a power has prerequisites, then all must be met before the power can be purchased. All powers can only be purchased one time unless noted otherwise. Unless indicated otherwise powers that have a daily use cannot be used simultaneously.

Acrobatics

Prerequisite: Dodge

This power allows the character to get the most out of every opportunity. Whenever they use a skill from their Defensive tree they gain a Barrier effect, these points do not stack with themselves and are the first to be lost.

Additional Shift*

Prerequisite: Caller

This power allows the character to use their Empowered Shifting ability 2 additional times each reset.

Ambidexterity

Prerequisite: None

This power reflects a character natural skill with both hands, this grants them the following abilities: they can move their Focus and Precision bonus damage to either hand, though this takes a 5 counted action and while wield a weapon in each hand their flurry limit increases by 1, to 4 swings.

Amp

Prerequisites: Bard

When wielding an instrument weapon, the base damage of the weapon is increased by 1 point.

Amplify Barrier

Prerequisite: Magus

This power increases the effect of the characters Barrier skill. The skill will now absorb 30 points of damage instead of the normal 20 points.

Animal Speech

Prerequisite: Caller

This power allows the character to talk normally while shape changed, as well as will let them communicate with animals of similar breed. This does not allow spell casting or using magic items that require speech to activate.

Arcane Study

Prerequisites: Spell Devotion

Elves have always been known for their link and skill when it comes to magic, and as such, the power improves upon their magical ability. This power increases the characters Spell Pool by 10 points.

Armor Efficiency

Prerequisites: Armor Proficiency

This power allows the character to get the most out of the armor they wear. This will increase the armor gained from a phys-rep by 1 tier of armor, Example a suit that qualifies as a Medium Armor would be valued as Heavy Armor while worn. The character is still limited to their maximum armor value.

Whirlwind

Prerequisite: Overwhelming Power

The character's overwhelming strength and skill with Great Weapons allows them to attack all their nearby foes at once. This Power allows the character to use the Burst Modifier twice each reset.

Wyld Heart

Prerequisite: Guardian

This Power binds the character's body with the might of nature. When the character uses Primal Fury, they gain Damage Cap 5 for the duration of the ability.

Years of Mastery

Prerequisite: High-Elf

This power allows the character to pick a Knowledge (Area) skill that they have no ranks in and gain 3 ranks instantly; in the case of Rare Knowledge (Area) skills, the character must still meet the normal prerequisites.

Magic and Spell Casting

Magic is an important part of any Fantasy style game. It is also more complex than most other aspects of such a game, and this one is no exception. This section should explain Magic and how to use it; in addition to a listing of effects, to help you better understand what spells are.

Once a character purchases Spell Slots or Signature Spell, their hands glow faintly with magical energy.

Spell Pool and Spell Cap

A Spell Pool grants the character a pool of Magical Healing/Damage. This grants the character a pool that will heal/damage the target and can be used in multiples of 5 points and is cast with the incant "I Summon X <Flavor>", where X is the amount of damage/healing, and Flavor is Healing for Spirit casters, or Fire/Stone/Water/Wind for Elemental casters. Callers are the exception to this, as their Signature Spell grants them a pool of Natural damage called as "Natural X Lightning". Example: A Healer could use 15 points of healing in one cast to generate "I Summon 15 Healing". To recharge their Spell Pool, the character must spend 3 minutes Concentrating."

Spell Cap- This refers to the most damage/healing that can be done in a single casting. This number by default is 20 points for Caller, Evoker, Healer; and 10 points for Magus and Paladin.

Spell Casting

To cast spells the player must know the correct spell "Incant". An incant is the combination of words that you must say to properly cast a spell. Incants for Spells are In Game. If you say anything incorrectly, then you have miscast the spell, and it will have no effect, though the Spell Slot for the spell will still be expended.

There are a few rules that all characters must follow when casting spell. First, they must have the spell they wish to cast in a Spell Book on their person. Second, they must have the available Spell Slot unused equal to the spells level. Third, they must have a free hand. This means that their hands cannot be tied or bound in any way. Fourth, the character must be able to speak In-Game. Once you have correctly said the Incant you have 3 seconds to throw the spell packet at a target. If you do not throw it within 3 seconds, then the spell becomes a miscast. If you miss, and the packet does not hit anything, the Spell Slot is still expended, but the spell has no effect. For purposes of determining a hit or miss with spells, the entire body and all possessions are valid targets, though you should never intentionally target the face or groin. Consistent hits to the face or groin of an opponent may cause action to be taken, just like improper weapon hits. In addition, the intended target of a spell should be capable of hearing you in the tone and volume you cast it. This is NOT saying the target must hear you, but that they should have been ABLE to, under the circumstances. During a noisy battle, sometimes people will not hear spell castings they should have. Do not become angry. Simply inform them of the effect. You may need to call a Hold to do so. Holds will be explained later.

Spell Books

To cast spells, the character is required to carry a Spell Book on them containing the spells they want to cast, which must be from the appropriate path of magic.

Touch Casting

Beneficial spells can be cast by touch. The recipient, if conscious, can allow the casting to pass through their protectives without setting them off. Touch cast spells require the caster to maintain contact with the target during the incant with a packet or free hand. A character can resist touch cast spells by stating, "I do not accept". Protective, Blade, Healing, Summon, and Dispel effects can be touch cast.

#- Indicates a spell can be used with Chain Spell.

Concentration

This duration requires the user of the effect to focus all their attention upon that effect, exclusive from all other active skills and abilities. Passive skills and abilities may be used. See Passive Skills/Abilities. Additionally, concentration is lost if the caster takes any damage, or they do not meet any other casting rules, with the exception of being out of Spell Slots.

Instant

This duration means that the effect happens as soon as the target is struck with the effect.

Line of Sight

This duration is identified by location of the originator of the effect vs. the location of the target of the effect. It does not require that the originator of the effect actually looks at the target all the time. However, it DOES require that each COULD see the other if they chose to do so. A human barrier is never considered sufficient to break Line of Sight (LOS). It requires a real barrier, such as a building, a wall, a curve in the road, etc... In addition, it is broken if the caster of the effect becomes unconscious or dies. The LOS effect has a maximum duration of 1 hour. Spells with LOS end when the caster dies, or LOS has been broken for 10 seconds.

Until Used

This duration most often applies to protective spells and auras. These effects will stay active until expended or the character is Dead.

*No matter the spell's duration, all effects end at the close of an Event.

Additional Spell Rules

Charge Pool

These spells grant a pool of similar effects that can be thrown during the duration. A character can only have 1 such pool active at a time and casting of a new pool will cancel the existing one. These spells are caster only.

Shield

These spells each have a matching spell for each flavor. A target can only have 1 Shield of each type at any given time. Meaning these spells do not stack with themselves.

Blade Spells

A character can only have 3 total blade spells at any given time. Should they already have 3 blade spells on them, and a new blade spell is cast on them, they can choose to keep the new spell and drop one of the old ones.

Deprive

These spells take something away from the target, be it strength or skills. No target can be under the effects of multiple of the same Deprive effects, the newest casting replaces others. Therefore, the most recent casting of such a spell takes precedence for effects and duration.

Pattern

These spells create a specific effect on the target that enhances their person or their abilities. A character cannot be under the effect of more than one pattern at a time.

While the box is not detectable by most means, Detect Magic cast while near the box will feel the presence of the magic but it will not give any insight that the box is there. However, there are some powers that could allow the box to be found and opened by someone other than the caster. At the end of the duration the box will remain where it is, meaning if the box is left 'hidden' at the end of the 5 days the box slips away and is lost. This spell may be used in conjunction with the Chain Spell skill, allowing one additional target that can be invested per level of the skill. It must be noted on the character sheet as well as the Marshal Notes who is invested in the Secret Box.

Only one doorway may still be used to enter or exit and that must be clearly marked with a "W" on both sides; and a phys-rep, of a string of Red lights must surround the functioning doorway to the building. If the applicable doorway has been opened, then passage through it is possible until it has been fully closed. When this spell is cast the originator and one other character, chosen by the caster, that is present are considered invested in the lock and can open the door on a 3 counted action, lowering the effect until the door is shut again. If used in conjunction with the Chain Spell, one additional target can be invested per level of the skill. It must be noted on the character sheet as well as the Marshal Notes who is invested in the lock. This spell cannot be placed on a building that has the Grove effect on it.

"I Twist the Fabric to Create a Lock"

Command

Type: Charm

This spell will cause the target to become bent to the caster will. The target will follow the next command of the caster, a 4-9-word phrase, to the best intent; however, the target will not cause direct harm to themselves; for example, you could command a bandit to "go to the town guard and turn yourself in", but you could not tell him to "jump from a very high bridge".

This spell will return a creature to life at 1 Body Point. It will also remove any negative physical effects that were on the body at the time of death such as missing limbs. This spell will only work on a target that is in their 4-minute dissipation count.

"I Call Upon the Cycle to Grant Life"

Petrify

Duration: Instant

School: Transmutation

Type: Summon

This spell turns the target to stone, though Huge or Massive creatures may reduce this effect. Once turned to stone, the target's status is paused, meaning if they were under an effect with duration, then it is paused, and the remaining duration will resume when the petrified state is removed. Bleed out and dissipation counts will be paused. The stone form can be moved but requires +6 strength to do so. A petrified person is a viable target for a Destroy effect, which will end the Petrify effect and the target would then be considered Dead. If this spell is cast upon a target that is already Petrified, it will end the effect.

"I Twist the Fabric to Petrify You"

Production

Each production item has a rank, and that rank affects the cost to create the item In Game as well the Production Point cost of the Item. In the case of Runes and Potions, the rank is based on the spell's level, shown on the table on this page. Each Event, a character can produce several basic items at Check In with production points (no components are used), as long as they have the Recipe. Each rank of a production skill (including the Advanced rank) grants the character 3

Production Points each Event. Example: Felix has Scribe Runes Rank 2. He has 6 Production Points, so he could produce any rune he had a Recipe for up to 4th level spells, but up to 6 total levels of them in any combination. Most basic items created have a duration of 1 year. Weapons and armor have a duration of 1 month for each time the component cost is paid (maximum of 1 year), however, this does not increase the time to craft the item. For example, a Rank 2 weapon with the duration of 6 months would require 6 times the listed component cost to create. Advanced production items duration may vary.

Once in game, a character can produce more items at an appropriate workshop as long as they also have a Recipe and Components by spending 5 minutes per rank of the item working for basic items. Advanced Items vary in creation time based on the individual Recipe. Creation time can never be lowered further than 1 minute per item rank. Once a character has finished crafting, they must go to NPC camp and turn over the components to receive the item tag(s).

At character creation, a character will start with 1 Recipe for each rank of a single crafting skill they have.

A character, with the appropriate Advanced Production skill, can create a copy of a

Workshops can be acquired in-game by either being created or purchasing them from a guild. Only Minor workshops can be purchased, Standard and Major workshops are built in place and cannot be moved once built. Smithing and Engineering require a Forge, Brew Potion and Chemistry require a Laboratory, and Scribe Rune requires a Reliquary.

- Ore- Used for Smithing and Engineering
- Herbs- Used for Chemistry and Potions
- Residium- Used for Potions and Runes

Brew Potion

Brew Potion allows the character to store non-offensive spells into potions to be used later. Potions can be used by any player that is free to make a drinking motion, which takes a 3 counted action. All potions have duration of 1 year, after which they expire and become no longer useable.

To make a potion, the character must have: the recipe, the corresponding components, and have the appropriate Rank of Brew Potion (Rank 1 for 1st& 2nd level spells; Rank 2 for 3rd& 4th level spells; Rank 3 for 5th& 6th level spells, Rank 4 for 7th& 8th level spells; and Advanced for 9th level spells).

Potions that have the Restoration healing effect have their value based on the Recipe.

ADVANCED PRODUCTION

Advanced Potions can only be crafted in game at a Laboratory. Each Recipe will have the required materials and the time needed to craft the item. For information about the advanced recipes and the required components, download the Advanced Production Book from the website.

Chemistry

Chemistry is the mastery of mixing the natural elements of the world and creating a useful and sometimes deadly product. Chemistry creates Elixirs, which can be imbibed similar to potions to have an effect on the drinker, Salves, which can be applied to a surface for some effect or so that the next unlucky soul to touch it is exposed to the chemical, and finally Vials of toxic chemical that can have assorted effect on the target. Unless otherwise stated, you must have the rank of Chemistry equal to the production rank of the item in order to use it.

Salves- Requires a 3 count to apply to a target or surface.

Elixirs- Requires a 3 counted action to drink; doing so requires no special skill. To add the Elixir to food or drink requires a 3 counted and must be done in front of a Marshal; the first person to imbibe the food/drink will take the effect.

Vial- These are a thrown item and require the use of a packet, preferably orange. To throw the Vial the player must announce "Poison <Effect>Vial". Since it is an actual item they are throwing, they must have a free hand with which to throw the Vial and once the verbal has been said they have 3 seconds to throw the Vial or it is wasted. Vials function much like spells in that they affect the target if it strikes any part of them, their garb, or possessions.

Blade Poison- These poisons can be applied to a weapon that can be used at a later time. Up to 1

Blade Poison can be stored on Short Weapons/Thrown/Ammo, 2 on Medium/Long Weapons, and 3 on Great Weapons. In the case of Vorpall the weapon gains the effect of the Blade Poisons for all attacks leading up to a successfully landed attack; for all other Blade Poisons it is consumed on the next swing hit or miss. It takes a 10 counted action to safely apply each poison to a weapon. If placed on Ranged weapons the effect is only good for a single attack hit or miss.

Acid

Type: Vial

Duration: Immediate

Target takes damage of the specified amount, from volatile acid and fumes. The call for this Vial is different than the standard the call. The call is "Elemental <Damage> Acid".

Alchemical Solvent

Type: Salve

Duration: Immediate

This substance will eat away and weaken the surface it is applied to. If it is applied to a surface that has a chemical salve already present it will neutralize it. If placed on an item or surface that is not Indestructible, the item becomes weak and requires 2 fewer points of strength to break. 1 Dose of this salve will affect up to 1 square foot of surface, 1 inch thick.

Antidote

Type: Elixir

Duration: Immediate

This elixir will cure the imbiber of any Metabolic effects that currently affect their person.

Antitoxin

Elixir

Immediate

This elixir will allow the imbiber to Resist the next Toxin that affects them.

Berserk

Type: Salve, Vial

Duration: 30 Minutes

This chemical mixture causes the affected character to become Berserked, forcing them into a blind rage they will attack everyone in line of sight until the duration expires or they are unable to do so. This is a metabolic altering effect.

Blue Luster

Type: Elixir

Duration: 5 Minutes

This chemical will make the imbiber immune to Fear effects for the duration.

Catalyst, Greater

Type: Elixir

Duration: Instant

This chemical has no effect on its own, however when mixed with a potion that generates a protective, its effect multiplies. When the potion is in imbibed the effect will be double in some manner; if the effect has a duration then it is doubled, if the effect generates a shield/resist effect then it is doubled. This in fact grants the imbiber a double stacking of the same shield. It takes 1 minute to mix the elixir with the potion, after which the 2 tags must be clipped together, also once mixed they cannot be separated.

Catalyst, Lesser

Type: Elixir

Duration: Instant

This chemical has no effect on its own; however, it can be mixed with up to 3 potions. This concentrates all 3 potions into a single vial, allowing all 3 effects to be gained on a single action. It takes 1 minute to mix the elixir with the potion, after which the tags must be clipped together. Also, once mixed, they cannot be separated.

Catalyst, Minor

Type: Elixir

Duration: Instant

This chemical has no effect on its own, however when mixed with a potion that has a Restoration effect the effect of the potion is doubled. It takes 1 minute to mix the elixir with the potion, after which the 2 tags must be clipped together, also once mixed they cannot be separated.

Forget

Type: Elixir

Duration: Instant

This effect will cause a character to forget the 15 minutes prior to imbibing the elixir. All they will remember for the time frame is a blank spot and nothing else from that time. This must be Role-played.

Hardening Agent

Type: Salve

Duration: 1 hour

Applying this chemical to an item will increase its durability allowing the item to resist Shatter/Destroy effect once, after which the effects will fade.

Healing

Type: Elixir

Duration: Immediate

Target is cured for 5 Body Points. This is non-magical healing.

Intoxicant

Type: Elixir

Duration: Extended

An intoxicant is the equivalent to a strong alcoholic drink and will affect all races. While under the effect, which last 15 minutes per dose, the target is Slowed.

Liquid Light

Type: Salve

Duration: Until next sunrise

This creates a salve that when applied to an item will generate a Light effect allowing the player to use a diffused light source.

Nausea

Type: Salve, Elixir, Vial

Duration: 30 Minutes

The character becomes extremely nauseated and violently sick. They can use no game skills but can still speak in 3-4 word sentences.

Type: Salve

Duration: Extended

One dose of this oil covers up to one square foot and makes an area or item extremely slick. It can be used in a Counted Action to free a character from a Physical Entangle, Pin, Bind, or Web Effect. If placed on an object, it will make that object impossible to pick up (for 10 seconds from the first time it is touched). If on an area of ground or floor, anyone stepping into that area should roleplay sliding through or falling. This can be used as a Counted Action on a character not already subject to a Physical Entangle, Pin, Bind or Web (and not already so treated) to grant one Indefinite Resist (Physical Entangle, Pin, Bind, or Web), called as "Oil of Slipperiness." An Oil of Slipperiness may also be used to dissolve a Paste of Stickiness (negating both).

Paralysis

Type: Vial, Elixir, Salve

Duration: 30 Minutes

The target of this chemical becomes Paralyzed for the duration. During the duration they are still aware of the world around them so long as they are also conscious, but cannot move, speak, or use skills.

Paste of Stickiness

Type: Salve

Duration: Permanent

This paste is a strong glue, and a single application will cover up to one square inch. If the item treated touches another item for three seconds, the two stick together. This can be used to glue an item into a character's hand and this will automatically Resist the next Disarm/Fumble Effect against that item with the call, "Paste of Stickiness." A Paste of Stickiness may also be used to dissolve an Oil of Slipperiness (negating both). A Disarm Effect targeting any item stuck to another item with Paste of Stickiness will remedy the effect of the Paste of Stickiness.

Red Luster

Type: Elixir

Duration: 10 Minutes

This chemical forces the imbiber into a controlled Berserk effect, while under its effects the imbiber is immune to Fear and Shun effects, additionally if affected by a Berserk effect they do not lose control and gain +4 damage verse the player that generated the effect. While under this effect the character will pursue all enemies until there are none in sight.

Smelling Salts

Type: Salve, Vial

Duration: Instant

This chemical will remove the following effects from the target: Charm, Stun, Fear and Unconsciousness.

Vorpal Coating

Type: Blade Poison

Duration: 24 Hours

This contact gel is applied to a weapon and unlike all other Blade Poisons, needs, no special skill to use, once applied to the weapon. It adds the Vorpal bonus to the Base Weapon Damage for their next attack and is expended hit or miss.

ADVANCED PRODUCTION

Advanced Chemistry items can only be crafted in game at a Laboratory. Each Recipe will have the required materials and the time needed to craft the item. For information about the advanced recipes and the required components, download the Advanced Production Book from the website.

Engineering

Engineering allows a character to create locks, traps, bombs, and other technological devices. Unless otherwise stated, you must have the rank of Engineering equal to the production rank of the item in order to use it.

Bombs- These are thrown items and require the use of a packet, preferably red. To throw the bomb the player must announce “Elemental <Damage/Effect> Bomb”. Since it is an actual item they are throwing, they must have a free hand with which to throw the Bomb and once the verbal has been said they have 3 seconds to throw the Bomb or it is wasted. Bombs function much like spells in that they affect the target if it strikes any part of them, their garb, or possessions.

Traps- An Engineer may construct traps which can be set or disarmed by anyone with Disable Device; though engineers can arm traps, so long as it is a trap they can construct, which takes 2 minutes. All traps must contain three elements (a trigger, a mechanism, and a device) and those elements must be connected to one another by wires or strings. The trigger is the means by which the trap is set off, and includes such things as pressure switches, tripwires, and electrical contacts. The mechanism is the means by which a Marshal (or players) knows the trap was triggered, and includes such things as buzzers, mousetraps, and light bulbs. The device is the part of the trap that actually inflicts the Effect on the victims and is the point from which any distances are measured; unless otherwise stated traps have a 5 foot effect radius. A trap should not be set without Marshal Approval of the design of the trap. Traps cannot be set Out-of-Game by players without direct approval of a Marshal and should never be set Out-of-Game (by a player or Marshal) in such a way that a character could not have set them. Setting a trap In-Game requires that the player actually set up the props for the trigger, mechanism, and device, as well as complete a 2 minute Counted Action to arm the trap. (The actual set-up of the props can be done during the Counted Action, or before, or any combination thereof, but the set-up should not include arming the trap until the Counted Action is taken.) If this Counted Action is aborted, the setting character takes any effect during the Counted Action, or the mechanism of the trap is set off during the Counted Action, then the trap is set off by the person arming it. A character with Disable Device may disarm a trap by any action which prevents the trigger from triggering, prevents the mechanism from indicating the trap has gone off, or severs the connection between the mechanism and the device. This should not be done in such a way as to permanently damage the prop for the trap.

A trap that is armed is dangerous and can be set off by the slightest of actions including; being touched by a character without the Disable Device skill, being moved more than 5 feet from the initial arming location, and Shatter/Destroy effects on any part of a trap will cause that trap to go off.

Acid/Fire Trap

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering Skill to create a basic trap. The device for this trap is a container prop which must have a volume of at least 8 cubic inches and be at least one-half inch in its smallest dimension. Any character within five feet of the device when the trap goes off takes damage delivered as "Elemental 10 Fire/Acid". Anyone who takes this Damage Effect also suffers a Shatter effect on any exposed items not made of metal, bone, wood, or other hard materials. (Marshal judgment should include potions, pouches, cloth, components, scrolls, maps, globes, Bombs, etc.) An item inside a hardened container protects such items; items inside a non-hardened container (such as a leather pouch) protects the item if they are completely within, but not if any part of them is exposed. (The non-hardened container is destroyed either way.) Items within the area but not on persons are similarly affected. An Acid Trap or Fire Trap destroys itself when it goes off.

Alarm Trap

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create an Alarm trap. The device for this trap is something capable of producing loud noise or bright lights. For this type of trap the mechanism and the device can be the same item. The device should be made as appropriate to the game environment as possible. A Shatter or Destroy effect on the device of an Alarm Trap will destroy it without setting it off. An Alarm Trap is not destroyed by use and can be reset or recovered to be re-used (unless damaged or otherwise destroyed.)

Cannon

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering Skill to create a Cannon. This weapon is a multi-shot ranged weapon, with a maximum ammo capacity of 9 shots and has a base damage of 2. This can be repped by a Nerf style gun that fires foam darts. This weapon requires the Gun skill to use.

Explosive Trap

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create an Explosive Trap. The device for this trap is a container prop which must have a volume of at least sixty-four cubic inches and be at least 4 inch in its smallest dimension. Any character within five feet of the device when the trap goes off takes 10 points of damage. Anyone who takes this Damage Effect also has all valid items suffer a Shatter effect. Items within the area but not on persons are similarly affected.

Firebomb

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create a basic bomb. This bomb is a thrown attack, and on hit, the target takes damage of the specified amount from fire and shrapnel when the bomb explodes. The call to use this bomb is "Elemental <Damage> Firebomb". Once the call is completed, the packet must be thrown within three seconds or the holder takes the effect. If the call is mis-stated, the bomb was improperly prepared and is destroyed.

Flashbomb

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create a Flashbomb. This bomb is a thrown attack, and on hit, the target suffers the Blind effect for 10 seconds. The call to use this bomb is "Elemental Blind Bomb". Once the call is completed, the packet must be thrown within three seconds or the holder takes the effect. If the call is mis-stated, the bomb was improperly prepared and is destroyed.

Grandmaster Gas Trap

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create a Gas Trap. The device for this trap is a container prop which must have a volume of at least 48 cubic inches and be at least 2 inches in its smallest dimension. When setting this trap, the character setting the trap must tear tags for three Vials of the same type of Chemistry Vial. (The character need not have any skill in Chemistry.) Any character within 10 feet of the device when the trap goes off takes the effect of the Vial used. A Gas Trap is not destroyed when set off or disarmed, but the Vials included are. The trap itself may be recovered and reset with a new gas, unless otherwise damaged or destroyed.

Improved Tinker

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create an Improved Tinker. Like Minor Tinkers, these improve mechanical items. If used on a trap, the time to arm the trap is either reduced to a 3 counted action or will increase the area of effect of the trap to 10 feet. If used on a lock, it will make the lock reactive, such that on a failed Disable Device attempt it will break the user's Tools.

Locks

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering Skill to create Locks and Keys. A Lock's level can vary from 1 to beyond 20. When a Lock is created, it includes 2 Keys for that Lock; additional Keys can be made so long as the character making the new Key has one of the originals. The cost to make a Key is the same as a Tool of the appropriate rank. All Locks are crafted as either a Padlock or Container style. Padlock style can be used and moved over and over as they are not permanently attached to an item; however, Container style must be attached to a door, chest, or similar object, once attached it becomes a part of that object. A Lock that has been attached can never be removed; however, it also is no longer a valid target for Shatter and Destroy effects, since it is part of a larger whole.

Magnetized Plating

This item can be applied by any character with the Engineering skill, this item will temporally Repair a suit of armor that has been Breached or a weapon that has been Broken. These effects will last for up to 1 hour or until the item is broken again. This takes a 30 counted action to apply to the targeted item.

Master and Grandmaster Locks

These locks function the same as a normal lock however they require special Tools to Disable them. The tools must be of equal or higher quality to even attempt.

Master Gas Trap

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create a Gas Trap. The device for this trap is a container prop which must have a volume of at least 24 cubic inches and be at least 1 inch in its smallest dimension. When setting this trap, the character setting the trap must tear tags for three Vials of the same type of Chemistry Vial. (The character need not have any skill in Chemistry.) Any character within 5 feet of the device when the trap goes off takes the effect of the Vial used. A Gas Trap is not destroyed when set off or disarmed, but the Vials included are. The trap itself may be recovered and reset with a new gas, unless otherwise damaged or destroyed.

Master's Workings

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to make devices that are stronger than normal. This includes Locks, Tools, hinges, and any other appropriate plot-approved item. Such a reinforced device is more resistant to forces that would normally destroy the item. Each application gives the item one once-ever "Resist Shatter"; which can be called as a Resist to any Shatter or Destroy effect from a trap, spell, or other non-High Magic destructive force. An item may only have six such Resists; at one time. These share expiration with the item they reinforce.

Minor Tinker

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create a Minor Tinker. Minor Tinkers are small improvements on existing mechanical items. If used on a trap, the time to arm the trap is reduced by 30 seconds. If used on a Bomb, the damage is increased by 5 points of damage. If used on a lock, an extra 2 failures are

| Trap Type | Damage | Size Minimum cu.in. | Smallest Dimension |

| Basic Fire/Acid | 10 | 8 | 1 inch |

Pistol

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create a Pistol. This item is a multi-shot ranged weapon, with a Max Load of 6 shots and has a base damage of 3. This can be repped by a Nerf style gun that fires foam darts. This weapon requires the Gun skill to use.

Smoke Bomb Trap

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create a Smoke Bomb Trap. The device for this trap is a container prop which must have a volume of at least 48 cubic inches and be at least 2 inches in its smallest dimension. When triggered, this trap releases a large cloud of smoke that clears quickly. Any character within five feet of the device when the trap goes will suffer the Blind effect for 10 seconds. This trap is destroyed when it goes off.

Stun Bomb

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create a Stun Bomb. This bomb is a thrown attack, and on hit, the target suffers the Stun effect for 10 minutes. The call to use this bomb is "Elemental Stun Bomb". Once the call is completed, the packet must be thrown within three seconds or the holder takes the effect. If the call is mis-stated, the bomb was improperly prepared and is destroyed.

Tools

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create Tools. Tools are necessary to use the Disable Device skill on Traps and Locks. Basic Tools do not grant any bonus on Disable Device Contested Rolls.

Weapon Trap

This recipe allows a character with the Engineering skill to create a basic trap. The device for this trap is a boffer prop which must be at least 6 inches in its smallest dimension. Any character struck by the device takes 10 points of damage, delivered as a physical weapon attack. The device for a Basic Weapon Trap is a Marshal approved packet, boffer, or similar prop that must be rigged to fall, launch, or be mechanically thrown when the mechanism is activated. (In the case of a trap under direct Marshal Supervision, it is permissible for the Marshal to throw the device, but it must be done with the idea of mechanical launching in an indirect manner, or a direct manner at a pre-determined point, not aimed fire at a particular character. The first character struck by the device takes the Damage, as if the device were a normally swung/thrown weapon. (So the device may be blocked, parried, is considered a Physical delivered effect, etc...) A Shatter or Destroy effect on the device of a Weapon Trap will destroy it. A Weapon Trap is not destroyed by use and can be reset or recovered to be re-used (unless the device was damaged, destroyed, or removed).

ADVANCED PRODUCTION

A character can use runes up to 2 levels higher than the highest-level Spell Slot they have purchased. The Rune does not have to be in hand, but does have to be in your possession, when used.

Item Forging

While the forging of magical items does not follow the same rules as most production skills they do have a few similarities. For a character to craft items with this skill they must first have access to a Reliquary. Second for each item that is to be crafted the character must have the Formula Scroll for the item and all the necessary Components. Lastly it takes down time to create items; the time will vary based on the Recipe being used, this time must be spent at a Reliquary where the player must rep making the item; by default, the times are 20 minutes for Minor, 40 minutes for Standard, and 60 minutes for Major. Once complete the character must find a marshal in NPC camp and hand them the Scroll and Components, the marshal will verify the character's skill. They will be issued a temporary Magic Item tag that will expire at the close of the current event, they will need to turn the tag in at the end of the event and will receive the permanent tag no later than the beginning of the next event they attend.

In addition to forging magical items a player can use this skill to research and discover a random Formula Scroll. To do so the player goes to NPC camp and informs the marshal they are going to do Item Research and then must NPC a shift equal to the tier of scroll they are attempting to get, 1 hour per tier; and must turn in 1/2/3 Named Components, these are consumed in the creation of the Scroll. At the end of their shift they will receive a random Formula of the appropriate tier. Characters with the Scholar Background, Knowledge (Magic) Rank 5, and Knowledge (Magic) as one of their favored Knowledge (Area) skills can research 2 formulas at one time. Between games more exact research can be done, see BGA section for more information.

Formulas

While all formulas are somewhat unique, they all follow certain guidelines; each scroll will list the tier of skill required to craft, as well as the components required and what the stats of the completed item will be.

Formula Scrolls are one use items and are destroyed in the creation of the item, and there is no way to copy them. Additionally an item can only be Forged once. The following are the items that can be created with this ability, though more may be added at a later time.

Magic Item Rules

Additionally, the use of any magic item is considered Active.

Items with once ever or per reset uses have to be activated to generate the listed effect. To do so the character must be able to speak In Game and must be able to complete the necessary locomotion to deliver the spell. To use the item, the character must call "Activate Magic <Effect>".

Magic Item Limits

Death, Resurrection and Conditions

Taking Damage

When a player takes damage, it is dealt in the following order; Physical Armor Points>Natural Armor Points>Temporary Armor Points>Temporary Body Points> Base Body Points, until reduced to -1. Once a character is reduced to -1 they do not continue to take damage, they instead begin dying.

Death

When a character receives damage In Game, they lose Body Points. When Body Points reach 0, the character falls unconscious. This unconscious state will last undisturbed for 10 minutes, at which point the character will gain 1 Body Point and regain consciousness. When Body Points reach -1, they can go no lower, and the character begins to die. This is referred to as "Bleeding Out". It will take 120 seconds (2 minute) for a character to bleed out and die. Once a character is dead, they begin to make their Death Count of 240 seconds (4 minutes). During this time period, they are eligible to receive a Life spell, bringing them back to life. Once a character is Dead, they are no long viable targets for Effects that do not specifically work on a Dead target or on an Item. In addition, when a character dies, all Effects end with the exception of the following: effects with duration instant, permanent, Ritual Magic, and High Magic. Once this Death Count is completed, the character can no longer receive a Revive spell, and should go to attempt resurrection. When this occurs, you must leave all IG possession the character had on them at the spot they died.

At the time that a character is no longer eligible for a Life Spell, the character's body "dissipates". This means that the body simply stops existing. This will not happen in instances where a creature or effect is still affecting the body at that time. In such an instance, the portion of the body so affected will remain. For example, if a body was partially eaten, a head was taken as a Trophy, or some other effect remains. This is referred to as the Trophy Rules.

Resurrection may occur anywhere there is a Life

Well. Some Life Wells are permanent, while others are temporary. Permanent ones are usually guarded in some fashion or owned, while temporary ones are often not well known. Characters with the Resurrection skill may resurrect a dead character. However, assistance from the living is not required to resurrect. Anyone may resurrect himself or herself, at any Life Well. But, will suffer the penalty that they will have no Skill or Abilities for the rest of that Logistical day. Temporary Pools of Life are plentiful enough that no one is ever forced Out of Game to use an established Pool for their resurrection. A dead character's spirit is not aware of any actions that take place while they are dead. They must proceed to the Out of Game location of the Death Log. They must then proceed to the location where they will attempt to resurrect. When the resurrection is complete, all effects with a duration, which were on the character at the time of their Death are ended, other than Permanent and Ritual effects.

Resurrection

The process of Resurrection, In-Game, is that any characters with the Resurrection skill, who is in the vicinity of a Life Well, can sense spirits, who are also in that vicinity. A spirit is not aware of who is resurrecting them. Once begun, the process takes 15 minutes. At the 5-minute mark, the dead character's body forms. Until then, the character performing the resurrection only knows that the target is familiar, or not, to them. Once begun, a resurrection may be interrupted by the character performing it, but not by the Spirit. If interrupted, it only causes the time to restart when the resurrection is restarted. There is no other penalty to the character.

Whenever a character dies and must be resurrected, there is a heavy toll that must be paid by the characters' spirit. This toll varies on the skill of the person performing the resurrection, the more ranks of Resurrect they have the easier they can bring back the dead.

Additionally, there is a 10% chance each death the character will develop a Derangement, set by a Plot Marshal.

Grave Touch- This effect is not curable by any means and will last even through death. This effect causes the target to be Slowed and Devastated.

Resurrection Effect

Resurrection Rank 1- Target resurrects with Grave Touch which lasts for 1 hour, they have whatever skills they had remaining when they died.

Resurrection Rank 2- Target resurrects with Grave Touch which lasts for 30 minutes, they have whatever skills they had remaining when they died.

Resurrection Rank 3- Target resurrects with Grave Touch which lasts for 5 minutes, they have whatever skills they had remaining when they died.

Resurrection Rank 4- Target resurrects; their Combat and Spell Slots are set to half their maximum if it is more than what they had remaining when they died.

Resurrection Rank 5- Target resurrects; their Combat and Spell Slots, as well as their Masteries, are refreshed to full.

During the resurrection a plot marshal will have the player resurrecting perform a Contested Roll to determine the result of the death. Should the roll succeed the resurrection works as expected, though they will not remember the hour prior to their death, if the roll fails the character slips closer to the void, never to return, and must make a second roll, though it is just a d10 with no modifiers. Compare the result to the failed resurrection chart to determine the outcome.

New players, those who have not LARP'ed before, receive a Free Death; meaning the first time they die they do not need to make a pick to resurrect it simply succeeds. Additionally, an approved character history, normally 2 pages minimum, can also earn a character a Free Death.

Players have the option at any time to retire their character and receive 50% of their characters earned SP onto a new starting character. If a character is dead this decision can only be made prior to the Resurrection Contested Roll.

Conditions

In Addition to dying and resurrecting, there is a great deal of effects in the game that will leave you in a large array of conditions. The following are conditions that characters may be in based upon the effects they are suffering, and how to fix them.

Combat

Weapon combat

Weapon combat is a significant part of any Live Action Fantasy based game. As such, it is important to understand how it works. First, to engage in ANY weapon combat, you must have a safety approved and tagged weapon. This is to ensure that the weapons you are using, as well as those being used on you, are not likely to cause an injury. Proper weapon construction rules will be detailed in the next section.

Every weapon can be swung for damage, but the kind of damage will differ from weapon to weapon. This damage is separated into two categories of carriers. The first category is the "Flavor Carrier", and the second category is the "Effect Carrier". The "Flavor Carrier" of the swing will determine if the swing can affect the target and if they take extra damage. Examples of "Flavors" in this context can be: Fire, Stone, Water, Wind, Lightning, Magic, Silver, Normal, though others may be added to this list later. A target may never heal from the effect of a Flavor Carrier. An "Effect Carrier" will add an effect to the attack, and will inflict the effect on the target each time the attack deals Body Damage to the target. Examples of "Effect Carriers" in this context can be: any effect, examples are Rot, Wither, Slay, Stun, Maim, as well as a most effects. Effect Carriers are by default considered Toxins.

In addition to Carriers, there are weapon attack Modifiers. These are added to the very end of the call and change how the attack affects the target. Common examples of Modifiers are: Body, Burst, Critical, Massive, Pierce, and Surprise.

There must always be either a flavor or effect in a weapon call. Any call that has no flavor announced is considered to be the "Normal" flavor by default. Weapons that have a flavor other than normal, always have said flavor and that flavor cannot be dropped or changed; this means that a Silver weapon will always have "Silver" in the damage call. A weapon call can only have up to two Flavor Carriers and a single Effect Carrier.

When attacking, each weapon type has a base damage amount it can be used for (this number can be found on the weapon skill chart). A normal long sword, for example, has a base damage of 2. Therefore, when you swing your weapon at an opponent, you would call "2 normal". This lets your opponent know how much and of what type of damage you are inflicting. If your character has any Skills or Abilities that add damage to a swing, such as a Focus +1, you may add those as well. While you may call less than the total damage than you are entitled to, you may not call more. Calling less than your maximum damage is called pulling your blow.

Taking damage follows a standard order unless circumvented though certain attacks, the standard order is as follows: Physical Armor Points>Natural Armor Points>Temporary Armor Points> Temporary Body Points> Base Body Points.

All damage calls must be clear and understandable, meaning all syllables in the call must be used. Weapon calls that do not have the call made clearly will not have an effect.

Two-Weapon Fighting

While fighting with two weapons, a character is limited to up to a medium weapon in their main hand and a short weapon in their off hand. This limit is only for manufactured weapons; brawl and claw weapons have their own rules. The Florentine power allows characters to alter these rules, wielding up to one long weapon in their main hand and up to one medium weapon in their off hand.

Flurry

As with many combat games melee can become hurried and machine gunning will occur to help control this Fallen Empires has a flurry rule. By default, a player cannot take more than 3 melee swings without a short (2 second) pause. This allows players to make short burst of rapid attacks and then take a pause, the purpose is to break the combat momentum and keep things in balance. There are a few ways in the rules that a players Flurry limit can be raised, but they must always pause when they reach their limit. For characters will a Flurry limit other than 3, they must announce "Flurry X" when engaging in combat.

Delivery Types

There are many ways that attacks can be delivered, and each has a very specific call, effect, and delivery. No matter how the effect is delivered, once a target is affected said effect can be remedied per their normal rules.

Magic-These attacks can be delivered with a packet or weapon. These attacks will affect a target if it makes contact with the player or any items they carry or wear. If delivered with a packet, an attack of this kind can be used so long as the user can speak in game; though throwing the packet becomes an Out Of Game action. These attacks are stopped by Magic Shield and Resist Magic. Example "Magic Sleep"

Elemental-These attacks are delivered with a packet. These attacks will affect a target if it makes contact with the player or any items they carry or wear. These attacks do not require the user to be able to speak in game and can be used so long as they are conscious and not helpless. These attacks are stopped by Elemental Shield and Resist Elemental. Example "Elemental Sleep"

Arcane-These attacks can be delivered with a packet only. These attacks will affect a target if it makes contact with the player or any items they carry or wear. These attacks do not require the user to be able to speak in game and can be used so long as they are conscious. These attacks can affect a target in Gaseous Form. These attacks are stopped by Resist Arcane. Example "Arcane Sleep"

Natural- These attacks are treated like a weapon attack for the purposes of blocking and defending against them. They can be used so long as the character is conscious and non-helpless or bound, though they do not need to be able to speak.

Poison-These attacks can be delivered with a packet or weapon. These attacks will affect a target if it makes contact with the player or any items they carry or wear. These attacks do not require the user to be able to speak in game and can be used so long as they are conscious, and able to complete whatever IG motion is necessary for the delivery. These attacks are stopped by Poison Shield and Resist Toxin. Example "Poison Sleep"

Voice-These attacks are normally delivered by the call "<Target>Voice Effect". These attacks will affect the target so long as the caster has line of sight to the target, and the target is in the immediate combat area. These attacks do not necessarily require the user to be able to speak in game (the ability being used will determine such), and can be used so long as they are conscious. These attacks may affect a target in Gaseous Form, if not a Physical attack. These attacks are stopped by defenses that apply to the effect. Some types of these attacks will have an additional Delivery Type such as "<Target> Voice Magic Sleep"; in such a case the target would have more options for defenses. Example "NPC in blue, Voice, Magic Sleep"

Blocking

When fighting with weapons, you may use your weapons to block incoming weapon blows. You may also learn to use a shield to do this. Weapons and shield may be used to block melee weapon attacks only. Shields additionally may be used to block ranged weapon attacks from bows and thrown and all variety of "Natural" attacks. Neither weapons nor shields may be used to block spell effects, whether packet OR weapon delivered, meaning that spells will take effect if blocked by weapon or shield. Further, due to safety concerns, shields may not be used to attack with.

Bows cannot be used to block. If you are wielding a bow and it is struck by a weapon you take the damage and the bow becomes unstrung and cannot be fired again until it is restrung which is a 3 counted action.

Several other concerns during weapon combats are Turtling, Charging, and head/groin shots.

Turtling

For purposes of this game, Turtling will be defined as any use of a shield, which leaves less than 2 possible legal targets available for an opponent to strike with their weapon. Examples of valid targets available to be struck would be either leg, either arm, either shoulder, or the torso.

Charging

For purposes of this game, charging will be defined as approaching a target at such a speed that you could not stop on command without taking more than 1 additional step.

Other Safety

This combat system is lightest touch meaning that weapon swings should be dealt to make contact but not be hard enough to hurt or leave bruises. While the weapons are light and padded they can still hurt or cause injury if swung too hard. There is no rule as the distance a weapon can be swung however there are limitations to the amount of force that should be applied on said swing.

Head/groin/hand shots are another safety concern. The head, groin, and hand areas are never legal targets for weapons shots. While occasionally even the best players will accidentally make such a hit, repeatedly doing so may be taken as a violation of the rules, and as such be actionable.

Readjusting& Breeching

As armor takes damage from combat, it loses effectiveness. If a suit takes some damage but not enough to reduce it to 0, it can be readjusted with a 30 counted action returning it to its maximum value; however, if the armor does take enough damage to reduce it to 0, it is considered breached. Armor that has been breached can be readjusted with a 1 minute counted action, and has its value reduced to 50% of its maximum, until Repaired, Rebuilt, or Refitted (the appropriate time limits for each of these effects still take priority). This is a visible action.

Weapons may be constructed from any materials previously approved for use. If you choose to use new materials, you must have them approved prior to construction. You may run the risk that the finished weapons will fail approval, due to those materials. Examples of properly constructed weapons will be available at any event.

All weapons must have padding for their entire length, except for the Grip lengths in the chart. Listed Grip Lengths are maximums and may not exceed that maximum. However, Grips may be less than those lengths. Placement of Bow Grips must be in the center of the weapon, and the weapons should have curves in the shape of a bow. Staves <staff> must have the Grips toward the center of the weapon and must have at least 18" from the ends. Spears must have open cell foam pieces on the striking end to make it appear spear-like.

Hilts and Cross guards can have no dimension greater than 6".

Weapons made of solid pipe foam must have a minimum of 5/8-inch-thick Closed Cell foam on all striking surfaces. Weapons made of flat foam, IE Flat Blades, must have 1 inch of closed cell on striking surfaces, and 1/2 inch on non-striking surfaces. The foam padding of the weapon must extend 1" past the end of the weapon core; this is to prevent the core from stabbing through the end of the weapon.

All weapons must have a 2" Thrusting tip made of open cell foam (Such as a couch cushion). Weapons that do not have stabbing tips, such as the molded Latex weapons must all be approved before use. While the butt end of the weapon does not need to be padded with foam (since it is not legal to strike players with the end of the weapon), it must be covered and built up with foam tape or the like so that the core is well covered, and the end of the pipe cannot stab anyone.

Weapons built of hollow cores must have that hollow core sealed in some way on each end, such as with strapping tape and padding. Weapons built in such a way that the entire length of the weapon is not secured to the core, and it must include an anchor point, examples of which can be seen at an event. Colors are also an important aspect, Red and Orange is reserved is for claws, and Yellow for Brawlers.

Thrown weapons must be comprised of only foam (open or Closed). They cannot have any kind of solid core, and can be covered with tape. The thrown weapons should also have no points and narrow ridges should be covered with ½ open cell foam.

Packets are used for spell casting, as well as other skills like Chemistry and Engineering. Packets should be made of cloth, and be filled with birdseed, roughly 2 tablespoons. Typically, White packets are used to spell casting, Yellow for arrows, Red for Bombs, and Orange for Vials

Bows must be covered with at least 3/8-inch foam; this is to protect weapons that might strike them. Bows by default cannot be used to block weapon attacks. And if they are struck they cannot be used to fire arrows until the bow is restrung, which is a 3 counted action.

Crossbows have 2 dimensions that matter, the stock and the prod. The Stock is the body of the rep and must be at least 24" long, and the Prod which must be at least 18" wide.

All weapons must receive a safety tag, signed by a marshal, or they will be subject to removal from Game when their use is discovered, regardless of safety.

Shields have several restrictions to their size as shown on the above chart: In the case of a round shield ignore the Max perimeter as the radius will place it much smaller. The Maximum dimension for a shield is the distance between the two furthest points, not the longest edge. Additionally, Small shields only require a handle, while Medium and Large shields must have a handle and arm strap, and both must be used for proper shield use. Shields may not be used to strike targets and may only be used to block. All shields must have Closed Cell foam around the outer edge; this is preventing damage to weapons in combat.

Guns

Guns can be almost any style of foam dart gun; however, they must be modified to look antiqued and as fantasy as possible (Excluding the orange muzzle which must be present by state law). At present, no performance-enhancing modifications are permitted, only cosmetic alterations are allowed. Automatic weapons are not permitted. This includes flywheel blasters and rapid-fire air-powered blasters. To be legal a gun must have some form of single-action, lever action, or priming handle that must be pulled back for the gun to fire, for each shot.

All guns have a "Max Load" which refers to the maximum number of darts that may be loaded into a given magazine. 12 And 18 capacity clips are permitted but may not be loaded beyond the Max Load of the weapon.

Guns are separated into 2 categories, Pistols and Cannons.

- Pistols are 1 handed weapon with a maximum length of 14", a starting Max Load of 6; and can only have an Improved Max Load of 9.
- Cannons are 2 handed weapons with a minimum length of 15", and a starting Max Load of 6, and can only have an Improved Max Load of 12.

Guns cannot be used in conjunction with Medium or Large Shields. Nor can Guns ever be used to block attacks.

Guns only benefit from Precision and gain no benefit from Focus or +Strength. Add-ons are modifications to an existing gun and once installed they cannot be removed. Add-ons stack with other add-ons but not with themselves.

Common Weapon Material

Weapon Cores must be a hollow cored non-metal tube, which must be a continuous piece for the length of the weapon. Common cores are: PVC; for weapons shorter than 36", the suggested pipe diameter is the 1/2" OD; for Spears and 2 Handed Weapons suggested pipe diameter is the 3/4"-1.0" OD; or Fiberglass Kite Spar; for weapons shorter than 46", the suggested pipe diameter is the 0.370" OD; for Spears and 2 Handed Weapons suggested pipe diameter is the 0.745" OD. While Graphite Golf Clubs can be used it is suggested they only be used for flat weapons. This is because it is difficult to have the pipe foam fit the tapered core.

Weapon Foam is the majority of the weapon's construction, and the most crucial for safety reasons. For pipe foam the type that should be used is Closed Cell, Polypropylene Pipe Foam, with a minimum of a 5/8" wall thickness. This product can be difficult to find, though your local chapter should be able to help, since the only places that sell it are Plumbing Supply stores and you normally need to buy a case of it at a time. For flat weapons the recommended foam is the blue camping pads, which can be found at Wal-Mart and Sporting Goods Stores.

Blue Foam Mat

Weapon coverings must be on weapons to help protect the foam from harm and increase its durability, there are a large number of ways this can be achieved. The most common types of coverings are: Duct Tape, which you can get at Wal-Mart and any Hardware store; Nylon Tape, which is often called Sail Repair tape or Kite Tape. Weapons can also be covered by a fitted cloth sock-like covering, and even Plasti-Dip, which can be found at Pep-Boys or online.

Armor

Armor plays a very important part in the game, it allows the characters to take much more damage in combat and protects from some attacks. Armor is broken into 5 categories for determining how much a suit is worth and what it takes to rep the armor. This game is more about appearances than if your armor would really stop a weapon, atmosphere is the most important part of the game. Listed below is a list of the categories and what types of armor falls into each, now since looks are key there are many things that may fall into different categories based on what it looks like; it is very possible to have Battle armor with a rep that is not metal but looks very much like black steel plates.

In addition to needing the proficiency to wear armor, and the rep you also need an item tag for the armor you are wearing to receive the benefit of it. Armor must cover 40-50% of your body to receive credit.

Costume

Has a maximum value of 10 points and it is made up of just what it says; so long as you are wearing a decent looking costume you will get credit. This means costumes that avoid major things like shirts with logos, blue jeans and baseball hats.

Light

Has a maximum value of up to 20 points. Light armors are made of Heavy Padded Cloths and Light Leathers.

Medium

Has a maximum value of 30 points. Medium armors are made of Thick Leathers with Studs or Plates, and even Light Chain.

Heavy

Has a maximum value of 40 points. Heavy armors are made of Heavy Chain and Brigandine.

Battle

Has a maximum value of 50 points. Battle armor is made of plates or scales of metal.

Orders and Attunement Rules

Orders are groups that players can join; these organizations are much like real world religions and are driven on the faith of all members in the Orders mission. Attunements are something that is achieved from a power source, such as the Plane of Fire or from years of specialized training. When a player joins an Order or becomes attuned to a power, they will begin earning Favor with that organization, as they increase their Favor they will gain access to some abilities. A player can only be a member of a single order at a time, while some of them may have similar goals their codes and structure require the members to believe in the cause 100%. Since Attunements are gained from a power source it is possible for a player to be involved in the RP of more than one, but they can only gain powers from a single Attunement. With a lot of work and effort it is possible for a character to be in both an Order and an Attunement, though realize that many of the Orders and Attunements may have conflicting goals, or some may simply require undivided focus to maintain.

Once an Order or Attunement has accepted a character they begin to earn Favor toward their cause, this time will stack up to give them access to abilities at different levels within the organization. There are two ways to earn Favor: first Attendance to an event awards 2 points of Favor; second by completing tasks that are assigned by the Order/Attunement (often in the form of Modules) though Favor from these tasks are at the discretion of the Plot Marshal, meaning this is not a guarantee. If a character is a member of both an Order and an Attunement, they still only receive 2 Favor and they must decide where they want the Favor assigned. Additionally, if a Player checks in both a primary and secondary character during the Event and plays each character at least 4 hours In Game, they will gain one additional point of Favor for the Event and may assign 1 Favor to one character and 2 Favor to their other character.

Once a player has been granted membership they must invest 10 Skill Points into the group. From there on their favor will accumulate and when they gain enough, new abilities will be added to their sheet. If a character does not RP their group correctly or works against its interest they will do their best to keep them on course, however those that are not giving the group its due will be relieved of membership. If a character is removed from an order they will no longer gain the use of the abilities of that order.

Once a player has the correct rank and the prerequisite number of Knowledge<Magic/Warfare/Nature> they will be taught the ability- Focus Training, granting them their choice of: 1 Blade effect (+5 Temporary Damage) per encounter (Warfare), 10 Spell Pool (Magic) or 5 Body Points (Nature). Once this is learned the player will keep this skill so long as they have the skills to support it, this stays even if they leave the order or lose the attunement. This can only be gained from 1 source.

While there are only seven orders, there is a much larger number of attunements, only a handful are shown in the following section.

Special

It can take years to reach this level of Favor with an order or attunement, and as such once this point is reached you can be trained in very rare abilities. When a player gets close to these brackets they are encouraged to get with plot and start working on the ability to be gained, while there are short list players might have a neat idea; though they should always be related to the theme of the order or attunement.

Additionally, for Order/Attunements in which at certain ranks the character must choose which ability they want access to. When they achieve enough Favor to gain a Special they can also choose to change one of those abilities.

Titles

Upon reaching the ranks of Adept or higher characters gain a title from their order. Due to the character's loyalty to the cause and proven devotion they are acknowledged as being a proven representative of the Order. While not everyone in the world will show the same respect to the title, those who are in the order, as well as those who are wise; would address the character by their title. Attunements work a small bit differently since some attunements come from power sources instead of a specific group, there are not always titles. Further their titles are usually addressed after the character's name.

Orders

Arcanum

The warlocks came late in the war by many records, though they would have you believe they were using their time to make a well-timed move, either way their impact in the war was felt and forever will be. With the barrier between the planes all but destroyed, it was the warlocks' belief that without ancient power there would be no way to keep the planes out. No one really knows how long they had been searching but they found the answer. Near the end of the Reality War, they found and reignited an ancient Mana Well that they then used to fortify the barrier between the planes. Keeping the prime protected from the other planes though nothing is perfect.

Since that time the order has been focused on mastering all there is of the Inner Plane, drawing upon its energy to alter their magic into raw elemental power. This has come with ages of training in the secluded city known as The Ridamar. When the Great War ended the damage to the continent had been so wide spread that it had become a wasteland and almost uninhabitable. While the survivors of the war moved to other lands the warlocks built a city around the Mana Well and have held their stronghold for over ten thousand years.

Guardians of the Essence

When the flood gates came crashing down and the planes surged the prime, we were not the only plane to feel the burn so to speak. The Fey world of the Essence shares a mirrored existence to our own; so the war was felt on both sides. It would not be long before the Shide, a noble Fey race, would join the prime in the war. They brought with them skills and knowledge the mortals lacked and rallied all those that would join them in the cause.

While the shields battled the forces of Acheron the guardians battle the forces of the Inner Plane. It was not simply hordes of elementals that made their war upon us, but their masters as well creatures of almost unlimited elemental might. One of the most notable was the Triton known as the Mad Marid.

Since the long past days of the war the order has continued its cause. They serve the plane as protectors, removing extra Planar creatures that have come here and do not belong. This does not mean that travel between planes is impossible; the guardians have set up a system of Visas to allow individuals to travel to and from, though only those with a peaceful purpose. The guardians are determined to prevent another Planar war on their watch.

Midnight Thorns

Relic hunters and information gathers if there is a secret they must know it. The thorns are always for hire, so long as they are not already on assignment. If you have Intel that you need moved or something or someone found, they might be the ones for you.

While over the millennium they have been called all sorts of things, most of which are true, the order has been a constant cog in the machine of most societies. They find themselves in all facets of society not just “treasure hunters” as many would say, but in everyday tasks that have the opportunity to feed their passions. Messengers, Scribes, Librarians, and Historians; more often than not though you could not pick them out if you tried, it is after all part of the trade.

Riverwalkers

The Walkers first appeared near the end of the Reality War. Humanity, while slowly winning the war, took massive losses. Even worse, the efforts being used to save this world were preventing resurrection. The Walkers bridged that gap, acting as a conduit between the dead and the land of the living. After the war ended they unlocked the mysteries of the River and brought Life Wells to the Prime.

Walkers are often seen as Sheppard's of the dead not only is it their task to help those spirits who have passed find their way back to the living, but they must also ensure that those who are too weak to return find their rest in the River. The lands being the living are a dangerous place and an unguided spirit can slip into the nothing and be lost forever.

Unlike some of the other orders, the Walkers will take members from almost any walk of life, so long as they have some understanding of the Cycle and are willing to vow to watch over the dead.

Seven Shields

The shields are an order of protectors; whose cause is to protect life above all other callings. When the Black Gates opened at the dawn of the Reality War, and the flood waves of death and corruption flowed forth; there were those that answered the call. The order grew rapidly as common men took up arms against the darkness, and to repel the walking dead from their homes. The shields helped at the Black Gate for what seemed like forever. In the end while thousands would die, hundreds would make the ultimate sacrifice and push the hordes of Acheron back where they came from and hold them while the gates slammed shut behind them. Sacrifice is the characteristic that the shields were founded on, and till this day it is shown in their actions.

With the greatest of wars behind them the shields have continued in their mission following a strict code, to serve and protect all life. The order is very militant in its structure; because of this the shields can often be found in the ranks of the military where they live, so long as that military is not a mission of just murder.

The chains function in small cells often times not knowing who chains are outside their clicks. This is done to protect the order; you can't rat out on people you don't know about. While too many this system of not knowing who your allies are might make life impossible, but the chains are clever and have found ways of keeping each other in the loop.

Verdant Protectors

Even before the order was forged there were those that served nature as both protector and champion. The Verdant is not a one sided coin, just as nature is ever changing. There are those who walk the path trying to preserve the natural world, and there are others that are there to keep nature in check. While many would view nature as delicate the Verdant know all too well this is not always the case.

When the order first formed it is believed that they came to preserve the lands and to heal the damage that was done by the Reality War. And while the order has served as caregiver for nature their role was far more important, the war had brought to the plane energy like it had never experienced before. This energy would forever change this world. Fires, while natural, would burn hotter, the Seas would become more violent, even the wind would not rip apart even the mightiest of structures. While the war may have ended the orders work had just begun, unmaking such harm can be an almost endless task.

The Kensai is one who dedicates himself to the perfection of martial combat, through relentless training and focus with his chosen weapon. The devotion he pours into studying the weapon is intensive and he forsakes the use of other weapons almost completely; while he can pick up and use other weapons he will be no more proficient than any fighter picking up a weapon. Due to the focus and training the Kensai cannot use certain abilities with weapons that are not bonded and he cannot perform the same feats of mastery without his signature weapon. The study and training on the Kensai is more than just practicing with a weapon, it is also the centering and mastering of one's chi, the energy of life, and focusing it through the weapon. Many Kensai are not only master of combat but also masters of creation of arms, as one cannot truly understand something until they have known it since creation.

Ley Mage

There are a practiced few who have forged the waters of magic. At one time there were great colleges of magic scattered across the plane, but the Reality War laid waste to most of them. Once in the past they were known as Ether Mages, but that form lost its power with the turning of the ages. In modern days the mages have sought each other out through the streams of magic that bind the world. In the last few hundred years a few sparse but secretive schools have opened, students are hand-picked by the masters. Once an initiate has accepted an invitation they seemingly vanish from existence, because to master the ether you must survive the fury of a Ley Line. The raw energy of the ether in a Ley Line destroys most, but those proven few with the gift become part of it. This causes them to become one with the power that binds the world but strips away all they were. To be accepted into this attunement the character must have at least Ley Magic: Arcane Spell and Knowledge Astronomy 5, and then must undergo the trials set by the leaders of the group, known as Serc'ci.

Loremaster

The line of the Loremaster has been long sought though by many accounts it was lost ages ago. It is one of the few paths, known by scholars, as to be linked directly to the power of a Primordial; however, the true focus or purpose is either does not exist or is the true secret of the ages. It is believed by those outside the path that Loremasters are trained for the role and are primed from an early age, or those who have or will play a vital role in the history of the world. In fact, if these situations have happened they have all been through coincidence. What is known by those on the path is that none of them set out to find it, instead it found them. There is a common thread that all Loremasters share they are rarely the heroes of lore that grand tales would be told of; but they are always there in the background taking mindful note of what truly happened. By no coincidence they are in fact handpicked, by a Primordial being known to many as Litany; though they rarely know right away they have been picked.

Somewhere along the way something happened and an infection broke out that caused many of them to become unable to control their actions. For them it was no longer a blessing. Only those who have the training and experience are capable of leading travelers and expeditions safely to their destinations. These individuals are also called to the roles of leadership as well, as their experience allows them to show wisdom and good judgment, on and off the battlefield.

Paragons of Origination

The Originators are much like modern day masons; they follow a strict code that has to do with the preservation of humanities past. They have created guards and protections to seal away the oldest of lore's that are a part of this world so that they might be there for generations to come. However, this is the path that the majority knows of; only those brothers who have been brought to the inner circle and the high mason himself know the organizations true purpose.

It is said that these master craftsmen are unmatched in their skill and have the ability to create and destroy beyond the understanding of the average man. They are believed to have been formed sometime in the third age, but these are of course just rumors.

Path of the Ascetic

While some would claim they have little need for the material things of this world, they often do not understand how far from truth they are. It is an easy task for many to go without magical relics or mountains of gold but it is far another to remove the bondage of all material things. Those few that have begun to separate themselves from the bondage of the material begin to view the world in a new way. It is not until one has been truly without that one begins to see how little many of this world have. Even a skilled farmer becomes removed from the lowest of society who can barely eat or find shelter. There is only so much in this world to go around, and because of this greed finds its way into the hearts of even the kindest of souls. The need to survive drives many to hoard more than they might really need for fear of the flood. Then there are those few who chosen a life of poverty, unlike the poor and downtrodden, these souls walk this path by their own choice; so that others may flourish.

In many cultures and belief systems, the height of purity is embodied in an ascetic lifestyle that involves forswearing all material possessions. Such a life is hard for most characters even to imagine, since their possessions—particularly their magic items—are such an important part of their capabilities.

Plague Bearers- Troll Racial

Over the ages there has been any number of hypothesis of where trolls gain their super natural ability to regenerate. And while many of them could be taken as truth, there is only one truth. All trolls are born in a spawning pool deep in the swamps, and like any stagnant water in a swamp they are teaming with parasites. Now just because they are parasites does not mean they are all bad, and the average troll only carries a very minor infection.

As their bodies are constantly having to heal to maintain the damage the parasites cause, it sends their bodies into over drive in compensation; which is where they develop their natural healing ability. Every so often though a troll will carry unique parasites that are constantly on the verge of multiplying.

With the right set of events the trolls body loses the balancing act and the parasite being to multiply and colonize their host. And while they undergo some regressive changes the infection by the colony actually helps to support the hosts survival.

Upon reaching rank 5 they gain the effect Vulnerable to the opposing element.

Runic Defenders- Dwarf Racial

Among the Dwarven nations there has been a common thread that has remained no matter their focus, the need to defend the old ways. It is unclear how the first became marked, though the fables tie back to the birth of the Heart of Gold. It is said the Abadel himself gifted the first to defend the forge from all those who would seek its control. Though in time the gift was passed further to safe guard lords, land, and treasures. The path to becoming a defender is arduous to say the least and requires rigorous training over a number of years to perfect your ability.

Defenders stand out among their people, as they unlock their potential and gain their gifts. Permanent runes become emblazed upon their skin often forming first on their faces arms and hands, but in time covering most of their bodies. It is from these where their true power comes. Even sages are not fully sure of what causes the formation of the runes, only that they the power rest within the people as a gift from their creator.

These ancestors have been known to exalt those among the Tson Chi that will guide their people to a greater fate – positive or negative. The way of Ancestors is not good or evil; it is the way they show you. The requirement for balance in the life of the Tson Chi continues even in death. The Shugenja are those among the Tson Chi that have found the focus and clarity to hear the voice of the ancestors and in times of need call forth their strength.

Shugenja act as a spiritual guide for their people and even beyond. They are able to reach into the realm of the spirit and hear the voices of wisdom. Their connection to their ancestors also grows and they can tap into that power to both protect themselves and to channel as a powerful weapon.

Thickets- Ent Racial

Long ago we Ents were simply trees. We grew from seeds and eventually were culled by Mother Nature. Sometimes with lightning, sometimes with fire, sometimes an animal would uproot us or eat enough of us that we would die. It was the way of things. Then we awoke. No one alive remembers when it was or why. I'm sure if you could get any of the Ancients to speak on it, they could tell you. But even the oldest Ent I know cannot suffer the patience of conversing with an ancient, and likely could not understand them if she tried. The Ancients minds think more in concepts and ideas than in words. They think in ways I can scarcely imagine and often connecting things to one another in unfathomable tangents. If you ever get the opportunity, sit and listen to one for a year. You may learn something wondrous or leave more confused than when you came, however I assure you the journey will be beautiful.

Then the attunement is gained the player must choose to be a Broadleaf or Evergreen. This will effect which of the "Way" abilities they will gain.

True Shifter- Rok'Shen Racial

As told by even the oldest of the sages, the Rok'shen are but shadows of what they once were. At birth they are the closest to their ancestors as they might ever be again, and for some unknown reason they lose that gift shortly into life. However, for millennia's the eldest have sought the truth of their past and of their destiny, and they have found the link. Much like their rite of passage into adulthood, they have learned that unlocking their true selves is a test of will that must be survived.

In the oldest of folk lore in the race there are countless stories that at a time long ago the Rok'Shen were far more than just a people. They were also part beast and were able to call upon that part of themselves to become the change. It would come to be known that there was truth in those myths and once again the lost secrets are becoming known again. With great effort and some guidance of the wild and elders, the young of the race have taken the first steps to better understanding their ancestors.

Vistek Society (Psionic)

Only a few are gifted with the will to open their minds and perceive the world around them as it truly is. Those that have awakened their minds can reshape their thoughts in forces that can affect the world.

Psionics function differently than other attunements, each time a rank is purchased the character gains 3 Psionic Points, these functions like Mana; each power will list its cost.

To use this ability, the call is "Arcane Psionic<Effect>", unlike other effects Psionics have some of their own rules. Psionics can be used so long as the character is conscious and not under an Enslave or Command effect. Additionally, Psionic effects can pass through magical barriers such as Circle, Imprison, and Wall, so long as the character can hit the target with a packet.

At Ranks in which there are 2 options, the player must choose which they will learn. This means that not all those with Psionic ability will be the exact same.

Wildling - Gnome Racial

Either through the strength of your ancestors of just natural selection, your bloodline contains just enough of the old stuff. A race of fey that once flourished but became all but lost in the years after the Reality War. The wildlings came to the prime in search of wonders not found on Essence, and they found it. Among the high mountains of Norvis they found the Dwarves, a hearty race that build wondrous creations. Over many generations the Fey, being cut off from Essence, took refuge with their new friends and in time would even mate with them. Over the next 5000 years, this continued until the wildlings were all but forgotten and a new race had taken its place, Gnomes.

While they had become a new race in whole, their wanderlust never faded and in time, they would seek out a new home to make their own. But some things never go away they simply become dormant waiting for the right circumstance to reemerge. Those that have tapped far into their fey heritage can awaken that bloodline, even going so far as reverting most of the way back to where they started.

Order and Attunement Abilities

Adept Attunement

At this level, the Warder has brought the egg to the point of hatching. There is a ritual that must take place to hatch the dragon, which once done, the character will have to take care of a dragon Phys-rep. While it is a loyal companion, it is still an animal so to speak, and there are times it will just want to sleep and be left alone. Due to the hatchling's nature, it will know 4 Read and Write skills and have 3 ranks in 4 different Knowledge (Area) skills that it is willing to share with the Warder and allows the Warder to purchase Knowledge (Dragons) rank 5. Additionally, the character gains Vulnerability to a Flavor based on the hatchling.

Alarm

On the watch you can never let your guard down, not even for one second. Gain Resist Ambush/Sleep/Charm/Command twice each reset.

Amplify Mind

This ability allows the character to unlock inner reserves of power within a target's mind. By spending 10 minutes of concentration with another character, this ability will restore one of the following: 1 Time per Reset skill, up to 4 levels of Combat Slots, or 7 levels of Spell Slots. This cannot target the character using this ability. This ability costs 5 Psionic Points.

Ancient Lore 1

The Loremaster uncovers hidden and true knowledge; they can purchase the first rank of Rare Knowledge (Area) skills without requiring an instruction. Additionally, the player can choose 3 Common Knowledge (Areas) to become favored and receive a 1 SP discount on purchasing ranks; these cannot already be favored from the Scholar Background. Additionally you may spend a maximum of 3 times your current rank in the associated Favored Knowledge skill from your pool of Knowledge points each reset, instead of the normal 2.

Ancient Lore 2

The Loremaster uncovers hidden and true knowledge; they can purchase the second rank of Rare Knowledge (Area) skills without requiring an instruction. Additionally, the player can choose 3 Common Knowledge (Areas) (6 Total) to become favored and receive a 1 SP discount on purchasing ranks, these cannot already be favored from the Scholar Background. Additionally you may spend a maximum of 3 times your current rank in the associated Favored Knowledge skill from your pool of Knowledge points each reset, instead of the normal 2.

Ancient Wisdom

This ability has two functions. First it can be used to gather information similar to Knowledge Areas; during an encounter if a Plot Marshal asks if anyone has a certain Common Knowledge skill you can spend a 60 count action to tap into the Myst, at the end of the count you will gain at least part of the information that could be garnered; in the case of a Rare Knowledge the count is 120 as you have to reach farther to find the hidden answers. Second this ability allows you to have one question per month answered as honestly and completely as possible, about a plotline or story, by plot. This is not perfect; be warned that answers regarding deliberately concealed information may be hazy or useless. If this feature is used during an event it will take 1 hour of meditation after the question has been given to plot, this represents you reaching into the Myst to see the possible fates to find the answer and gives plot time to get your answer together.

Animal Form

This ability allows the character to assume the form of their breed creature, requiring a 10 counted action to change in and out of. Unlike the Caller's Shifter Class Feature, the character's gear does not change with them, so turning into a raccoon might make it hard to move their gear. While the change does not grant any special ability per se, the character can function in any manner that natural creature has at their disposal. Additionally, the character can use any of their skills in which they still meet all the requirements to function.

Arcane Banish

This ability functions as the Banish effect, sending an extra Planar creature back to its plane of origin.

Arcane Drain

This ability allows the character to deliver with a packet a "Arcane Drain", this functions as the spell.

Arcane Freedom

As the breaker of bonds you have become difficult to bring down. This ability can be used on the character per the normal functions of the effect; alternatively, if the character is not currently under any negative effect this ability can instead be used as "Everyone in the sound of my voice Arcane Freedom"

Ascension

This ability cannot be obtained between games, and can only be obtained during an event and only after the character takes part in an In Game RP encounter for their power base. Once a character has completed the necessary IG actions, they receive this ability, and the following applies: The character becomes an Outsider, meaning they are susceptible to Banish. Their body and metabolism are so altered that they are not affected by Paralyze, Sleep, and Stun, and can no longer be the target of First Aid or Diagnose unless the character attempting to use First Aid or Diagnose has at least Knowledge (Planes) Rank 5.

Awakened Spirit

When the body fails, a pure spirit remains. An Ascetic with this power cannot be rendered Unconscious. Effects that produce Unconsciousness (Sleep, Slumber, etc) still render the Ascetic helpless, but they will remain fully awake and aware for the entire duration. This explicitly includes death counts and time spent as a spirit on the way to the life well. At rank 7 the character no longer requires sleep each day; only prayer and meditation. This must be noted on the Marshal Notes, as the Marshal in the case of a Cabin Raid will wake up a player with this power.

Bane (Creature Type)

This increases the characters' damage when fighting the creature type named in their ability chart; gaining a Permanent +5 damage increase against those targets. This ability will increase the damage of each Spell Pool attack by 5 points; however, this will only apply to castings of 10 points or more Spell Pool. When the character using this ability announces it, they will be made aware of which creatures the bane effect should work on, and it is up to the player to keep track of which creatures they get the added damage on. This is an Encounter ability.

Beast Mode

This ability allows the character to awaken the primal essence of the beast within them. When activated, the character gains the following effects for the duration: +2 Permanent Weapon Damage with Claws, Evade x 3, Natural Fear Strike x 2. This ability lasts for one hour or Module.

Beast Stride

This ability allows the character to travel in natural terrain without disrupting the plant life. This has two benefits; animals do not notice your tracks as a threat, and when being tracked in a natural setting the penalties are doubled.

Befuddle

Part of the Wildlings' nature is that their whims and wiles drive them, and that flightiness can have sway on others, especially when focused. This ability allows the character to use Arcane Feeblemind delivered with a packet. On the plane of Essence, the Delivery Type of this ability changes from Arcane to Magic.

Blacklight

The colony has fully infected the character's mind and has altered their body as well. Once each reset the colony can take over, turning the character's physical form into that of a Swarm. While active, the character gains Damage Cap 1, Resist (Physical/Magic/Toxin) x 2, and they are Immune to Mental Effects. More importantly, this may be activated Passively, as a response to effects that would affect the character normally, but not affect a Swarm; such as: if Ambushed, this can be called this as a response to defeat the Ambush and activate this ability. This ability lasts for 5 minutes or 1 Encounter.

Blind Traveler's Sutra

As the first step of training, all must learn to focus their inner will and navigate the Myst to reach the Monastery. This is often the stepping stone on which other abilities are developed. This Sutra takes 20 minutes of meditation to perform, after which the players goes out of game to NPC camp to speak with plot. The journey to and from the Monastery is not a quick one and can take up to an hour round trip. Additionally, once a character has their rank 5 ability they can expend a use of Iron Will to reduce the meditation time to 1 minute. Once a character has mastered rank 10 this ability can be used to travel to almost any location (on the Prime and Inner Plane, and possibly other planes), at the approval of plot.

Blinding Speed

This ability has two functions; first, it allows the character to expend one of their Flee abilities to move to a location they are aware of on this plane and is with 10 miles of their location. Second, because they can naturally move with amazing speed, they can also perceive similar things. When used, they can expend a Flee to call "No Effect" to a target's use of Conceal; allowing them to continue attacking the Concealed target. The first function of this ability can only be used at night, and so long as it is not a new moon.

Body of Perfection

Through deep meditation in the harshest of elements, the character has gained focus over their physical form allowing them to overcome and ignore the minor planer effects of the Inner Plane. Once the character has gained their Rank 8 ability this effect becomes more powerful, allowing them to ignore minor and standard planer effects of the Inner Plane, as well as minor planer effects of all other planes (River, Void, Acheron, etc.) Additionally, the character can expend a use of Iron Will to extend this protection to two allies.

Bonded Weapon

Each Kensai has a weapon that they are bonded to; this bond is where they derive their chi and strength. The bond is so strong that should the weapon be lost or destroyed they lose all Kensai abilities until they personally rebuild the weapon with Smithing. Additionally, Kensai abilities with the # notation can only be used with their bonded weapon.

I – Once each reset the characters bonded weapon can gain the carrier Magic for 5 minutes or an encounter. If the character has the Aura Blade skill the duration is increased to 1 hour.

II –A bonded weapon is the manifestation of the character's power; as such it is also a conduit. Once each reset the character can spend 30 minutes in meditation to refocus their chi with their weapon, doing so allows the character to give the bonded weapon the weapon flavor, Silver, Cold Iron, or Magic, for the next 24 hours. Additionally, the Aura Blade skill gains added effect when used with the bonded weapon; instead of only granting the Magic Flavor Carrier, the character also gains 6 Blade effects (+5 Temporary Damage) that must be used during the duration.

III – By this point the character has fully bonded with their chosen weapon making it an extension of the character. The bonded weapon is always considered to be Honed. Additionally, using the Aura Blade skill will activate the bonded weapon's full potential; while active, the effect of Blitz will be cause the appropriate number of swings to deal +10 Temporary Damage, instead of its normal +5 Temporary Damage bonus.

Call to Spirits

This ability allows the character to sense and communicate with dormant spirits. This ability can be used twice each reset in one of the following ways: First it can be used as a Detect Spirit announced as "Are there any spirits in the sound of my voice", this will ping anything with a spirit even hidden/invisible targets. While it does not reveal them you are aware they are present and roughly where. Second they can speak to lesser spirits that live in all objects. This allows them to ask one question of an object. Note – most objects will have very low intelligence.

Caravan Master

Your training in leading goes far beyond just battle, but also in the assurance of safe passage. When leading others to a location that you have traveled to before you ignore natural terrain hazards (by avoiding them) and you can invoke the Warning Signs skill once each journey.

Carrier at Will

The character has the ability to add a Flavor Carrier to their weapon swings as they choose. Warders will have their carrier flavor based on their egg; Planar Champions will have their Flavor Carrier based on the following Inner Plane grants Fire, Stone, Water, or Wind, Acheron grants Shadow, and Abyss grants Silver(Astral Fire).

Chase

Letting the mark get away is not an option for several reasons, and because of this you have learned how to give chase in almost any circumstance. Once each reset the character can use this ability to follow a target that has escaped, including magical means such as Teleport. This must be used within 5 minutes of the target leaving the Encounter, and gives no information about where they will end up. This will only transport the character using the ability, but may also transport up to 5 other targets so long as they are also Iron Star Mercenaries.

Channel Spirits

When used this ability allows the character to generate one of the following effects: Remove a Curse, Life a dead target, Can pass through a Contain effect or Can Heal a dying target for 10 Body Points.

Chi Warlord

The character has not only learned to focus their power through their weapon but also through their presence. Once each reset they can bolster those around him granting Immunity to Charm effects. Additionally, it reduces the Combat Slot level of their Combat Techniques by 1 Tier; to a minimum of 1 Tier, for all allies for 1 Encounter.

Chi Projection

The character has not only learned to focus their power through their weapon but also through their presence. A limited number of times each reset the character can force his presence on a target; this is delivered as "<Target>Voice Arcane Fear" or ""<Target>Voice Arcane Command".

Child of Atuntoril

It is in the darkest hours that your watch will be the longest, and in times rest is not for you. As part of their training, they are blessed in the holiest of sites granting you the blessing of your ancestors. This ability makes the character Immune to Sleep, though this does not make the character Immune to any damage or other effects that may also be part of the attack.

Combat Focus

This ability gives the character extreme focus for 5 minutes or one Encounter, granting either +1 Permanent Weapon Damage, or 25 additional Spell Pool points while it is active.

Contact Ancient Dead

This ability works much like Speak with Spirits; however, the character can reach much further into the River. The character can awaken a spirit that has been permanently dead for up to 150 years per character level times their skill level in Knowledge (Cycle).

Consume Component

Making the most out of everything you have is sometimes the make or break on getting a job done. This ability allows the character to consume the power stored in a Named Component and draw from it either (4) levels of Combat Slots or (9) levels of Spell Slots.

Consume Infection

This ability allows the character to remove the Rot effect from a target, on a 10 counted action. In addition to removing the Rot effect from the target, the Plague Bearer is healed for 20 Body Points.

Crafting Perfection

This ability reflects the character's skill at not only crafting but doing so in ways that limit waste and imperfection. Their time to create items is reduced by the listed time, this is not cumulative and it cannot reduce the time below 1 minute per level of the item.

Crippling Strike

This ability allows the character to deliver a blow to a target that has almost instant and lasting effects. This attack is delivered with the call "Crippling Strike" and a single weapon swing hit or miss. This will cause the affected target to be unable to move faster than a walking pace.

Dark Phase

This ability works just as the Phase monster power, except that it can only be used at night, in heavy shadows, or in darkness.

Deconstruct

Those who have truly mastered their art hold this ability, they have learned not only how to build but how to break anything, for everything is made up of the same energy. This ability can be used on any loose item, up to 8 sq.ft., or against golem creatures. The call for this ability is "Arcane Deconstruct" and is weapon delivered, this effect will instantly destroy the target item reducing it to dust, even if the item was Unshatterable; as well the item cannot be affected by Refit or Rebuild. This ability can be used once each reset, however, the character may bank 10 Production Points at check-in for an additional use.

Deep Roots

The Ent begins to realize how deep their roots actually run. The character is are treated as having +1 rank of Knowledge (Nature). This stacks with the Scholar Background and with the Circle benefit if casting rituals.

This ability duplicates Detect Magic but only works on Planar effects, allowing the character to see traces of such, as well as identify what type of Planar energy it is.

Devotion

Each Shield fulfills their devotion to the cause in a different role in accordance with the Orders tenants. At rank 5 the character must choose which path they follow and will receive the matching benefits at Rank 5 and 10. This is an Encounter ability, which can be used 1/reset.

Hospitaler- Cannot wield a weapon in their main hand nor take offensive actions for the duration. During this time the character gains the following benefits: Rank 5- On a 10 counted action you can heal a target for 10 points, the target will heal missing Body Points first and then Armor Points. Rank 10- the counted action is reduced to a 5 count. To use this ability you must be in contact with the target during the count. The call at the end of the count is "Heal 10". Protectorate- Must be on the front line to act as a defense for others. During this time the character gains the following benefits: Rank 5- increases allies (up to 10 targets) armor value by 10 points and; Rank 10- in addition to the bonus armor, all of those affected gain the Fast Linked Adv. Armor property, for the encounter.

Diffusion of Body

This ability allows the character to remove all status effects from their person and instantly assume an Arcane Gaseous Form. This can be used so long as the character is under their own control, and conscious. This ability can be used once each reset, however the character can expend an Iron Will for an additional use.

Discern Location

Once each reset you can spend 10 minutes focusing on the target to generate the effect of a Discern Location.

Double Attack

This ability may be used when the character has successfully made a weapon attack upon a target, and the target defended against it in ANY fashion. The character may then call "Double Attack", forcing the target to defend again or suffer the effect of the attack.

Event the character will gain either one Advanced Recipe for a production skill they possess, or one Ritual Scroll they meet the requirements to cast, that they do not currently have.

Drop of Blood

The viral load in your blood can repair your body to a usable-if-not-perfect standard, given even a drop of blood from which to work. This passively counters effects that destroy your body, preventing you from receiving a Life effect. Additionally, if you have the Self-Stabilize power it sets you to 1*Body Point* instead of 0.

Duck and cover

Creatures that deal Massive damage are rarely quick, and you have learned to read their motions. This ability grants the character Resist Massive, which is specifically used against attacks with the Massive Modifier. This ability can be used 3 times each reset.

Duty Paramount

Whenever the character uses their racial Resist Mind, it also grants the character a Mind Guard effect (as per the Mind Guard spell).

This ability allows the character to generate a spell effect (based on the character's power source), with the call "Elemental <Effect>". Inner Plane generates the Implosion effect, Acheron generates the Kill effect, and Abyss generates the Psionic Command effect.

Elemental Damage

This grants the character a pool of damage that can be thrown in increments of 5 points of damage with the call "Elemental X <Flavor>"; where "X" is the damage and the Flavor is aligned to the Plane or power they champion. The Flavors are as follows: Inner Plane grants Fire, Stone, Water, or Wind, Acheron grants Shadow, and Abyss grants Psionic Body.

Elemental Focus

Elemental Rush

This effect allows the character to alter the delivery of their spells and abilities. Instead of the normal incant or activation, this ability allows the character to deliver a Spell or Technique with the Elemental Delivery Type.

Empathic Thoughts

This power allows the character to read the thoughts of another creature they are in contact with. To use the ability, the character must be in contact with the target and must expend 1 Psionic Point. This allows the characters to have an OOG conversation and is completely Role-Play. Once the character has reached Rank 5, they can detect sentient creatures near them; this is called as "Everyone in the sound of my Voice Detect Sentient". Once a character has reached Rank 10, they can expend 5 Psionic Points to ask a question that must be answered truthfully out of game.

Empathic Transfer

This ability allows the character to transfer body damage or active status conditions from another character to them self. This ability costs 1 Psionic Point to transfer an effect but can transfer Body Damage freely. This takes a 3 counted action to transfer.

Enshroud

When this ability is activated, all targets in the current Encounter, can only perceive and remember the caster as a featureless shadowy figure. While the Enshroud is active the character can use the Surprise Modifier twice.

Ethereal Walk

This power allows the character to almost instantly vanish and appear 20 steps away. When used the player calls "Arcane Teleport", and then puts their hands on their head and takes their 20 steps. If this puts a character on the other side of a building then the distance is measured roughly, as the 20 steps is a straight line that can pass through walls, building, and even magical barriers.

Fairies Blood

As the characters' true nature is further awakened, their tie to the past changes them even further. The characters' Resist Enchantment skill now becomes Resist Arcane while on the Prime, and when they are on Essence the skill becomes Resist Magic instead.

Favor of the Gods

Devotion and service are rewarded by the powers that be. The character is granted divine favor for their works and are awarded an amount of loose equal to their first SP each event.

When trying to locate a known person that is of the same clan, they can replicate the Discern Location effect. When trying to locate a known Deep Elf they gain +2 Bonus on Tracking Contested Rolls, or tracking a known target that is not a Deep Elf they gain +1 Bonus to a Tracking Contested Roll.

Force of Nature

This ability allows the character to utilize 'The Trees Are Angry' power against any unnatural creature, (Abomination and Undead creatures are the most common), not just those who have damaged a tree in their presence.

For the People

You may use the Defend ability to defend another High-Elf, once each Encounter.

Fortitude

This ability increases the character's base Body Points by 30, for 1 hour or Module. When this effect expires, the amount is removed from the character's Maximum Body Points, not their current Body Points.

Fully Colonized

Your infection has taken on new heights and can fix you even faster. Using the Trollsblood power only requires 2 Regenerations to be expended instead of 3.

Gate

This ability requires the character to spend 10 minutes concentrating and needs a plot marshal present to use. This ability allows the character to open a gateway to the Inner Plane; this gateway will allow movement back and forth to the chosen plane. When opened the character must set the time frame that the gate will stay open up to a maximum of 12 hours, the character can close the gate at any time from either side by touching the gate and concentrating for 1 minute.

Greater Passlock

This ability alters the Passlock ability granting the following additional properties. Can now pass through a magically locked/sealed door; and at Rank 8 the character can remove a single item from a sealed container; they can ask a marshal the rough size and shape of items in the container they can choose from.

Harden Skin

This ability causes the character's skin to become more rigid and firm, granting the benefit of the Harden Skin power, and stacks with the power if the character already has it. This makes manufactured armor hard to fit, however, and the character becomes limited to Light Armor as a wearable maximum, regardless of class.

Harm Touch

This ability is used with the call "Arcane Harm Touch <Fire/Stone/Water/Wind/Iron>". This will deal 75 points of damage to the target and will heal the character for an equal amount, up to their maximum Body Points. This attack is delivered with a weapon and is one swing, hit or miss.

Healed by the Light

At this stage the character's connection with the purity of the silver moon light has become so strong that by standing in the moonlight they can gain the effects of Slow Regeneration, allowing them to spend 1-minute concentrating while not in combat, at the end of which they will be healed to their maximum Body Points. This bond does come with a drawback they cannot regenerate hit points lost due to attacks that had a Disease Effect Carrier or by attacks and Spell Pool damage with the Shadow Flavor Carrier.

Hear a Voice

Once per Event (and in BGAs), the character can use this ability to speak to their Ancestors in a one-hour Ritual that requires meditation, which will give insight into future events. The character gets to ask one question for every odd rank they have in the Shugenja Attunement. At a baseline, the answers given by the Ancestors will be equal to rank 5 in the correct Knowledge (Area) necessary, although plot may grant further information.

Heavy Blow

This ability allows the character to add the Critical Modifier to a limited number of attacks each reset.

Hold the Line

Holding the line means just that, and once you have decided to hold a point you will die there before you retreat. Once activated the character gains Immunity to the effects of Binding Strike, Charm, Command, Fear, Knockdown, Repel, Shun, and Terror. However, they cannot and will not leave the fight at least not while they have any control over it. This can be used once each reset and will last for an Encounter or up to 5 minutes.

Honor Bound

The Kensai must live their life by a strict code of law and honor to maintain their chi and bond.

- Disgrace before Dishonor
- Lies are the weapons of the weak and feeble
- Forsake the shadow, for it is corruption
- Obey the law of an honorable man's house
- Eschew unfairness and deceit
- Persevere to the end in any enterprise begun
- Never to refuse a challenge from an equal
- Never to turn the back upon a foe

Imbue Carrier

This ability allows the character to imbue another character's weapon with their chosen element (Fire/Stone/Water/Wind), allowing them to add that Flavor Carrier to their damage call for 5 minutes or one Encounter. Additionally when you have this ability and are the target of this effect your Base Weapon damage is increased by 1 point.

Immune to Disease

This ability makes the character Immune to all Diseases. In the case of carrier attacks, the character is only Immune to the effect but still takes the damage from such an attack.

Improved Resurrection

This ability increases the character's mastery of the arts of Resurrection far beyond what can simply be learned. The character gains a +2 Bonus to their Contested Roll; additionally once they reach rank 10 the time to perform a Resurrection is reduced by up to 5 minutes.

Improved Resistance

This ability functions the same as the Improved Racial, Resist Magic Power. If the character has already purchased the Improved Racial, Resist Magic Power, then all of their Resist Magic racial abilities, both purchased with Skill Points and earned from levels, become Resist Arcane/Magic.

Improved Taproot

As the character's link to nature becomes firmer, they are better able to call upon its healing ability. In addition to the effect of Taproot, the character can also gain other effects: 5 minutes of concentration will regenerate all lost or damaged limbs as per the Regenerate spell, 10 minutes of concentration will heal the character to maximum Body Points, and 15 minutes of concentration will cure ANY Disease affecting the character. These times are inclusive, so all benefits up to the time bracket spent concentrating are gained.

Inconspicuous

One of the first gifts to take hold is the ability for the character to alter their body's appearance. This ability allows the character to alter their base appearance in minor ways: eye color, hair color, height, and even weight can be altered a small amount. While this may not seem like a big deal, it makes it virtually impossible to identify the character based on just a description. Those who have interacted with the character for an extended period of time would still recognize them, but for a stranger there is no chance.

Infected Understanding

A Plaguebearer can tell at a glance what's wrong with someone - they've probably had the same thing wrong with them before, more than once. This acts as the Diagnose skill, except that it has no prerequisites and can be used at any distance where you do not have to yell for your target to know it's happening.

Inflict

This ability allows the character to gain one of two effects when it is used: add the Rot Effect Carrier to attacks made with the character's Claws, or may change the Flavor of the character's current Spell Pool Charges to Rot. This ability can be used twice each reset, and lasts for 5 minutes or one Encounter.

Into the Night

After the job is done, escape is the best action. This grants the character the Flee ability that can be used twice each reset.

Journeyman attunement

As the union between the Warder and egg becomes stronger, the unborn dragon begins to view the warder as a master or mentor; this regard makes the soon to be hatchling very loyal and protective. Due to the hatchling's nature, it will know 3 Read and Write skills and have 2 levels in 2 different Knowledge (Areas) that it is willing to share with the Warder, and allows the Warder to purchase Knowledge (Dragons) rank 3.

Know the Lingo

As a reflection of their need to deal in all lands, the character receives an additional Read and Write skill at no cost. In addition, they are well versed in contracts and deals, and will be very aware if they are being short-changed.

Lay of the Land

By the time the character has reached this level of training, they have done more than a small amount of traveling. The character can never truly become lost and is always able to backtrack their journeys to the starting point.

Lay Hands

This ability functions exactly as the Paladin class feature, with the exception that the Order power is only usable a limited number of times each reset based on the character's rank in the Seven Shields.

Leader's Wisdom

Both on and off the battlefield it is a leader's duty to offer guidance and to boost morale. By working with another character who is performing a counted action, the Pack Master can reduce the time by 50%.

Link Body

This ability combines the caster and a target's base Body Point totals together, and then divides them equally for the duration. (Example:

Caster has 30 Body Points and the target has 14 Body Points. While this effect is active, their Body Point totals would change to 22 for each of them.) This ability requires 5 minutes of concentration to forge the link, which once created, will last for one hour or Module.

Locate Item

This ability allows the character to spend 10 minutes focusing on a very specific item that they either have seen or have a very good description of. At the end of the time, this ability will generate the Locate Item Ritual effect.

Longevity

This ability causes Basic items created by the character to last double the normal amount of time before expiring.

Lore

This grants the Loremaster a benefit that corresponds with the Knowledge Area of their choosing. Each time this ability is gained the player must choose a different Knowledge. The Loremaster must have purchased 5 ranks in the associated knowledge skill in order to choose lore.

| Knowledge | Lore |
|-----------|--|
| Astronomy | Can cast 10 levels of Spell Slots each reset, follows all standard casting rules. |
| Cycle | Resist Spirit/Shadow once each reset |
| Geography | Resist Impairment once each reset |
| History | Reduces the effect of Forget by 75% |
| Magic | Gain a free Ritual into Memory |
| Nature | Resist Toxin once each reset |
| Nautical | Gains Underwater Combat |
| Nobility | Guild discount up to 20% of Market |
| Planes | Resist Elemental once each reset |
| Warfare | Gain a Tier 2 Combat Slot |
| Race | Racial Affinity |

Magic Allergy

As one of the first Fey lines, the Wildlings were truly creatures of the Arcane and the power of magic was something they not only could not grasp, but in fact, were inept. This ability limits the character from being able to cast spells above 6th level; at Rank 5, this limit further drop to 3rd level spells; and at Rank 10, the character cannot use magic at all; this has no effect on Ritualism. Additionally, the ability limits the character to only be able to carry one Forged Item on their person. Carrying a second Forged Item reduces their maximum Body Points by half and attempting to carry more renders them Unconscious.

Magic Awaken

This ability allows the character to deliver with a packet a “Magic Awaken”, this functions as the spell.

Magic Freedom

Mana Flare

Years of work and effort have been spent to learn to control the ether of the world, and it is shown in this ability. When activated, the character visibly ignites with blue fire as the ether they are channeling becomes so strong and volatile it takes on an appearance; causing all spells cast to be delivered as Arcane, however, each spell cast as such consumes 1 maximum Body Point from the character. This loss of Body Points cannot be healed, as it is reducing their maximum Body Points, and if the character's maximum Body Points are reduced to 0, they instantly dissipate. The Body Points burned away by this ability will return after 8 hours of sleep. This ability can be used once each reset and lasts for 5 minutes or one Encounter.

Magic Life

This ability allows the character to deliver with a packet a “Magic Life”, this functions as the spell.

Magic Purify

This ability functions as the effect, removing all Metabolic and Disease effects from the target, no matter how they were generated.

Mana Sink

This ability allows the character to amplify the effects of tapping a Ley Line with Knowledge (Astronomy). When tapping a Ley Line with Knowledge (Astronomy), the time is reduced from 15 minutes to 2 minutes, and the cost is reduced to 2 Knowledge Points.

Message

This ability allows the character to send a short message to a target which must be a Midnight Thorn, with a preset number of words. To do so the player must either have a marshal deliver the message to the target or the player can go out of game to deliver the message. At Rank 1 the message can be up to 15 words; at Rank 5 the message can be up to 30 words.

Meta Augmentation

This ability augments the character's Ley Study power by granting them one additional Ley Point each time this ability is earned.

Mind Blast

This ability allows the character to inflict 10 points of Body damage to a target, with the call "Arcane Psionic 10 Body". This ability costs 2 Psionic Points.

Modify Resurrection

This ability grants new functions based on the characters Rank. At Rank 4 this allows the character to act as a Life Well for the purposes of resurrection. Dead characters can sense the player just like a Life Well. At Rank 7 this ability allows the character and others to join their skill of Resurrection together for a more powerful effect. Each additional character, with Resurrection, that is taking part adds 1 Success to the Contested Roll. At Rank 10 this ability allows the character to attempt to resurrect a number of targets at one time, equal to the character's purchased ranks of Resurrection.

Moon Beast

Once each reset the Moon-blooded can force themselves to shapechange and take on the form of a moon beast. This follows the normal rules for shape change, with the following differences: the character can stay shape changed this way for up to 1 hour and their form is humanoid so they can still use skills, speak, even use weapons and cast spells, and gain the following stats.

+20 Body Points

+2 Permanent Strength

Medium Claws

Silver to Hit

Resist Magic x 2

Flee x 5

Can use each of their other attunement abilities 1 additional time in this form.

Mushroom Ring

While many of the Fey know of the power of the fairy rings, Wildlings were some of the first to create and master them. The character can spend an hour growing a mushroom ring and create Fey portal that can be used to create a Gate between the Prime and Essence.

Mystery

This grants the Loremaster a benefit that corresponds with the Knowledge Area of their choosing. Each time this ability is gained the player must choose a different Knowledge. The Loremaster must have Lore in the associated Knowledge (Area) in order to choose a Mystery.

| Knowledge | Mystery |
|-----------|---|
| Astronomy | Once each month the character can use the High Horoscope ritual at no cost |
| Cycle | On a failed resurrection, the player rolls twice on the 2nd Contested Roll taking the better result |
| Geography | Beast Stride |
| History | Delve History as the ritual once each reset at no cost |
| Magic | Reduces the Named Component cost of Memorized Rituals they cast by up to 2 |

|----------|--|
| Nature | Once each reset can rapidly regenerate, healing the character to full Body Points and removing Toxins from their system. This effect takes 1 minute to have effect once activated; this can be activated while at -1. |
| Nautical | Can hold their breath underwater for up to 30 minutes unaffected by combat |
| Nobility | Always be treated as a Guild member for prices |
| Planes | Cross the Barrier (Twice each reset, takes 10 minutes to perform) |
| Warfare | Can use Zeal once each day |
| Race | Once each reset can use a races special ability for 1 hour or module |

Natural Shapechanger

Being a natural shapechanger means their bodies are almost free flowing in their ability to change form. This ability changes the character's base classification a small amount, granting them the following changes: Reduced Effect Stun: Daze and they can Regenerate damaged limbs on a 30 count as their body gets back to its natural form.

Nature's Fury

This ability gives the character a well of damage that can be thrown in any increment of 5 they choose. The ability is called as "Elemental <Damage> Lightning". This set pool is per reset and cannot be reset like Spell Pool.

No Escape

Escaping the character is a task that is not easy. This ability allows the character to prevent a target from escaping twice each reset, by countering the target's Flee. The call for this ability is "No Escape", but it cannot be used to Flee.

No Mans Fool

The character's focus on pursuing their target has been well honed. This ability causes the character to not be subject to illusions or disguises that their target is using to hide their true person.

Novice attunement

By naming the unhatched egg, the union becomes whole; this grants the Warder the ability to communicate with the unborn egg. The egg can learn from the warder and can see the world through the Warders' eyes. This may come in the form of Read and Write skills, as well as some Knowledge (Area) skills, and allows the Warder to purchase Knowledge (Dragons) rank 1.

One of Them

As your true nature takes over you are returned to a more natural state, as the world would see it. Natural animals will see you as one of the natural worlds and if not provoked or threatened, they will not harm you. There are even times that creatures of the wild may come to your aid. Almost as though the will of nature is for all its creatures to be at peace and survive.

Pack Commands

As the leader, your orders are heeded and followed. Each time this ability is gained, choose one option from the list below. These can be used interchangeably with your daily uses.

- Stalkers Command- This ability can only be used when none of the intended targets are in combat. This ability mimics Conceal but will be granted to up to 8 targets. Any Felis that are the target of this effect will have the duration doubled from 10 seconds to 20 seconds.
- Strikers Command- This ability grants up to 5 allies the following: 3 Blade effects of +5 Temporary Critical Weapon Damage. Felis characters who are the target of this effect gain 6 Blade effects, instead of 3.
- Prowlers Command- This ability will affect up to 8 allies when used. Each ally that is affected will become Immune to Blind, Slow, and Fog effects, as their other senses are heightened. Additionally, Felis can block the Flee skill, if used by an enemy. Making it almost impossible for a foe to get away. This ability lasts for 5 minutes or one Encounter.
- Hunters Command- Once you have the scent you can almost lead others to the prey. This ability will affect up to 5 targets. So long as you have found the targets scent, and the trail is no more than 24 hours old, each target gets Contested Roll with no modifiers. If a Felis is the target of this ability, then the Contested Roll has a +3 modifier.

Passlock

The ability allows the character to pass through a non-magically locked or sealed door, without harming the door, setting off Traps attached to the door, or disturbing whatever is holding it shut.

Phase

This ability allows the character to momentarily shift partially to another Plane, allowing them to negate a single attack of any type.

Plague Carrier

This ability may be used in one of two ways: the character either can make a Plague Strike attack with their Claws or can throw Natural Plague with a packet. This ability can be used three times each reset and is one attack, hit or miss.

Plague Host

The Plague Bearer's colony has adapted almost fully to them and now seeks to be the only thing crawling around inside them. This ability causes the character to become Immune to all parasitic creatures and Diseases, as their colony violently attacks them upon entry. Additionally, whenever the character reaches -1 Body Points and begins Bleeding Out, their body reeks of a rotten corpse. This causes Natural animals (other than carrion feeders) and even some humanoids to just avoid the character's body like the plague.

Planar Asylum

This ability will protect the character and up to 10 of their allies from the adverse effects of the Inner Plane for 1 hour or Module.

Planar Conduit

This ability replicates the effect of the Contact Extra Planar Creature ritual.

Play Dead

This ability allows the character to fake their own death, fooling even the most advanced detections. When this ability is used, the character falls prone and for up to the next 6 minutes is considered Dead. This effect can be ended at any time before the end of the duration; however, if it is not ended they will Dissipate. While using this skill, they are not subject to effects that do not function on a Dead target; this includes Kill effects, Toxins, and most spell effects. Skills like Diagnose will also show the target as Dead. Additionally, since the character's body smells dead, natural animals (with the exception of carrion breeds) will leave them alone.

Protector of the Realm

While wielding an Elven crafted weapon that is also Delimited, the character gains an additional number of Combat or Spell Slots levels equal to their Ranks in Knowledge (High-Elf), this stacks with the effect of Delimit.

Psionic Clear

This ability works like Dispel but only removes the following effects: Charm, Command, Fear, Feeblemind, Paralysis, Shun, and Stun. This ability can be used to remove a listed effect from their person at double the normal cost. This ability costs 2 Psionic Points.

Psionic Shun

This ability functions exactly like the Shun spell. This ability costs 3 Psionic Points.

Psionic Charm

This ability functions exactly like the Charm spell. This ability costs 3 Psionic Points.

Psionic Sleep

This ability functions exactly like the Sleep spell. This ability costs 4 Psionic Points.

Psionic Command

This ability functions exactly like the Command spell. This ability costs 4 Psionic Points.

Psionic Restore

This ability can instantly remove almost all that ails a target. When used this will heal the target for up to 40 Body Points and will remove all status effects that do not have a Permanent duration or require a specific cure. This costs 6 Psionic Points to use.

Psionic Slay

This ability deals 100 points of Body damage to the target. This is a Slay effect. This ability costs 6 Psionic Points.

Psychic Bastion

This ability allows the character to harden their minds, making mental attacks against them futile. This ability must be used in advance and cannot be used reflectively. When used, the character will gain a Resist Mind; this can be used multiple times to stack up Resists. Use of this ability takes 1 minute of Concentration and will last for 1 hour or until the Resist Mind is used. This ability costs 4 Psionic Points.

Pure Breed

Only those of the strongest bloodlines are dominant enough to command the respect of the pack. This strength of bloodline grants the character 5 Permanent Body Points and Immunity to Fear and Terror effects.

Razor Talons

This ability allows the character to shift their natural claws into vicious weapons. This increases their base damage with Claws by 1 point permanently.

Reflective

Remembrance of the past is by far the virtue revered most by the Knights. When Knights rest their minds, they reflect on things that have come to pass, allowing them a second chance to scan the knowledge of their lives. At marshal discretion, the player may ask for information that they have learned but have forgotten.

Repulsion Rune

This ability creates a glyph that once placed, will cause enemies to avoid it; keeping them at least 10 feet away from the glyph. If an enemy is actively engaged in combat, they may ignore the glyph's effect versus their current single target, after which they must back away. The glyph must be Phys-Repped by a minimum 12"x12" glyph placed on the ground and announced to make NPC's aware of the presence of its effect. This ability's effect will last up to 1 hour, as long as the character stays within Line of Sight of the glyph.

Resist <Type>

This ability allows the character to Resist a single effect, the type of effect varies with the source of their power. Inner Plane can resist Implosion, and any effect that has Fire/Stone/Water/Wind Flavor in the call, Acheron can resist any Metabolic or Mental effect, and Abyss can resist any effect that would render them Helpless.

Resist Control

This ability allows the character to resist being controlled by the following effects: Binding, Charm, Command, Fear, and Shun.

Resist Shadow

This ability allows the character to Resist Shadow effects and spells.

Resist Surprise

This ability allows the character to Resist attacks with the Surprise Modifier twice each reset.

Resist Elemental

This ability allows the character to Resist an attack with either the Elemental Delivery Type or had Fire/Stone/Water/Wind Flavor in the call.

Resist Toxin

This ability allows the character to resist an attack with the Poison Delivery Type, a Disease in the call, or has an Effect Carrier.

Reverie

As a sentinel and watcher of sacred places, the believers must make their body and mind one and the same, and with this comes some advantages. Knights do not require sleep like many of the other races they only require rest, which is gained in a form of meditation. With this ability, the character does not need to sleep.

Roar of Courage

This ability allows the character to inspire Courage in their allies on the battlefield; used with the call "All allies Voice Courage".

Runic Blood

Unlocking the ancient warding magic of the dwarves you have harnessed the power to change even yourself. This ability allows the character's Resist Toxin racial abilities that are earned from levels, not purchased with Skill Points, to resist Magic or Toxins.

Sacred Strike

An Ascetic with this ability has learned all the flavors of the spirit, and can bring any of them to bear when called. When this ability is activated, the character may change their weapon's Flavor Carrier to "Ward"; this Flavor Carrier has no special effect other than it will overcome any creature's "to hit" requirements. This ability lasts for 1 hour or Module.

Sacred Vigor

Ascetics through necessity are often exposed to harsh elements; however, such things cease to be a bother after a time. This ability negates all reasonable Prime environmental effects (no amount of physical conditioning lets them survive being tossed into a volcano, for example). At marshal discretion, it may ease effects of other Planes, but this cannot be relied upon. Additionally, they are Immune to the Fatigue effect. At Ascetic rank 9, the character can exist without breathing for up to 8 hours and can survive for up to one week without food or water and suffer no ill effects.

Salvage

This ability allows the character to break down an item into base components, destroying the item but leaving behind up to 70% of the creation components based on the time remaining on the duration. This can only be done at check-in and costs a number of Production Points equal to the item being salvaged, in the case of advanced items, it takes 10 production points.

Scent

Secret

The Loremaster unlocks some hidden power from the past. This ability allows the character to emulate any Technique once each reset.

Self-Resurrection

This ability reflects the character's bond to and control of the spirit world, granting them a number of benefits: The character has the ability to use the Resurrection skill on themselves at a Life Well to return to life, though they must still perform a Contested Roll with a Marshal present, so their death is recorded; the character is aware of their surroundings while in their death count; and finally, the character can instantly resurrect themselves on the battlefield without need of a Contested Roll, restoring up to 50% of their expended resources, though doing so costs them a permanent loss of 5 Favor and they still take a death on their character card.

Sentinel in the Night

It is the Pack Master's duty to guard the pack, especially when the pack is the most vulnerable. This ability allows the character to generate the Night's Watch effect once each reset.

Shape of the Wild

This ability allows the character to shapechange using the Empowered (No Boost/Enhance) stats found in Appendix 1. While shapechanged all normal rules apply, however they can only stay in this form for up to 1 hour or Module.

Shapechange: Beast

This functions as the Caller class feature Shifter, with the exceptions that the only form is a large silver <Animal>. The stats for the beast are as follows:

20 Hit Points

20 Natural Armor

+3 Strength

Single Medium Claw (Bite) "5 Silver"

Flee x 1/Day

Resist Magic x 1/Reset

Resist Toxin x 1/Reset

Shared Lineage

When this ability is earned, the dragon begins to bond with its Warder. Due to this mystical connection, the character takes on some minor changes in appearance: developing scales of the eggs' color around the edges of their face and on the tops of their hands. This alteration comes with the benefits of +1 Permanent Strength, and 10 points of Natural Armor that go above class maximum and are limited to 2 uses of the Knowledge Dragons 5 ability per hour or module, instead of the normal limit of 1.

Shared Minor Lineage

When this ability is earned, the egg's bond with the Warder strengthens. Due to this mystical connection, the character becomes able to Glide at will. Glide functions like Featherfall, however, the character may choose where to land, so long as the landing location is both lower than where they started and within 100 yards.

Shield Against the Impure

An Ascetic with this ability has forsworn greed and false treasure, and in doing so has gained a measure of power over the wondrous. This ability allows the character to turn aside special weaponry in two ways: first, it strips all Flavor Carriers, Effect Carriers and Modifiers from melee weapon attacks, except for Critical, Massive, and Surprise; second, the character gains Threshold 4. This confers no special defense against spells, Bombs, Vials, or other non-weapon attacks. This ability can be used once per reset and lasts for 5 minutes or one Encounter.

Silencing Strike

This ability allows the character to deliver a powerful weapon attack, announced as "Silence Strike", which will Silence the target. The attack can be delivered with Melee or Ranged weapon and must land a legal weapon blow to affect the target; this is one attack, hit or miss.

Silver Haven

The moon creates more than just light, it also creates all the shadows of the night, and as such it gives the moon-blooded the power to manipulate the light and shadows. When this ability is used the call is "Natural Conceal" and follows the normal hand gesture rules; however, the character can stay hidden in this manner for up to 1 minute. This ability can only be used at night, outdoors, where there is moonlight.

Silver Light

The bond with the moon is a strong one, and it can control the characters will as it controls the ocean. While the character is outside at night and there is some amount of moonlight; the character is Immune to Berserk, Fear, and Shun effects. The bond however comes with a setback causing the character to be Vulnerable: Shadow.

Size them Up

Years of training in the field and intense study has given the character the ability to truly understand their foes far better than those who have simply studied war. By spending a 10 counted action studying a monster, the character can get a very good feel for its prowess and ability. This ability may be hard to use on in town random monsters but can be used on Modules with little issue. While this will not get you a copy of the monster card, it will give you good information, which could greatly turn an upcoming battle: I.E. rough Body Point totals, their approx. damage and some offensive/defensive abilities. This ability can be used once each reset for each rank of Knowledge (Warfare) the character has purchased.

Smite

This ability allows the character to deliver a heavy blow against their target. It is used by calling "Arcane Smite" and landing a legal weapon blow. This attack deal 100 points of Spirit flavored damage to the target. This attack is delivered with a weapon and is one swing, hit or miss.

Speak with Nature

This ability allows the character to communicate on a very basic level with natural animals and plants. Realize that just because you can communicate with them does not infer and kind of special intelligence to the target and they be limited to their natural sensory abilities. As well it does not change a targets disposition to the character just because it can understand you.

Speak with Spirits

This ability allows the character to contact a person that has been permanently dead for up to 50 years. For this ability to work, the character must know the target's name. This requires a Marshal and 10 minutes of concentration.

Spell Jammer

This ability allows the character to place the natural flow of magic into a knot. This ability is delivered using the call "<Target> Voice Inept Magic", and will prevent to use of any magic by the target, per Inept. This ability will not function on Relics or Artifacts, which may still be used by the target. This effect last for 24 hours or until the target dies.

Spell Turning

This ability allows the character to empower their Ley to rebound magic that is used against them, back to the original caster. If the character does not have the Spell Turning skill, then this ability allows them to now use that skill as though they had purchased it, but do not gain the additional Ley Point. If the character already has Spell Turning, then this ability changes how it can be used: For 1 Ley Point, damage with the Magic Delivery Type can be turned; for 2 Ley Points, normally incanted spells or effects with the Magic Delivery Type that appear on the Spell Lists in the Magic and Spell Casting section can be turned; for 3 Ley Points, effects with the Magic Delivery Type that do not appear on the Spell Lists can be turned; and for 4 Ley Points, effects with the Arcane Delivery Type that appear on the Spell Lists can be turned.

Spirit Anchor

This ability allows the character to keep a targets spirit from fleeing their body to seek the River. If the target is currently in their Bleed Out count, they will instantly be set to 0 Body Points and be stabilized. However, if the target is in their Death count, it will restart their count.

Spirit Energy

This ability can function in one of two ways, chosen when it is used: it either imbues the character's weapon with the Spirit Flavor Carrier, or changes the Flavor of their current Spell Pool to Spirit. This ability lasts for up to 5 minutes or one Encounter.

Spirit Made Steel

Pure spirit is proof against weapons; an Ascetic who knows this secret may wrap their spirit around themselves as armor. Each time this ability is earned, the character gains 15 points of Natural Armor that stacks with itself cumulatively. This Natural Armor may be readjusted with 60 seconds of concentration or healed as normal. It may stack with manufactured armor, but the combination cannot exceed the maximum total allowed by class and other powers. At Ascetic rank 5, the character can no longer wear manufactured armor, as they cast off the last of their physical ties. At this point, once an Ascetic has gained sufficient rank to equal or exceed their class armor maximum, they continue to gain Natural Armor from this ability, exceeding their class maximum. Additionally, this ability extends to the Ascetic's weaponry, granting them a Weapon Ward once each reset each time this ability is earned.

Spirit Touch

The Shugenja can begin to speak to lesser spirits that live in all objects. This allows them to ask one question per knowledge point of an object. Note – most objects will have very low intelligence so their information may be limited.

Strengthened Spirit

This ability extends the character's death count by 10 minutes; making it 14 minutes total. This does not affect the 2 minute Bleed Out count; an Ascetic may die as quickly as anyone else, but their spirit holds fast to their body long past the point when others would leave to resurrect.

Strong Lineage

High Elves, unlike some races, were gifted creations of a wind dragon. Through devotion of their ancestors and the race, the character unlocks hidden potential. This ability allows the character to cast the following spell like abilities twice per reset: "Magic 5 Healing", "Magic 10 Wind", "Magic Knock", and "Magic Shielding or Blade". At Knights of the Fallen Leaves rank 7, these can be used a number of times each reset equal to the number of ranks of Knowledge (High Elf) the character has purchased.

Sturdy

This ability causes weapons and shields wielded by the character to be Immune to Shatter, Destroy, or any other effect that harms items.

Sutra of Hastened Steps

A Mistweaver with this degree of enlightenment can use the Mist as a highway leading anywhere. This increases overland travel speed by up to 10 times, and a Mistweaver can accommodate a number of guests equal to their Mistweaver rank.

Sutra of Safe Travel

Once per reset, (an additional use can be had by expending 2 Iron Will) a sufficiently enlightened Mistweaver can recite this Sutra, with the call 'Natural Teleport' to immediately travel to any location that fits one of these requirements:

- It must be a place the Mistweaver has physically visited prior to this invocation, upon invitation.
- Must be a location that the weaver considers a safe sanctum for himself.
- A location assigned or granted by a grandmaster.

Sutra of Weaving

Twice each reset, a Mistweaver may weave from the Mist any one piece of normal gear; a sword, a shield, a compass, a rope, or other simple item. This equipment is normal in every respect except that it may not be destroyed by any means. Mist weapons are good for one module or 1 hour. Other Mist items can be counted on for five minutes, but may extend longer at marshal discretion

Sutra of Wonders Realized

Each day during the Mistweaver's morning meditation, they can perform this ability. This ability allows the character to weave an exotic item from the Mist that is an extension of themselves, though they may only maintain one such item at any given time. Once chosen the item will remain until the character sleeps, 24 hours has passed, or the character resurrects. Items from this ability are automatically considered Indestructible, will not function for anyone other than the character, and should the item be unattended, it is insubstantial and cannot be touched by anyone other than the character. Most commonly these are weapons, however other items can be created this way. The following list are examples of effects that can be generated with this power. This list is left intentionally vague; don't get out of hand, and Plot won't have to roll their eyes.

- Weapons- Flavor Carrier:

(Fire/Stone/Water/Wind/Silver/Magic/Iron)

- Armor- Resistance x 3/day (Fire/Stone/Water/Wind)
- Vestments- Self Stabilizing, Shadow Resistance 10
- Crafting Tools- Lowers the creation time of items made with a production skill by up to 3 minutes (the character must have ranks in the chosen skill, and can still only produce items they already have access to), to a minimum of 1 minute per item.

Surge of Might

Meditation and focus teaches the character to channel their chi in many directions at once, and shape it like a weapon. This ability grants the character +2 Permanent Strength for 5 minutes or one Encounter, and may be used a limited number of times per reset.

Symbiotic Aid

Healing effects now rejuvenate your colonies, and they in turn work to repair your body. This ability causes the character to receive double the amount of Body Points from healing effects, regardless of source.

Take them Alive

This ability allows the character to generate a "Natural Spinneret", which functions exactly like the Spinneret spell. This ability can be used once each reset

Tame the Ether

The character can cast an additional number of levels of Spell Slots each reset equal to their combined ranks in Knowledge (Astronomy) and Knowledge (Magic). These spells must come from the characters Spell List.

Tooth and Claw

The Pack Master prowess with natural weapons is paramount, and it shows. This ability improves the character's skill with Claws, by granting the character the Lengthen Claws Power. If the character already has this Power, then it increases their base damage with Claws by 1 point.

Tough Enough

This ability allows the character to tap into the potency of their heritage for a brief time. When activated, this grants the character Damage Cap 5 for one hour or Module. This ability can be used once each reset.

Treewalk

This ability allows the character to use the Treewalk Ritual once each reset at no cost, and can transport a number of allies equal to their rank in the Thickets attunement plus their ranks in Knowledge (Nature). Other Ents with the Thickets attunement are not counted towards that limit.

Unbroken Vow

By now the Kensai has solidified their chi and therefore has stayed true to a lawful and honorable path. The character's resolve has become almost unwavering and as such they become Immune to the following effects: Charm, Command, and Shun, though this does not make the character Immune to any damage or other effects that may be part of the attack. At Kensai rank 10, this ability also makes the character Immune to Enslavement and Thrall.

Unchained

The minds of Shattered Chains simply refuse to be held down by the will of others. This ability reduces the duration of the following effects on the character to a 3 count: Charm, Command, Enslavement, Shun, and Thrall.

Unleashed

This ability allows the character call upon the beast that runs through their veins. Once each reset, the character can use the Battlerage ability.

Untaintable

This ability makes the character Immune to Curses, to effects that trap a spirit, as well as effects that create undead.

Venom Immunity

This ability makes the character Immune to effects with the Poison Delivery Type that are not from the Chemistry skill; meaning that they do not have "Vial" in the call. In addition, this ability makes the character Immune to Venom, though this does not make the character Immune to any damage or other effects that may be part of the attack.

Vigilance Rune

This ability creates a glyph that once placed, will prevent enemies from going unseen; preventing use of skills or abilities like Conceal, Hide, and Invisibility. The glyph must be Phys-Repped by a minimum 12"x12" glyph placed on the ground, and announced to make NPC's aware of the presence of its effect. This ability's effect will last up to 1 hour, as long as the character stays within Line of Sight of the glyph.

Voice Delivered Courage

This ability is a voice deliver effect, called as "Everyone in the sound of my voice Courage" this effect will dispel all Fear effects from all targets who can hear the call.

Voice of the Wild

This ability allows the character to deliver by Voice a Charm or Command effect at a Plant or Animal creature, and is used with the call "<Target> Voice Charm/Command Animal/Plant"; so long as the target is the correct type, they will be affected. This ability requires the character to be able to speak In Game.

Vow of Purity

The Ascetic has taken a sacred vow to avoid contact with dead flesh. To fulfill the vow, the character may not touch fallen foes, may fight undead foes (but must purify themselves as soon as possible afterward), and may touch dead characters in order to restore them to life with spells or abilities that require one to touch the corpse, but for no other purpose. If the character does touch dead flesh or combat an undead creature, they must purify themselves in a special ritual that requires 1 hour and a flask of blessed water. This ability makes the character Immune to Disease, though this does not make the character Immune to any damage or other effects that may be part of the attack. At Ascetic rank 6, the character also becomes Immune to Nausea and Plague; and at Ascetic rank 9, the character becomes Immune to Venom and Wither. These additional Immunities follow the same rule that this does not make the character Immune to any damage or other effects that may be part of the attack.

Wanderlust

The passion to explore and learn makes them hard to control. The character becomes Immune to the effects listed under the Resist Enchantment skill. The character also becomes Vulnerable: Iron.

Warding Rune

This ability allows the character to place a powerful protection on an ally. When used, the target's weapons and armor become Unshatterable for 5 minutes or 1 Encounter.

Watcher of the Departed

Preservation of life is as important as that of the past. This ability allows the character to bring an ally's Death Count to a halt so long as the character maintains concentration and contact with the ally's body.

Way of the Birch

Slim, willowy, and seemingly weak, the Birch tree is truly unique in its beauty. However, it is also one of the most used trees for various woodworking projects by younger races. This ability allows the character to borrow from nature to assist in fueling themselves. The character can use Knowledge (Nature) to tap Nature for Combat Slots or Spell Slots as one with Knowledge (Astronomy) can tap a Ley Line. This must be done in a natural setting and can only be used a number of times per Event equal to the number of ranks in Knowledge (Nature) that the character has purchased.

Way of the Cedar

The majestic Cedar tree is found far and wide across the plain. By studying its strength, the character is able to channel its power into their own body. When in a natural setting, the character is always treated as having their choice of either the Ash or Oak spell effect.

Way of the Cottonwood

Cottonwood Thickets leave marks that are seen far and wide; sometimes even convincing others that it is snowing. The character always leaves a trail wherever they go, and while this makes them easier to Track (+3 Bonus), it also allows them to always find their way home. This effect ends at the close of each Event.

Way of the Cypress

Usually growing out of fetid swamps yet infinitely beautiful in their own right, those that follow the way of the Cypress gain 1 Resist Toxin each reset.

Way of the Juniper

Though the character's skin cracks easily, they are made of sterner stuff. A Thicket following the Way of the Juniper receives an additional +5 Natural Armor.

Way of the Maple

The sap of a maple tree is used to by many races to the sweetest of treats. But you've learned to use it for a deadlier effect when necessary. You may use either "Poison Life" or "Poison Venom" as an ability twice per reset.

Way of the Pine

Pine needles have been the bane of many a critter, and with this ability, the character has learned to sharpen them to deadly accuracy. This ability grants the character an attack pool (much like a Spell Pool) with points equal to 5 times their Thickets rank. This ability uses the Spell Pool rules for its function, with the only difference being that the call to use the ability is the same as a ranged weapon attack; "X Normal". This pool is refreshed after 5 minutes of concentration.

Way of the Sycamore

The Sycamore is one of the oldest species of tree on this planet. As such, a Thicket that devotes themselves to its study may ask 1 Nature related Delve History question between games (or at Plot's acceptance if during an Event). If the character wishes to use this ability during an Event, it will require the use of Ent Moot.

Way of the Yew

Weave Fate

Once each reset, the Mistweaver may change the weave of fate for themselves. This ability allows the character to call a generic Resist to a single attack that strikes only them.

Way of the Walnut

As a food source for all of nature, the Walnut stands near to the hearts of many. This ability allows the character to produce 1 random Rare Foodstuff/Herbal component each reset.

Work Ether

This ability duplicates the Unleash Elements Heroic Power; however, they do not need any of the prerequisites.

Cosmology and World Mechanics

Noble Titles and Their Roles

Understanding the Noble System

In Fallen Empires there are any number of lands and kingdoms in which there will be some form of nobility, ruling class, and social order. While each of these may function a little differently and have differing laws, the base mechanics of the nobility can be applied across the board.

There are three kinds of nobles, the Ruling Class (R), the Servicing Class (S), and those of Notoriety (N). Nobles of the Ruling Class often carry an amount of authority in the lands they oversee allowing them pass judgment on those under their watch. Nobles of the Servicing Class also have some amount of authority though it is at the behest of a Ruling Noble and they normally can only enforce laws not punish crimes. Those of the Notoriety class have no authority, though do command respect in noble circles; as most of these nobles have earned their place/title through loyalty and service to the ruling class.

Unranked

- Sheriff(S)- A keeper of the peace, normally assigned by a higher noble to help with the day to day of the law. They have the authority to detain and arrest individuals that break the law, so long as they have proof
- Squire(N)- While a valid title; it carries no lands or power, but some amount of respect. Squires are knights in training either to a Knight or a Higher Lord of the lands.
- Landsgrave(R)- This title carries respect among the township they watch over, typically found in smaller communities a respected elder will hold this position, and work similar to a mayor. They collect the town's needs and worries and address them with the next ranking noble above them.

Tier 1- Nobility

Nobles of this rank are non-landed. But do receive compensation from the kingdoms for their duties; this pay is 5 Silver each month.

- Magistrate(R)- Much like a sheriff they have the ability to detain and arrest offenders, though in many cases they also have the ability to pass judgment and issues sentences on minor offenses.
- Knight(S)- As a sworn vassal to the kingdom, those that have been accepted by the crown and knighted carry with them the respect of the people. While they do not have the right to detain, they are the swords of the kingdom and are charged to uphold the law and protect the people. Kings and Counts can grant knighthood without question, Barons can also knight those loyal to the crown, but must seek approval from the count and be able to provide proof of valor. When addressing a person of this rank the appropriate address is Sir.
- Steward(S)- As the voice and shepherd for the people, the Steward is the eyes and ears for a Baron. They spend their time seeing to the people's needs, and working to ensure that the people of the lands receive the aid they need.
- Esquire(N)- This noble title is one of recognition more than anything else, which means that while you have no granted power you are known and respected. It does not grant any form of authority or ability when it comes to the law.

Tier 2- Nobility

Nobles of this rank can be landed. They also receive compensation from the kingdoms for their duties; this pay is 1 Gold each month.

- Marquise(S)- While this position could detain, though they almost never would. Their role is more of a face for a higher noble, typically a Baron or Count. They act as a noble administrator often being the face that lower nobles deal with on minor affairs.

- Justicar(S)- While low on the chain of nobility they carry great burden and power. Justicars are chosen by the king to act as his personal oversight for his lands; they not only handle the oversight of lower nobles but also keep tabs on the actions of every noble under the King and carry the authority to arrest and pass judgment on any noble in the kingdom. They carry the authority of High Justice, at the king's behest to protect the people and the lands. For this they are never landed and take no family, as they are constantly traveling and having no ties make them loyal to none but the King and the people.
- Baronet/Hereditary Knight(N)- Some are just born into it, those with this title are in fact born into a family that has been loyal to a Baron/Count and the Kingdom long enough that a forefather was knighted, and that title was passed to the oldest child. They often have a small amount of granted land. While they have stature they do not carry the right to pass judgment but will detain offenders and see them to the proper authorities. When addressing a person of this rank the appropriate address is Sir.
- Matriarch/Patriarch (N)- This title is bestowed upon the head of a Noble house, that has earned such notoriety in the ruling lands. They have no power or authority though they are still noble.

Tier 3- Nobility

Nobles of this rank are landed. And receive compensation from the kingdoms for their duties; this pay is 5 Gold each month.

- Baron(R)- This landed noble is granted so by either heir or chosen by superiors. The position entails the oversight and management for a large area of land, ranging from a large city to all the lands surrounding that area. They have the ability to pass laws for their domain so long as they are not against the imperial laws and are not contradictory to their count. When addressing a person of this rank the appropriate address is Lord.

- Viscount(R)- Very similar to barons in their stature they tend to own large amounts of land, and while they are not a ruling noble they do have the ear of the workings. Many viscounts inherit their position, as it is passed along through birth. When addressing a person of this rank the appropriate address is Lord.
- Knight Templar(S)- Knights that have proven themselves through acts of loyalty and valor are given this title. While their power changes little they are often granted small lands and stature for their service. When addressing a person of this rank the appropriate address is Templar.

Tier 4

- Count(R)- Each kingdom has two counts they act as the ruling heads for approximately half of a kingdom at the king's direction. They hold extreme power as they are the top of the line for the vast majority of people in a kingdom. When addressing a person of this rank the appropriate address is Lord.
- Regent(S)- This position is often referred to as the hand of the king, as the regents are in fact the ones that carry out the king's wishes and see to it that the rest of the kingdom falls in line. They act as his inner council of advisors. When addressing a person of this rank the appropriate address is Lord Regent.

Tier 5

- King/Queen(R)- This seat is hereditary though the Emperor has the power to remove and name a new king should he see fit to do so. While this position has a lot of power, the role of the king is to be a symbol and a leader, leading the people to a better way of life; however, the majority of his wishes and work is carried out by his advisors and trickle down the chain of command. When addressing a person of this rank the appropriate address is His/Her Majesty.

Imperial Nobility

While the vast majority of the nobles in the empire are not included in these ranks the top tier of the chain falls in the hands of the Malin. That is known only those of the Malin royal family has ever held these positions, though they are not inherited other than Emperor.

- Lord General- The commander of the Imperial military.
- Grand Inquisitor- Much like the Justicars the grand inquisitors travel the empire seeing that corruption has not taken root in the noble houses.
- Seer- While other positions are earned or chosen, those that become the seers are born with the gifts that make them so. They act as advisors to the emperor, as they have been rumored to be able to see the truth in all things and even can glimpse the future.
- Emperor- The leader of the entire empire he commands the law and the direction of the kingdoms. When addressing a person of this rank the appropriate address is His Grand Eminence.

Rare Languages

The world is a very old place and in the years that have past the oldest of cultures have been lost to the oceans of time. There are some languages hidden throughout the world that players can uncover and learn as they progress. These languages require a special instructor to learn and they are: Draconic, Titan, Vesper, Fey, and Saurak, though others may exist in game.

Rifts

Rifts are small pockets of another plane that has been forced through the Planar Barrier and has manifested on the prime. There are many beliefs as to what causes them; all that is known for sure is that they are a growing phenomenon. Often time's rifts will have an effect on the surrounding area, causing it to take on aspects of the attached plane. Rifts can greatly vary in magnitude, and often the more potent rifts will pull monsters through with them. Rifts are not doorways and cannot be passed through, though there have been long standing rumors that with the right skills the feat could be accomplished.

While the majority of rifts that are found are tied to the Inner Plane, there are rumors that there have been a rare few to the outer planes.

A character with the skill Knowledge (Planes) Rank 4 can spend 4 Knowledge Points and 1 minute of concentration, per tier of the rift, to close a rift. While closing a rift in this fashion will not seal the weak spot in the planar barrier, it will close the rift and stop planar energy from seeping through.

Planar Node- These are weak spots in the planar barrier where the inner or outer planes could potentially create a Rift.

Gates

Gates are open doorways that allow travel between two planes, and allow two-way passage. Gates are not a common natural occurrence; and are almost always made. A gate takes massive amounts of skill and power to create and even then they are only temporary.

Portals

Portals are passageways that connect two locations on the same plane and are only open for brief time. The portals always appear as an opaque shimmering doorway. They are never random and are always opened intentionally. A character can move through a portal on a 3 counted action, and is always on one side or the other; meaning you can't just peak through.

A character with the skill Knowledge Area Magic (Rank 4), can spend 4 knowledge points and 1 minute of concentration to close a portal.

Portal Stones and Obelisks

The Prime is wrapped by lines of invisible energy known as Ley Lines; these powerful lines are believed to hold the keys to magic itself.

Portal Stones are naturally occurring focal points that can be used to travel from point to point. They are rated in power level from 1 to 4, this limits how far a stone could permit you to travel. Tier 1 stones can allow up to 100 miles, Tier 2 can allow up to 800miles, Tier 3 can allow up to 2700 miles, and Tier 4 stones can allow up to 4800 miles.

In addition to having the Open Portal skill, the character must also have the portal code for both the stone they are at and the stone they are trying to get to. Without these they cannot connect the two and create a portal.

Obelisks are similar to Portal Stones, this is because all Obelisks started out as simple stones and through great skill and powerful magic they were transformed. By altering a Portal Stone into an Obelisk its power becomes honed and magnified. An Obelisk functions in all ways as a Portal Stone, with a few exceptions: First it does not have a maximum range for opening portals, second it is a better channel into the Ley Lines and can allow easier access to its power.

Planes

The game world is filled with many different planes in which a character's adventure will take them to. The majority of the game takes place on the Prime plane, which is very similar to the earth as we know it. However, from time to time you will find your adventures taking you to other exotic places. What follows is small amount of information on each of the planes as well as adverse or other effects that you will experience there.

There are some important facts to know when traveling off the prime, since the planes are separated from the prime and the river, death can sometimes carry a heavy toll. If a player dies on the Essence they can seek to resurrect normally. If they die on the inner plane, it will be more difficult. And death on any of the other planes carries a massive toll. Since Nightmare, Acheron, and the Astral Sea, does not touch the River; players who dissipate can become trapped in the void.

When the old gods left this world they stepped away, to make themselves new domains to rule from, and from which to influence the prime from. The following is a little information on each, as well the bullet points after the description have information about planar effects based on the plane and how far into the plane you travel. Effects are cumulative, save for Fatigue where the shortest time always applies.

Open Portal Breakdown

The Open Portal skill allows a character to use Portal Stones and Obelisks to open portals; however, there is a little more to it than just that. Think of the skill as being the knowledge and understanding of how to cook, but you still need a recipe. Now each stone has its own unique code, this is a complex set of information that can be cracked with a great deal of time. To analyze a stone and figure out its code takes 8 hours of study base. Now this time can be reduced by 1 hour for each rank of Knowledge Area: Astronomy or Geography the character has, down to a minimum of 1 hour. At the end of which time the player will gain the code for that stone, now there is a short cut by using the Unlock Portal Stone ritual.

Once a character has the code for their current location and the code for the stone they are trying to reach it takes one hour of work to get the stones keyed up and ready, once they are primed a stable portal can be opened and allow travel between the two points. While it requires 2 stones to open a stable portal, it is possible to open a one-way unstable portal. From a stone a character can spend 15 minutes to open a one-way portal that will empty to a location up to 10 miles away in a chosen direction.

Inner Plane

Timekeeper created the Inner plane to be his home so that the prime would be kept in balance with the natural order needed to sustain life. Dying on the inner plane carries penalties greater than normal. The spirit can be field resurrected on the inner plane per the normal rules; however, if the spirit seeks to resurrect back onto the Prime.

River

Myst created the River to be his home. Due to the nature of the river, only spirits are welcome here. A creature that dies on the banks or enters the water instantly dies and their spirit flees their body to the flow of the river. From there they can choose to resurrect normally.

Minor

- Limited vision

Major

- Limited Vision
- Call of the River- Once every 10 minutes' players will be hit with a Voice delivered Thrall effect that draws them into the river, once they reach the water they will be drawn to get into the water, doing so will cause them to instantly die and become a spirit. The peacefulness and tranquility of the river is powerful and pulls spirits to it.

Acheron

Death created Acheron to be his home. The plane of death and shadow is by far one of the more removed places in the cosmology, due to the nature of the plane creatures that are from this plane are much like undead but since they are a natural feature of the plane they are called Deathless, as they were never alive.

- When a creature is reduced to the dead status they instantly rise as a ghoul under control of the will of Acheron.
- Bleed out count reduced to 30 seconds.
- Creatures that die and are created have their spirit caught in limbo so to speak, should they be destroyed the spirit is lost into the Void.

Void

Unlike the other planes where spirits have a chance to escape the void is the end of the line. Spirits that cannot seek resurrection are trapped in the void and lost forever. It is rumored that there are those who dwell within the void and have learned navigate its folds; even rumors that they can find lost spirits, but at grave costs.

Minor

- Weakness, Wound, No direction sense

Standard

- Weakness, Plague, Devastated

Major

- Weakness, Plague, Devastated, Dead at 0

Abyss

Fate created the Abyss to be her home. Little is openly known of the Abyss other than it is the birth place of all Abominations, creatures that are twisted and distorted. These beings are often the things of nightmares and horror and often times just viewing them can drive mortals insane.

Many of the denizens of the Abyss have never been seen or heard of though it is quite clear upon seeing them where they are from. Their bodies look mutated, often times with odd eyes or tentacles.

While the Abyss is a massive plane there is a much smaller portion known as the Astral Sea. The Sea, which is made up of countless floating masses of earth, is where the vast majority of the denizens reside. Though there are some creatures that live beyond The Sea in the depths of the Abyss.

Astral Sea

- Altered Gravity

Abyss

- Delirium- Without protection creatures become Vulnerable: Mental.

Essence

This plane mirrors the prime 100%, they are in fact almost superimposed worlds that are the reflection of each other but do not touch. The only major feature that this plane has is the random magic dead zone.

The Essence is the home world to the Fey races, the most commonly known of which are the Sidhe, Sluagh, Saytrs, and Pixies. While the worlds are similar they are nothing alike, there are still natural creatures that dwell in the essence must like bears and birds of the prime, but there are tails of much darker ones as well.

The Nightmare

While the dream is less a true plane and more a state of existence within the consciousness, it is still a very real place that can be gotten too. When the old gods left to make way for the evolution of mortals and of the world, the nightmare was created to give depth to the mortal state.

It is said that there are creatures that dwelt within but it is little more than scary stories.

Notes and Effects

Dead Zone- The listed effects or flavors cannot be used in this area, in any form.

Limited Vision- Cannot make ranged attacks.

Appendix 1: Shapechanges

The following are the stats for the Shifter shape changes. Some forms have times per abilities; while the character can change in an out of a form at will, they can still only use the gained skill a set number of times each activation.

When changing back and forth between shapes, their Body Points totals are kept separate. If a character had 3 remaining Body Points, then turned into a bear for a few fights and chose to shift back to their humanoid form. That form would still be at 3 Body Points no matter how many Body Points their animal form had.

When a new shift form is chosen, the character must choose the animal and which of the variable abilities it will have. Once chosen they cannot be changed for that animal form.

While in the shapechange, the player cannot speak, except for with animals of the same type. They may make noises appropriate to the animal, such as growling and hissing.

Additionally there are size limitations on to the creatures form. Characters below level 20 remain a medium creature, roughly their current size, when shapechanged. Characters above level 20 but below level 30 can take forms of Small Sized or Dire Sized creatures. And characters above level 30 can take the form of Diminutive Size.

Appendix 3: Nodes and Harvesting

Harvesting allows characters to use a Node; of which there are 3 types, Farms, Mines, and Mills, to collect components once each game. The amount and type of components can be found on the following charts. The cost of a resource node is 10 gold, though acquiring them may not be as simple as just buying them as you would need to find someone with a deep, they can also be found as treasure. A node is good for 24uses, at which time the node is exhausted.

On the chart below the Component Points is a pool that can divide up by the player, so they can harvest what they need. The cost for each component varies; Common cost 2 points, Uncommon cost 10 points, Rare cost 70 points, and Named cost 120 points.

Refining- allows the character to upgrade components; they can exchange 7 Common components for 1 Uncommon component, and 7 Uncommon components for 1 Rare component.

Extracting- allows the character to downgrade components; they can exchange 1 Rare component for 5 Uncommon components, and 1 Uncommon component for 5 Common components.

Appendix 4: Merchanting

The merchant skill allows a player to buy, sell, and trade In Game goods and items. The skill can be used once each reset and takes 1 hour, during which time the player is Out of Game as they will be in NPC camp handling their trades. All trade information should be filled out on a Trade Sheet that can be obtained at check in, and should have all details of the trade; including Merchant Level, number of trades to be done, and any discounts that apply.

Each time the merchant skill is used, the character has a number of trades based on their Merchant skill rank that they have available, which can be found on the table on the next page. Only one type of item/component can be purchased/exchanged/sold during each trade. During a trade a character has a few options as to what they can do:

Exchange- This allows a character to exchange 1 type of component for another type of the same level, type and quantity are affected by the characters' skill rank.

Sell- This allows a character to sell components for In Game coin at Market Value. Type and quantity are affected by the character's skill rank.

Commissions- Instead of a standard use of Merchant, a character can use their skill to seek out commissions. Commissions are a contract for very specific crafted items. This allows a merchant to Sell the crafted item on the contract for 100% of the Market Value. Commissions are one shot, are only good for 2 games and are turned in with the completed items; to receive payment.

The following charts are the guides for using the Merchanting skill. The first chart shows the # of Trades and the price that they pay, or # of Commissions, based on the rank of Merchant skill they have. An "X" means that a character cannot access that entry at that rank of the skill.

The second chart shows the number of each item that can be traded based on the rank of Merchant the character has. An "X" means that a character cannot access that entry at that rank of the skill.

Appendix 5: Derangements

Derangements are severe psychological conditions that manifest from extremely stressful or traumatizing situations, especially resurrection. These conditions will always be applied by a Plot Marshal, who will include any specifics about the conditions, such as triggers and whether it is a temporary or permanent condition. The following are the common derangements, though others may be added for specific situations, at Plots discretion.

Pacifism

This effect causes the character to be completely unwilling to take part in violence.

Mechanic: Characters under this effect cannot wield weapons or use skills or abilities that offensively affect others; additionally, they cannot use skills or abilities to affect combat, such as Defensive Combat Techniques or Resist. Role-Play: Characters under this effect should show no interest in confrontation of any kind, physical or social, going out of their way to leave said situations, having a very “what happens, will happen” attitude.

Insanity

This effect causes the character to lose sight of normal interaction and thinks everyone is at odds with them. Mechanic: Characters under this effect feel no remorse and will fly off the handle in a violent manner if taunted or insulted. Role-Play: Characters under this effect should be short and almost rude with anyone they interact with, like there is a HUGE chip on their shoulder; other actions include lying, theft, and vandalism.

Manic

This effect causes the character to have massive mood swings from high to low on a moment's notice. Mechanic: All skills, abilities, and Spell Casting consumes twice the normal amount Combat or Spell Slots. Role-Play: The character should have mood swing from overexcited to somber, with no drive to do anything.

Addictive Consumption

This effect causes the character to need to binge eat, this goes beyond hunger and is purely a psychological issue. Mechanic: The character must consume at least 1 crafted Cooking item every 6 hours, failure to do so will prevent the character from using any game skills; if they go past the time without eating they must gorge and eat 3 crafted Cooking items to restore use of their skills. Role-Play: The character should hoard snack food that others leave, and even fish for leftovers.

Violent Tick

This effect causes the character to suffer from an uncontrolled and often violent muscle tick that causes them to flail or jerk randomly.

Mechanic: Because of the stress of failure, a character under this effect cannot perform fine manipulation actions, such as Disable, Rituals, use of Bombs and Vials, as well will fail test of Balance. Role-Play: When presented with their stressors, typically combat, stress, or excitement; they will have a repeated movement or noise that has no benefit to them.

Rampage

This effect causes the character to suffer from an uncontrolled rage while on the battle field. Mechanic: When in combat if the character successfully drops 2 or more opponents they become Berserked; though the effect cannot be removed as normal, and Red Luster has no effect. This Rampage will pass once they are out of combat for 5 minutes. Role-Play: In combat situation the character should get loud and angry quickly, often shouting taunts at their foes.

Masochist

This effect causes the character to feel pleasure when they should feel pain, as their mind confuses the signals. Mechanic: Characters cannot use Defensive Abilities or Skills, and will not wear armor. Role-Play: Characters will seek out more and more dangerous situations looking for their next high.

Paranoia

This effect causes the character to constantly think others are out to get them and making plans to kill them or worse. Mechanic: None Role-Play: Characters under this effect will act distrusting when others talk around them and they cannot hear them, as well they may even begin to question others motives and actions.

Agoraphobia

This effect causes the character to suffer crushing fears related to a specific situation or location. Mechanic: Characters under this effect will suffer a Fear effect every 5 minute, while exposed to their stressor. Role-Play: Characters under this effect have had some kind of traumatic event and will begin to panic when such event is presented or even discussed.

Separation Anxiety

This effect causes the character to fear being left alone and can go through manic states due to this Mechanic: Characters under this effect will suffer a Fear effect every 5 minute they are not with others, and must seek out people. Role-Play: Characters will go out of their way to remain with other characters and will refuse to separate from others.

Conspicuous Diet

This effect causes the character to be compelled to eat bizarre non-food items. Mechanic: Characters under this effect must consume 1 item every 3 hours or they become overstressed and all costs are doubled for all Skills and Abilities. Consumed items are any 'Small' game item, such as components, runes, or potions; a character will never gain a beneficial effect from this. Role-Play: Characters will do whatever they can to consume their specific items type, which are turned into a marshal, even stealing them if necessary; failure to do so can cause them to become overstressed.

Appendix 6: Rituals

Rituals are a type of magic that goes outside the normal rules of cast spells. The major difference is that most rituals have no function in a combat situation, and that they take extensive resources and time to perform. There are several aspects to how rituals function:

- To perform a ritual a character must have Rank 4 of the appropriate Knowledge Area.
- All rituals require Knowledge Points to cast. The primary caster must spend 2 Knowledge Points to begin a Ritual. Secondary casters must expend 1 Knowledge point in order to participate and must have rank 1 of the appropriate knowledge for the ritual or Knowledge Magic 2.
- To perform a ritual requires all participants to maintain concentration.
- When a ritual calls for Fuel in the cost, that cost can be paid in part or in full by any participant of the ritual.
- Rituals must be performed inside of a ritual circle, this can be a simple circle phys-repped by markings, candles or such; or inside of a Circle of Glyphs.
- A ritual cannot begin without 100% of all the required items, scrolls, components, etc.
- Rituals cannot target other players without their Out of Game Consent.
- Ritual Scroll can be created by a character that has the ritual in memory and has Advanced Scribe Rune. It takes 15 minutes at a Reliquary to create, and costs 1 Vellum and the materials needed to cast the ritual. Ritual Scrolls have a duration of 3 years from the time they are created.

Ritual Circles

Ritual circles are a role-play mechanic that is used when casting rituals. There are guidelines but no set-in stone rules as this is intended for players to make it their own, and as freeform as they want. The guidelines are simple, the area to be used as a ritual circle should be first defined, this sets the boundaries of the ritual space. This could be done by placing candles or stones along the parameter or drawing runic symbols. The goal is that it should be clear to onlookers that something is going on. Again, it is up to the players as to just how detailed they make their ritual space, as it is intended to be a role-play mechanic not so much a hard and fast rule set.

Fluxing

Ritual magic generates a massive amount of energy, and it takes a skilled hand to keep it in check. There are times when something will interfere with a ritual and the some of the raw energy will lash out and have side effects. Fluxing can happen when one of the following situations occurs:

- The primary caster intentionally chooses to flux a ritual.
- A caster takes damage of any kind.
- A secondary caster leaves the ritual circle during the casting or becomes helpless.
- Any of the components or the ritual scroll is destroyed or leaves the circle, all draws are Warped, or Backlash and the ritual fails.
- The primary caster becomes helpless or leaves the circle, all draws are Backlashes.

When a ritual is fluxed the marshal will determine the outcome by using percentile dice on the following charts. First the marshal will determine if the ritual was, Flawed- had an unexpected outcome that could be positive, Warped- had an unexpected outcome that is negative, or Backlashed- had a devastatingly bad outcome. In the case of a Flawed or Warped ritual the intended effect still happens with a minor change; however, with a Backlash the ritual fails, and very bad side effect happens. At the end of a ritual all components are destroyed weather the ritual succeeds failed, in the case of a Backlash the ritual scroll, if there is one being used, is also destroyed.

When a ritual goes wild there is little that can be done, though a skills Ritualist can attempt to control the wild magic. To counter a flux a secondary caster in the ritual must declare that they are going to attempt the feat. To do so they must have Knowledge Magic 4, they then have 2 options.

- Preempt- To do this the secondary caster must expend 5 Fuel up front. When the flux draw is made they must pay an additional Fuel cost of 10 for a Backlash or 5 for a Warp. This completely negates the effects.
- Ready- To do this the secondary caster must declare intent at the beginning, and then can choose to pay a fuel cost to negate the flux.

5 for a Flaw, 15 for a Warp, and 20 for a Backlash. At the time they must expend the Fuel they only are aware of the type of flux not the actual outcome.

Chart Terms

Named- this is the number of Named ritual components needed for the casting Residuum- this is the total number of points of the component needed, Common count as 1, Uncommon count as 5, and Rare count as 25 points.

Fuel- this is the number of additional energy that must be supplied for the ritual, this can be paid in a number of ways:

- Each Knowledge Point is worth 1 Fuel
- Each Uncommon Component is worth 1 Fuel.

Awaken Bloodline

This ritual allows the Ritualist to awaken the latent bloodline in the target. In the time before man, the Titans ruled this world; creating not only the features of the land but also imbuing life into the races. This ritual awakens the target's link to their creators, granting them an Attunement: Titan Lineage. This functions like many other attunements, but once awoken this attunement can never be dropped, and becomes the sole focus of a characters earned Favor.

Blessing of the First

This ritual allows the primary caster to call upon their devotion in the Old to invoke their blessing. Before this ritual can be cast it must be set out of game to whom the characters true devotion lies, and when cast, they can only grant that blessing. A single person cannot be the target of this ritual more than once each month, and blessings last for 12 hours.

- Inhalraba- Fear effects are reduced to Terror, and Terror effects are reduced Weakness for the duration.
- Lady Fate- Twice during the duration when the target would enter their bleed out count they are instead set to 0 hp.
- Malikorin- Target gains; Medium Claws, with the Flavor Carrier Silver.
- Myst- Target gains Recovery 5, Reduced ½ vs. Shadow
- Silverstar- Target gains Slow Regeneration in natural settings

- Thovorik- Cannot be created as undead, Reduced ½ vs. Shadow
- Timekeeper- Target gains Damage Cap 10 from a single Elemental Flavor (Fire/Water/Stone/Wind)

Commune

This ritual causes the caster to enter into a trance in which they cannot be woken from outside sources. During the effect the caster drifts in a state of consciences that allows him to speak with the energy of the natural world. They can ask two questions that can be answered with a yes or no, that will be answered by plot at the time of the ritual. They can then attempt to seek more answers by expending 2 knowledge points pre-question, though these must be related to the original inquiry.

Contact Ancient Dead

This ritual will summon to the ritual caster the spirit of a long dead creature so long as the caster knows their true name or possession of their, in some cases beings that have been dead too long will require both. The spirit summoned will be the remaining consciousness of the deceased target, and will know what it knew in life. The only interaction that can be had with the summoned spirit is verbal communication as it cannot see into this world. Also there is nothing to force the summoned creature to converse or answer questions; so summoning a long dead enemy may not warrant anything but spite from the dead.

The age of the target is limited by a single ritual casters knowledge, for each rank of Knowledge Cycle the caster possess they can attempt to reach back 2000 years. Should the caster attempt to contact a target that has been dead longer than 10,000 years they would also need a possession of the target, or be in a place that held significance to the target. Once summoned, the spirit may stay present for up to 1 hour or until the caster leaves the circle.

Contact Extra-planar Creature

This ritual will contact a random helpful creature from the inner plane that shares your outlook. The creature will always be an intelligent and sentient creature. This means that if the caster is seeking contact with a creature of fire then that will be what is targeted. If a specific creature is known by name this ritual can also be used to contact that target.

Once contact is made, the channel will allow 2-way communication for up to 1 hour or until the target dismisses it or the caster leaves the circle.

Create Glyph Circle

This powerful ritual is often used by Master Ritualist, and for good reason. Once created the circle becomes sealed and will last for up to 2 years. Future rituals cast inside this circle will receive certain benefits; Ritual durations will be doubled, and effects that are limited by Knowledge skills will always be treated as though the primary caster had an additional level.

During the casting of this ritual the caster must inscribe glyphs along the edge of the circle, at the close of the ritual they will burn into the surface they are on, which must be stationary. All casters that participate in the creation of the circle are considered attuned to the circle. Additional casters can be attuned to the circle after creation; this takes 10 minutes and costs 5 Fuel.

Create High Horoscope

This powerful ritual allows the caster to divine answers to even the most obscure question. Before casting this ritual the question should be given to plot with at least 1 week notice, some limited exceptions may be made. The answer to the question may come in the form of a vision or even may form as written words upon a paper. No matter what the form the answer is often cryptic. Since the ritual is drawing on the forces and concepts of the cosmos it can often be difficult to understand the message.

Create Life Well

This ritual will create a permanent life well by tapping into the River to make a conduit which spirits can use to return to the living. This ritual can be extremely dangerous due to the reaction the denizens of the River may take in defending their home.

To perform this ritual there must be a minimum of 5 casters each with at least 1 rank of Knowledge Cycle and Resurrection, one of which may be the primary caster but they must have 5 ranks or Knowledge Cycle and Resurrection.

Create Spell Glyph

This ritual creates a powerful glyph that is infused with magic and functions in many ways like a trap. At the end of the ritual the first spell to be cast upon the glyph will be stored into it and the trap will arm. If cast on a solid surface the glyph will be triggered by any sentient creature that touch any portion of the glyph area, up to a 5ft x 5ft area; this will cause the glyph to activate and effect all targets within a 5 foot radius of the center of the glyph. If cast upon a doorway, it will be triggered by a sentient creature breaking the plane of the doorway, and will only effect targets in that plane. Once triggered the glyph will take 5 minutes to rearm itself, during this recharge time the glyph is dormant and does nothing. A dispel effect on the glyph will cause it to ignore the next time it would be triggered. A target can never gain a beneficial effect from a glyph. Additionally, the effect area of glyphs cannot overlap, nor can more than one glyph be placed on a single doorway. These are always considered to be Grandmaster Traps and their level is three times the spell stored inside; Cancel Magic can also be used to disable this trap, which takes 5 minutes; either method will neutralize the trap for 1 hour

Delimit

This powerful ritual takes a small bit of the caster and attunes the targeted item with it. This ritual will cause the affected item to not be useable by any race other than those that match the caster. In addition, when a character of appropriate race is wielding or wearing a delimited item they gain an additional number of Combat or Spell Slot levels each reset equal to their rank of Knowledge (Area) for their race. A player can only benefit from a single delimited item each reset, granting them up to a maximum of five bonuses each reset.

Delve History

This ritual allows the character to delve into the past of an item or location and unearth the history of said target. In order to use this ritual, it is best to give plot as much warning as possible so that they can have the information ready, a minimum of 1 hour.

Discern Location

This ritual allows the caster to determine the rough direction and distance to a known person. In order to cast this ritual there must be a map and a compass present in the circle, as well as a crystal hung from a chain or string. During the casting of the ritual the caster hangs the crystal over the map and it will be slowly guided to the map. After which the compass can be placed upon the map enchanting it. For the next 12 hours the compass will point in the direction of the target, up until it comes within 1 mile at which time will spin erratically.

Fair Winds

This ritual will function much like Hasten Travel, with the exception that the target is a ship capable of ocean travel. This ritual is designed to make short range travel feasible by boat. This will typically allow for players to travel to modules that are several hundred miles away without delay. If used to travel to a module location the ritual will last round trip.

Fortify

This ritual takes the power locked inside a Forged Magic Item and fortifies it giving it a longer duration. This ritual has been lost for some time due to the rareness of the materials needed to perform it. This ritual requires a single Named Component which must be a Titan's Blood, at the close of the ritual the targeted item will gain 12 months of duration, as well will become Indestructible for the new duration. An item can only ever be targeted by this ritual once.

Hasten Travel

This ritual will cause the caster and up to 10 others to have their overland travel speed increased by a large factor, allowing them to travel great distances miles in an hour. This ritual will change the targets appearance into that of the desired race. The target race is limited by the casters Knowledge skills, example: with Knowledge Magic the caster could make a target appear as a Draken race or Golem. While the magic is powerful there are a few things that my see through the disguise, Fey will see the character as having a faint shimmer though that may not blow the disguise, for example.

In order to cast this ritual there must be a map and a compass present in the circle, as well as a crystal hung from a chain or string, and a small likeness of the item. During the casting of the ritual the caster hangs the crystal over the map and it will be slowly guided to the map. After which the compass can be placed upon the map enchanting it. For the next 12 hours the compass will point in the direction of the target, up until it comes within 1 mile at which time will spin erratically.

Locate Portal Stone

This ritual functions much like Locate Item though it works on Portal Stones. In order to locate a Portal, the caster must have the skill Open Portal.

In order to cast this ritual there must be a map and a compass present in the circle, as well as a crystal hung from a chain or string, and a small likeness of the item. During the casting of the ritual the caster hangs the crystal over the map and it will be slowly guided to the map. After which the compass can be placed upon the map enchanting it. For the next 12 hours the compass will point in the direction of the target, up until it comes within 1 mile at which time will spin erratically.

Nightmare Circle

This ritual allows the caster to awaken a powerful circle that binds to the nightmare, drawing powerful energy into rituals. All rituals cast inside the circle are automatically fluxed, but have their casting time reduced by 50%.

Nightmare Walk

This ritual allows the caster and up to 8 targets to be fall into a deep Slumber, removed from consciousness, and placed within the nightmare itself. This is extremely dangerous, if one should die in the nightmare, they cannot resurrect through normal means. This ritual is sometimes used to seek out hidden places in the mind, but no matter what use of this ritual is dangerous.

Nights Watch

This ritual protects a structure by creating an invisible barrier that will sound if it is crossed from the exterior. This effect must be noted on the Marshals Notes. At the time this effect is triggered the Marshal must announce loudly "Alarm" 10 times.

Obliterate Mind

This ritual unlocks the targets mind, wiping clean a portion of their training. A character cannot be the target of this ritual more than once in a twelve-month period. When cast the Ritualist must designate what is being wiped clean, as such the casting cost is variable. The component cost for the ritual can be paid up to 3 times with a single casting, each casting cost will allow for up to 10 skill points become unspent and those skills become unlearned or 1 of the targets powers become unlearned. Those skill points and powers, do not become Unspent until the beginning of the next game the player attends. Skills and Powers that are a prerequisite for another Skill or Power cannot be removed if the character has a dependent Skill or Power on their card, which is not being removed by the same casting of this ritual.

This ritual creates a protective barrier that wards out a set creature type. Once this ritual is cast creatures of the appropriate type can no longer cross into the area. This will block out all Tier 1 Creatures of the appropriate type. Multiple casting of this ritual cannot be placed so that they overlap, though a more powerful version will stack.

Proscribe II <Type>

This ritual creates a protective barrier that wards out a set creature type. Once this ritual is cast creatures of the appropriate type can no longer cross into the area. Race Change

This ritual allows a target to be transformed into a completely different race. Doing so does not change their history nor give them a new body, the ritual causes the targets body to shift and take on the likeness of the new race. This ritual may cause a target to have to rewrite their powers as many are linked to a specific race. Only skills that are linked to a power that was lost may be rewritten. While the ritual cost is low the work required to build trust of a race to accept you can be difficult.

To be accepted there must be 20 members of the appropriate race present which can provide the fuel, even if they are not participating as a caster in the ritual.

Sanctify

This ritual, when cast on a site devoted to Old Gods, will cause the location to become consecrated with divine energy. This has a few benefits; first creatures that are beyond the faiths are fearful to tread unto such places and in fact just setting foot in such a place can leave them shaken and uneasy. Second, creatures that are beings of energy tied to an opposing Old God are shunned from the area, as they have no power in such places. This effect cannot overlap a Wizard

Lock or Grove and will override those effects.

Scrying

This ritual allows the caster to pierce the veil of the world and observe a distant location. When the ritual is cast the caster must choose to see or hear at the location. They can additionally pay double the ritual cost to gain both benefits at the same time. When the ritual is cast the caster must place a small stone on a map of the target location. The ritual will stay in effect for up to 1 hour or until the caster leaves the circle. Plot should be given at least 1-hour notice before casting this ritual.

Sea Legs

This ritual grants the caster and up to 10 targets balance and grace to survive the roughest seas. This effect will last for up to 3 hours, during which time the targets cannot fail physical challenges that are based on balance, and do not have their movement hindered in any way while in the water.

Shared Strength

This ritual allows one of the casters to share a skill, purchased with SP, with up to 5 targets for 1 hour. When cast, the primary caster's rank in Knowledge Warfare sets the maximum skill point cost of the skill to be shared at one time. The skills to be shared can have a maximum cost of up to 2 SP per rank of Warfare of the primary caster. Additionally if a character that is not a caster wishes to donate the skills to be shared, they can. Though for the duration of the ritual the character will not have access to the shared skills. Summon Creature

This ritual summons a creature to the aid of the caster. The creature summoned will be determined by the Ritual Scroll. Once summoned, the creature will last for up to 1 hour, one module, or until slain. The summoned creature must be repped by a non-NPC and cannot be the caster of the ritual. Summoned creatures are above average intelligence and can be given complex orders which they will follow to the best of their ability. This ritual's cost is varied based on the power of the creature summoned.

The summoned creature will be based on the ritual learned, as each creature requires its own individual ritual. The caster must have the 4 ranks in the appropriate knowledge skill based on the type of creature being summoned.

Summon Reaver

This ritual summons forth a vicious creature that has only 1 purpose and that is to hunt and consume beings of a specified Race. Once summoned the creature will obey no orders and will hunt until it is slain. Killing this creature is no easy task as they do not go away when they are killed, unless killed by a Delimited weapon wielded by the targeted race.

Teleport

This ritual allows the caster to travel a great distance instantly, and can be cast in 2 ways. When the ritual is cast, the caster can choose to move instantly to the target location or can keep the ritual charged to active at a later time. When the teleport is activated the caster announces "Arcane Teleport", at which time the Fuel cost is paid. This ritual will allow the character to transport to any Glyph Circle they are attuned to, as well as into a building protected by a Wizard Lock they cast.

Touch of the Grave

This ritual causes the target to take on a gaunt, almost dead visage, and as such, many creatures will avoid you as you appear to be dead. While this can be a large disadvantage it comes with the benefits similar to the walking dead. For the duration you do not suffer the ill effects of Diseases, and Metabolic effects; your body becomes morbidly strong though stiff, granting 2 additional points of strength though making it impossible to run.

Tree Walk

This ritual allows the caster and up to 8 of his allies targeted by this ritual to step into a tree in one location and exit from a tree of similar type somewhere else on the same land mass. The caster will be able to get in the vicinity of where they are heading though nothing is perfect. Also the tree types must be similar, meaning that you could not enter a palm tree on the beach and exit in a Fir in the deeper tundra.

The caster must have met the target in person and have a name which they refer to themselves by, though this does not have to be their true name.

Appendix 7: Professions

Diplomat

You have not only learned to deal with others well, but you have also mastered the art of getting what you want out of those interactions. This skill cannot be used once combat has been initiated, and it is considered to be a concentration skill, in that you cannot take other actions during its use. Additionally, this skill only function on humanoids that the character is able to communicate with, it is not likely a fire elemental will want to talk. A character can only influence others so much; this limits them to a single use of the skills below per encounter.

- Rank 1- First in Line- While it is not a major thing your ability to influence others does give you a knack for being first. Unless contested by another with higher Diplomacy you can move yourself to the front of the line when it comes to dealing with others. This skill can be used on player's characters, but only once each encounter.
- Rank 2- Silver Tongue- Words come to you as easy as breathing, and you have a way of building trust almost instantly. So long as you have been speaking with a target for 5 minutes, you can use this skill, which is followed by a question that the target must answer truthfully; though the extent of their/ answer could vary from a yes/no to more detail. This skill can be used on player's characters.
- Rank 3- Parley- In a situation where the character is faced with a hostile force but combat has not started the character can attempt to delay combat by having a face to face with the person in charge. Unless countered, the enemy force will delay combat so long as they are not engaged and the character using this skill will be allowed passage alone, to speak. This skill will last for up to 5 minutes, at which time the normal course of actions will resume.
- Rank 4- White Flag- Not always is the situation clear as to who is right or wrong; however, you have a way of crossing that line safely, albeit for a short time. You can use this ability to enter a hostile area unharmed, at least immediately, so long as you are not armed and remain non-hostile the enemy force will at least speak with you. This does not give you full access to their area, or special Intel but it gets you close enough to ask questions. Even the most savage of races understands the white flag, and respect it as far as they need; great warriors need not kill the weak and those who are no threat. Though there better be a reason presented as to why the diplomat is not to be attacked.

- Rank 5- Peacemaker- Reason is always a tool best used at the right time. This skill can be used to sway those that can hear the character speaking; through the heat of combat will almost assuredly prevent such. The character can prevent a fight from even happening, though in most cases this means they are allowed to leave the area without immediate action by the enemy.

Informant

You have been around, be the countryside or the world, and along the way you have made some acquaintances that you can call on. Everywhere you go you seem to be able to get a pulse on the surroundings and make the most of it.

- Rank 1- Rumors- Catch local rumors of things going down; sometimes this can even be used to even find an odd job.
- Rank 2- In the Know- Find out what is going on in a specific order at the lowest level, meaning what it the order is currently working on or dealing with is.
- Rank 3- Word on the Street- Find or locate a place or person that is not purposely being masked or hidden by detailed means. A guy laying low still has to get some food, this makes him findable. While this can be used during an event it will take a minimum of 12 hours to get an answer, though in some cases it can take longer.
- Rank 4- Look It Up- You can have a contact do some research for you; this is equal to a Rank 3 research question. While this can be used during an event it will take a minimum of 12 hours to get an answer, though in some cases it can take longer.
- Rank 5- Insider Trading- You know a guy who knows a guy and he can get you info that is on the level. From whom the local Baron had a private dinner with, to how often the Merchant's Guild ships to a known local. While this can be used during an event it will take a minimum of 12 hours to get an answer, though in some cases it can take longer.

Priest

As a follower of the faiths you have learned that healing one's mind and spirit goes hand in hand and far deeper than the flesh. You work the will of faith in the higher powers as both a shield for the weak and a sword against the wicked. Your calling has made you devout and you rarely question that there is a master plan and you are to play your part.

- Rank 1- Last Rights- Death is not the final stage of existence as many would believe; though once your spirit has passed on the body remains. The ability safeguards the deceased, ensuring that no harm will come to their body after burial, including being raised as Undead. This ability takes 2 minutes to perform.
- Rank 2- Atonement- The power of prayer has the ability to absolve the mind and bring peace to even the most tormented. This ability takes a number of minutes of concentration and/or RP with the target to remove effects from them. The time needed varies as follows:
 - 5 minutes- all non-permanent Mental effects will be removed.
 - 30 minutes- will end more permanent effects, such as Thrall and Enslavement.
 - 2 sessions of 30 minutes- remove a temporary Derangement, so long as Priest known's what ails the target.
 - 4 sessions of 30 minutes- will remove a permanent Derangement, so long as Priest known's what ails the target.
- Rank 3- Consecrate- The character can use their faith to grant temporary protected to an area. This takes 5 minutes to perform and the area must be defined, such as a building or a circle drawn on the ground. So long as no one inside the area is wielding any weapons, though they can be stowed, the area will become peaceful and no aggressive action can be taken by anyone that enters the area, so long as the Priest maintains concentration. This effect will end if anyone inside the area, at the time of the skills use draws a weapon or makes an aggressive action. This effect does not work on mindless target, such as Golems, Lesser Undead, and some Elementals.

- Rank 4- Augury- Meditation and faith can often times help guide your course. By spending 1 minute praying the character can seek guidance on whether a particular action will bring good or bad results for their immediate future, around 30 minutes. The only answers they will receive are: Weal (for good), Woe (for bad), and Weal & Woe (for both). This ability can be used twice each day.
- Rank 5- Condemn- By faith alone you can judge those you face in combat. By levying their sins and misdeeds against them you can built doubt in your enemy and expedite their departure from this world as they lose hope. When used the target must be declared and they suffer the effect of Curse of Death.

Officer

While some have served their homelands as a devout soldier, you did so and excelled; and even may still serve among the ranks. Your training has given you leadership qualities as well as the ability to work under pressure, and see your task completed.

- Rank 1- Mess Hall- This ability cause's characters with the Soldier background to gain 5 Base Body Points that will last for an hour; after spending at least 10 minutes eating a meal with an Officer. This ability is passive and always on.
- Rank 2- Motivate- Often times you are called to lead men to their deaths or worse, and while the faint of heart might falter you know how to push them into the fray. By giving your comrades a pre-battle pep talk, that must be at least 30 seconds, they gain a single Resist Fear; this will last up to 3 encounters, and will be lost if not used.
- Rank 3- Keep the Peace- While it may be seen as intimidation you know how to bring a heated argument to a halt. Using this ability will cause those engaged in a heated argument to stop speaking for 30 seconds as well as Pacifying them, they cannot incite combat, though the effects ends if they are attacked in any way. This ability can be only used once in an encounter.

- Rank- 4-Basic training-You have mastered the art of pushing peoples limits when training them. When teaching class skills to another player the time is reduced by 50%. This skill is passive and always on.
- Rank 5-Countermand-As an Officer you have been trained as a leader, as such your orders can override enemy influence. This ability will end a Command or Charm effect on one of their allies; this will also protect them from future effects from the same enemy. Additionally, this ability can negate the use of Condemn. This ability can be only used once in an encounter.

Bloodhound

While anyone can be trained to follow a trail, you have a more refined ability to not just find a target, but also analyze an area to gain further information. Your ability allows you to spend time examining an area, such as a crime scene to gather more detailed information about the people involved and what took place.

- Rank 1- Follow the Clues- By spending at least 15 minutes studying a scene, this can allow you to uncover information about the scene. This will be up to the Marshal the degree of the information provided. Typical information gained can be things like: how many people were in the scene, was their combat, what looks moved from normal, signs of missing items, etc.
- Rank 2- Find the Connection- By spending at least 15 minutes examining an item that is a fragment of a larger item, the character can figure out what the original item likely was, including size; as well as possibly creation information and even the context if it was a written text.
- Rank 3- Read Between the Lines- By spending 15 minutes examining information; this could be studying a room or listening to stories of a specific target, or visually studying them, the character can gain a better understanding of their motivations; as well as identify if the target is suffering from any Derangements or Compulsions.
- Rank 4- A Nose for Trouble-Often times the prey can be deceptive, lying and covering their tracks are but a few tools. The Bloodhound can sometimes see through the tricks; the character can negate Charlatan abilities and skills like Disguise. This ability can be used twice each reset.

- Rank 5- Piece It Together- This ability requires the character to spend no less than four separate 15 minute sessions listening to other characters discuss their theories on a topic. As the other characters pass ideas back and forth as to the why, who, and how of the situation the gears in the Bloodhounds mind turn, picking out the key facts and putting the puzzle together. After the noted time the character can go to a Plot Marshal and get thumbs up or down on a line of thought about the topic. Example: For months there has been a rash of midnight bandit attacks as well as the inability to find them; coupled with some shady nobles that have been in and out of the city. After listening to other talk about their encounters and failed attempts to find them, and those characters' theories on what is really going on and the possible connections to the nobles. The Bloodhound could as the marshal something like "So with all this info and knowing that they have to be getting help, following up on the nobles is probably the best course of action, as they are the most logical accomplice". If the player is on the right trail the marshal would give thumbs up, if however, that just makes no sense and that is not a correct path, because players get things wrong sometimes, the marshal will give the thumbs down. This ability can only be used once each event.

Charlatan

You have learned the game and the game is profit, and profit comes by working the ins and outs of people. Being a smooth talker is only part of the game, being sly and quick of the hand is also a trade secret.

- Rank 1- Sleight of Hand- Sometimes being a smooth talker is just a diversion for what is really going on. This skill allows the character to perform actions that others won't notice. To use this ability, the character must clip a medium binder clip to the targets pouch/pocket they are using the ability on; if this action is seen in game then it is clear what happened. The player then must go to a Marshal, and the marshal will find the target and retrieve the clip and retrieve a random small item from the pouch; or a specific item, if named and it is located there, and no larger than the binder clip used. This ability can also be used to place an item into a pouch using the same process. This ability can be used twice each reset.

- Rank 2- Takes one to Know one- You have learned the tricks of the trade and have practiced all the short cuts. You can burn a use of Sleight of Hand to negate the use of such against you, though you will not know the identity of the culprit. Additionally, given enough time you can break down a Forgery and figure out if it is legit or faked.
- Ranks 3- Bluff- To sell a con you have to come off as “honest as can be”, and this has its perks. This ability allows the character to make a lie believable, granted it has to be feasible, causing those in the conversation with the character to believe it. This ability will fail in the presence of irrefutable proof; such as you cannot convince someone that the water they are drinking is acid, or that something that they are currently reading actually says something completely different. This ability can be used as a defense against skills and abilities that cause the target to give truthful answers to questions. This ability can be used once each encounter.
- Rank 4- Forgery- Sometimes running a con needs more than just a silver tongue; sometimes you need the right bait. The character can create forgeries so long as they have key details about the item to be copied or the original itself. It takes at least an hour to create a forgery, though may take longer for complex items. Realize this will not make a 100% perfect forgery, and a person that is very familiar with the real thing may notice. This ability cannot create game items with a Market Value.
- Rank 5- Grandstanding- Holding the attention of a crowd is by far of key importance when it comes to a con, and this takes everything you have. This ability will allow a character to hold the attention of everyone in the encounter, though those aware the ability was going to be used can choose to ignore it. So long as the character continues to talk and engage the audience they will be distracted and mostly ignore the world around them, so long as no hostile actions are taken against them; this includes the characters’ allies surrounding the audience so they can attack. There are some circumstances that the audience’s attention may break away, especially combat even if they are not involved. This ability can be used once each reset.

Appendix 8: Novice Rules

As a game which often times has families attending we try to accommodate. Children between the ages of 10-13 are not able to participate in standard combat, though this gives them ability to still join in on the fun. They cannot use melee weapons, though they can use some ranged attacks. Additionally, they are very susceptible to attacks; they treat packets attacks as normal and melee attackers need only to be within melee weapon range and state "I Slay You". This is considered a weapon attack and can be defended by full player characters.

Novices are only allowed to pick up treasure via Novice find skills, Novice Craft Skills, or tips and RP with other characters. As they are not allowed in combat they are not allowed to loot from NPCs defeated in combat. This is to help keep kids off the battle area.

Novices begin game with 30SP to purchase skills, and gain 2SP each event they attend. These points transfer onto a standard character when the player reaches 13.

Improved Aid

This skill allows a character to stabilize a dying creature with a 60-second counted action. While performing this count, the target's bleeding out count stops, but they are not stabilized until the 60-second count is completed without interruption.

This skill will allow the character to determine the condition of the creature, by asking the following questions: "Are you- (Dying, Dead, Conscious, Unconscious, Diseased, Stunned, Sleeping, How much Body are you down)?" The character may also be able to receive other information at the marshal's discretion. You must be within arm's reach of the target though you do not have to touch them.

Novice Brewing

Allows the character to craft up to Rank 2 Items, following the normal crafting rules; however, crafting time is only 5 minutes. They do not require recipes, but still need components, and access to a Novie-shop.

Novice Chemist

Allows the character to craft up to Rank 2 Items, following the normal crafting rules; however, crafting time is only 5 minutes. They do not require recipes for the items listed in the book under production, but still need components, and access to a Novie-shop.

Trained Helper

Lowers the craft time of another player by up to 4 minutes, when they help them with their crafting.

Pet Taming

This skill allows the character to capture and tame wild animals to be used as companion pets in conjunction with the Power: Companion. The character can tame 1 pet at a time, once the taming card is completed the pets can be traded to a player with the appropriate power, or the character can keep the pet to be traded later, but cannot be taming a new pet while they are housing a current one; unless they release the current pet. This skill can be purchased multiple times.

Well Educated

Functions as a Rank 2 Common Knowledge, for marshal information, allowing them to get information and ask simple questions.

| Pet Type | Novice | Power Bonus Options |

Appendix 9: BGA (Between Game Actions)

Each character can take up to 4 actions between games (representing the roughly 4 weeks between games), this limitation is placed #1 to represent the free time each character may have during the month, and #2 they must be submitted no later than 7 days after the event. This can be submitted using the BGA button found on the Contacts page of the website. The following are the types of actions that can be taken and the requirements.

Research- This action requires an actual question and must be noted which skills you are using to do said research as well as any specific location you are doing the work. Researching takes time therefore there is only so much you can look up at once. The Researcher Power allows 2 research questions to be asked for each action, these do not have to be on the same topic.

Recipe Research- Characters with Forge Item, Ritualism, and Advance Production Skills, can attempt to research new formals and recipes with a BGA. Doing so consumes an action every month until completed, and has a Component Cost of 5 Uncommon of the appropriate type. Additionally in the case of Forge Item, it is possible for a character to create a single Forge Item recipe page of their choice, which is an already known game formula. The Forge Item recipe will be collected at check in and costs the same number of Named Components as doing at event research.

Training- Characters can spend their downtime learning skills that require an instructor from a prearranged teacher, an NPC often through Guilds and Orders.

Contact- Traveling to other locations to contact a character's Order/Attunement will take 1 action, this takes into account for travel as well as standard tasks a character would perform while reporting to a base for their group. This also will give the player access to potential plot info as it pertains to the organization.

Duty- If your character has a set role in the game, be it a noble title that requires your efforts and attention, holding a guild position or other important role in game, it takes time from your life to do so. This automatically uses up one of your BGA actions.

Legwork-- This action is for short travel to a specific location, that you have the means to travel to, for the purpose of info collection on said location or to meet with an NPC for the same reason. This action requires the following to be submitted (single sentence responses),

- Location and how you are getting there,
- What you are looking for or what the goal of going there is,
- Specific location or NPC name if you know it that you are trying to meet or learn about.

Glossary of Out of Game Terms

Abilities: These are character features that are not skills. Some Abilities are inherent to all characters, while others apply only to certain Classes or Races. Some Abilities may be free, while others may cost Skill Points.

Active Skills/Abilities: Any Skill or Ability not specifically listed as Passive is Active. Active Skills/Abilities follow several rules. They are not automatic. They require conscious effort on the part of the character. They must meet all in game requirements to use the Skill/Ability. There may be exceptions to this, and those exceptions will be in the Skill/Ability description.

Age of Play: While the game is open to a very large range of players our insurance does have limitations. All members must sign an Insurance Release in order to take part in the game. Members 18+ are adults and can sign their own, Members 16-17 need a legal guardian to sign the consent, Members 13-15 MUST have a legal guardian on site in order to play; under the age of 13 cannot take part in combat due to insurance limits. While they are able to come to the games they cannot fully participate and therefore do not need to pay, they must also stay with their legal guardians at all times.

Armor Points: Armor Phys-Reps give armor points to the character wearing it. They function similar to Body Points, but are instead linked to the armor worn rather than the character. Armor points are the first points lost to damage unless an ability states otherwise. Effect Carrier attacks take no effect until the character has lost all of his armor points.

Body Points: Body points represent the damage a character may take before being rendered unconscious, dying, or dead. Some abilities may not affect a character until they have done Body Damage, such as an Effect Carrier attack.

Cabin Raids: A Cabin Raid is a situation where either players or NPCs attempt to enter a building they are not sleeping in, to either attack or steal from it. All Cabin Raids must have a Rogue Marshal present during the entirety of their presence in the cabin. Marshals are required to ensure all rules are followed and no personal player belongings are disturbed. Additionally if there are players present the CVC rules must also be followed.

Cheating: Cheating is a violation of the rules, intentionally or accidentally. Knowingly acting against a Marshal's ruling is considered Cheating. All Marshal Rulings are subject to rules committee after an event (please add rules clarifications to your event surveys.) All players are responsible for knowing the rules. Not knowing the rules is not an excuse to break them. Repeated incidents of cheating will be reviewed by staff and may result in suspension or permanent banning from the game.

Cheesy: Cheesy is an intentional flout of the rules, while not breaking any rules specifically. This is not cheating but may also result in Marshal Action.

Concentration: Some Skills/Abilities have a duration of Concentration. Concentration requires the character to focus their entire attention on the action. This excludes the use of all other Active Skills/Abilities during the duration of Concentration. Concentration may not normally be reduced below a minute, with the exception of Readjusting armor, which follows the armor Readjusting rules, and Quickness. In most cases if the character takes damage from any source during the count it is interrupted and must be started over.

Contested Roll: Some skills test the player's skill against a set objective, namely Disable Device, Resurrection, and Tracking. To determine the success or failure of such the following steps are taken. First the player adds up all of their bonuses, and then subtracts the negatives set by the Marshal, task, or the item being worked on. If the total modifier is positive the player will add it to their roll, if negative it plays no real effect unless the total is -10, in which case the character will automatically fail the roll. Next the character will roll a D10 and add their modifier, if positive; if the combined total is 10 or better then they

Counted Action: Any action that players are unable to Phys-Rep and there for must count to represent the time it takes. These actions include, but are not limited to Killing Blows, Detailed Searches, Hide Skill, or the Regeneration ability. In most cases if the character takes damage from any source during the count it is interrupted and must be started over.

Crowns: Crowns are rewards for items and effort donated to the game on a player level, usually at the request of staff.

Crowns are an out of game currency that may be used to purchase benefits for a character. The following chart illustrates the pricing for Crown rewards.

- Available Attunements - Planar

Champion (Inner Plane), Iron Star Mercs, Moon-Blooded, Paragon of Origination, Kensai, Loremaster, Mystweaver, and Racial Attunements.

CVC (Character vs. Character): FE is designed to be a character cooperative story telling experience. That being said there are times that characters will not see eye to eye and even carry animosity toward each other, this can lead to conflict. While it is within the rules of the game to allow CVC, there are a few guidelines that must be adhered to ensure the action is for an In Game reason. Note that reasons like; “My game play style is being an Antagonist”, or “Players have better treasure” are not valid reasons for CVC. Before engaging in premeditated CVC a player is required to contact Player Rep and have the conversation of why In Game their character is seeking this action. They will then get a Plot marshal involved for that player to move forward, this is done so when actions are taken they are well marshaled to manage outcome.

There are times that CVC may not be premeditated and happens in the heat of the moment. When this does occur, the engaging player needs to find a Plot/Player Rep once the dust has settled to inform them of what happened, if there was not one present at the time. This is to ensure that the actions taken were for In Game motives and not for PVP or OOG reasons. If marshals determine that the actions were driven as PVP, Player Reps may take further actions to address the actions.

Defensive Action: Defensive Actions affect only the originator of the effect. Actions that would qualify include defending yourself (without attacking), resists, parry, or healing oneself.

Durations: Many effects in the game have different durations, the followings are their explanations.

- Temporary- Effects with this duration last for up to 2 hours though will end early if the conditions of the effect is met.
- Permanent- Effects with this duration are lasting, even through resurrection, and have a very specific condition to end.
- Instant- Effects with this duration are instantaneous, meaning they cannot be cancelled by other effects.
- Until Used- Effects with this duration will last until expended or until the character is Dead.
- Concentration- Effects with this duration last for the listed time, and end if interrupted.
- Line of Sight- Effects with this duration last until the originator can no longer draw a line of vision to the target and end 10 seconds after losing Line of Sight.

Encounter: An encounter is a single combat or

| Game Reward | Crowns |

| Basic Armor/Weapon | 5 Crowns/Production Rank/Month of Duration |

| Begin Game with an Attunement from list. | 900 Crowns |

up to five minutes of combat during prolonged combat situations. An Encounter is ended when there are no threats left on the battlefield, at which point any Skills/Abilities that end with an Encounter also end.

Events: Events are any sanctioned Fallen Empires activities. These include Fair Days, Tavern Nights, and Weekend Events, others may also be included by staff. At the end of an Event, a character receives Skill Points for attendance in accordance with the Character Advancement Chart.

Fair Day- This kind of Event will typically last for one day, and will frequently be a Role-play heavy event. Modules and combats may occur, but Role-play will be the focus.

Fate of <Individual>: This may also be referred to as "Fate of Party". Sometimes a player is unable to physically continue in a situation where the character has no option to withdraw. When this occurs the player may select another character and tie their characters Fate to that of the character chosen. All manner of horrible things that happens to the chosen character also happen to the absent character. This could include anything from death, to slavery, to quadruple amputation. Fate of <Individual> is generally reserved for injured players, medical conditions such as epilepsy or asthma, or Out of Game emergencies.

Feat of Strength: These actions may be taken using in game skills that grant + Strength for game purposes. This can be passive +1 Strength, Adrenaline Rush, Burst of Strength, or any other source that would grant great strength for any duration. Some Feats of Strength may require all the strength to come from a single source, while others may allow for characters with these abilities to work together to achieve their goal. Common uses include breaking the Secure Door effect, breaking Unshatterable items, and ripping free of Confinement effects.

Game Fees: There are a number of fees that the game charges players; the following is a breakdown of those fees:

- Membership- $20- This is paid in January and helps to pay for some of the basic game needs like insurance and marketing. This fee does not apply until the start of the New Year, and players do not pay for their first year.
- FairDay- $20- Fairdays are a 1 day game that players can attend.
- Standard Event- $45- A standard event is a 2 day game that runs from Friday thru Sunday. 3 hour NPC shift.
- Bonus SP- $10- This can only be purchased for a game the player attends and earns them 1 SP in addition to the SP earned from the event.
- Secondary- $10 or $20- This allows a player to check in a secondary character to an event they attend, the price varies based on if the event is a Fair Day or Standard Event. A player can switch between characters only once at a game and must check out fully with one character before they can bring the other character into game. They receive all the normal benefits of attending an event.

Game Master: The Game Master (GM for short) is in charge of running Events. All members of the Plot Team are Game Masters.

Ghost Tags: A character may carry a limited number of Ghost Tags. These items are generic items that the player does not have to carry a Phys-Rep for. A player may carry a single Ghost Tag (Basic Non-Advanced) for each Weapon, Armor or Trap they do have a Phys-Rep for, in addition to the original tag for the Phys-Repped item. They may also carry up to forty Ghost Tags for small consumable items including: Potions, Runes, Bombs, Locks, Tools, Tinkers, Salves, Elixirs, Vials, or Foodstuffs.

Headbands: Headbands play an important role in the game, as they give necessary information. The following colors have set meanings: White- players with these headbands are Out of Game. Pink- players with these headbands are under a medical restriction and cannot engage in melee boffer combat. They can still be attacked with ranged attacks, though attacks should take care to try and soften their throws; character's in melee weapon range, that are wielding a melee weapon, can deliver their attacks as "Target Voice <attack>" where the attack can be weapon damage or Combat Techniques (Combat Slots must still be expended). Any standard defense can be used to stop the attacks. Green- players with these headbands are in game but are Invisible and cannot be seen or attacked by players, save for skills that can see through similar skills like Hide and Conceal.

Hold Rule: This rule pertains to when the game needs to be briefly stopped. This is done by loudly declaring "HOLD!" Most "Holds" fall into one of the following categories- Medical, Player Danger, or Rules Calls. While in a "Hold" no in game conversation may take place between players, and they are frozen in place (taking a knee is preferred), nor should they look around which may spoil upcoming surprises (Ambushes, or very neat visual effects). To end the freeze in time the call Lay On is followed by a countdown after a check to make sure all issues are resolved.

Item Tags: All in game items must have a valid tag and a Phys-Rep in order to be used. They may carry as many items as they have Phys-Reps. See also Ghost Tags.

In Game (IG): A term used in player discussion about the game. Examples include- In game Player X is an elf. In Game that NPC is a large grey wolf.

Incant: Phrases that must be spoken in game to activate a Skill/Ability. The Incant must be spoken correctly for the effect to take place. Incorrect Incants may have in game effects in certain situations.

Killing Blow: A Killing Blow is a three counted action that changes a Helpless target's state to Dead. A proper Killing Blow includes using a weapon or hand (with target consent, or agreement it is properly handled) on the torso of the victim for the full duration of the count. Some creatures may require specific effects for a successful Killing Blow. In these situations, finish your count with the appropriate Flavor Carrier to Killing Blow the target. Taking damage of any kind will interrupt the count.

Line of Sight: This determines the duration of some effects. To find line of sight you determine if the originator of the effect could see the target if they were facing towards the affected character's location. Line of Sight must be broken with either sufficient distance or a barrier that actually does prevent the originator from seeing the target. These effects end ten seconds after Line of Sight is broken.

Marshals: People who are not a GM, that are responsible for some aspect of the game. This includes Weapons Marshals who check the safety of Phys-Reps, Rules Marshals who can answer rules debates, Rogue Marshals who oversee Cabin Raids, and Medical Marshals who may remove players who are not in condition to play from playing for a time.

Marshal Notes- Marshal Notes consist of any important information regarding a building or cabin that the Marshal of a cabin raid might need or want to know, in order to properly Marshal the raid. Raids not properly Marshaled, due to inadequate Marshal Notes will not be subject to adjudications. Traps, Locks, and Spells used to defend the building, or placed upon the building must be noted in the Marshal Notes, or they do not exist. All game Items within an I.G. location will be I.G., the only exception to this would be in NPC areas such as a Module, and will be noted by a Marshal. All locations within a building will be considered IG unless clearly noted within the Marshal Notes. No game Items may be placed into an area noted as OOG within the Marshal Notes.

Medical Rewrites: This option is here for players that for a medical reason; such as injury, physical limitation, or pregnancy, cannot safely participate in melee combat. The player can take a Temporary rewrite, until the condition is resolved; or Permanent rewrite, though this tends to be for conditions that will not ever change. Doing so allows the player to change their characters' class and skills that are related to melee combat. Often this is directly tied to the Member Blanket: Game membership alone has its benefits. Each month if you have a paid membership to Fallen Empires, you gain 1 Skill Point for your characters even if you do not attend any events. This applies to both Primary and Secondary characters; secondary characters begin earning the points once they are on the books.

Meta-Gaming: Meta-Gaming is the use of player knowledge that was not learned In Game as if you had.

Multiple Characters: Each player is allowed to have 2 different characters on the books at any given time. Primary is the term used to refer to the character that is player the larger amount of time, and Secondary is the term for the other character. Since these are separate people they should not share the same In Game items or treasure, as they have never met, and both characters should have distinct costuming and looks so as not to create confusion to other players.

Multiple Use of Like Effects: Unless otherwise stated you cannot stack like effects for a more potent result. When effects are stacked that are the same type (Temporary/Permanent), or effect, the highest bonus is the one that results. Example: A character is gaining temporary body points from two sources, the effect with the higher number would be the only one that would be used and the other effect would be negated.

Multiple Use Multipliers: Some effects can be used more than once to generate larger effects. When multiple effects are generated the effects are additive not multiplicative. For Example, a target that is both Devastated and Vulnerable, the target would take triple damage rather than quadruple.

No Effect: This call denotes when a target is not affected by something. Sleep on a golem is an example.

Normal Damage: All weapon damage is Normal and must be called as such unless they are using an effect or weapon that generates non-Normal Damage.

Offensive Action: This includes any action that has a direct effect on a target other than the originator of the effect or their possessions.

Out of Game (OOG): Out of Game can refer to anything from game knowledge a character doesn't have, an NPC wearing a white headband, or the playoff scores from your favorite sports ball team.

Passive Skills/Abilities: These are skills that do not require active use by the character or are constant. This includes things like Immunities, Read and Write, Underwater Combat, Knowledge (Area), Armor, Vulnerability, and Claws.

Phys-Reps (Physical Representations): Items made for the game that represents an in-game item. They are made with appropriate materials for game use. Approved Phys-Reps include: appropriately colored packets for Bombs or Vials, ¼ ounce containers for Potions or Elixirs, small red stones approximately one inch for Spell Runes, dental tools for Tools. All magic items are required to have individual and specific Phys-Reps.

Prerequisite: Anything that is required before you learn or perform a Skill/Ability.

PVP (Player vs. Player): This term is in reference to players taking negative In Game actions against others, which are motivated by Out of Game reasons. These actions will not be tolerated in the game. All players are paying the same money to take part in the game, and no player will be allowed to intentionally disrupt another player's game just for their own amusement. Should a player take actions against another player and there is a complaint, Player Reps will investigate to determine if rules were followed and where the action falls. If ruled as PVP the player will receive 1 warning before being removed from the game.

Restraining a Person IG: At times in game you may want to secure another character or monster with bindings. For safety reasons you cannot physically restrain players OOG. To tie up a target IG, you must spend a 15 counted action for hands or feet and have some form of Phys-rep with which you are binding them. Once the counted action has been completed tie a piece of flagging tape to the player to represent the binding, this is to both make it clear they are bound it as well can be easily ripped around OOG. The in-game mechanics will be the be treated as a Natural Binding Effect, if the bindings are made of a more resistant material then it may affect the Strength required to get free. The IG item and effects will need to be told to the target.

Role-play Hold: This is a specific type of hold commonly used on a Module. Players are in game and may talk or act as they normally would while their movement from the very small area they are gathered is prohibited. These are commonly instituted between encounters on a module, or to allow for minor medical issues to be resolved post-combat. During a Role-play Hold only friendly skill use is allowed, this is determined by the affected player.

Referrals- As a way to boost the player base we offer a referral system with a reward. When you refer a new player to the game, you receive a $5 Game Coupon on any game they attend, PC or NPC, so long as you are also attending the Event. These Coupons can be used to pay for: Game Fees, Save for Membership. You can use multiple of these at a time but the discount will never be greater than the base event cost.

Rules Lawyer: A Rules Lawyer is someone who tries to use the wording of the rules to their advantage rather than the intent. This can be due to poorly worded rules, intentional interpretation, or assumption of something that may or may not have been implied. This may warrant Marshal Action.

Rule Order: All rules apply from general to specific. The most specific rule always takes precedence.

Searching Bodies: To search a body, you must be within arm's reach of the target and say, "I Search you", after which the target will hand over their items, however, the target has the option to request a detailed search. To do a detailed search of a body takes a 2-minute counted action, after which you have found and collected all items.

Skills: Anything your character can learn to do falls into this category. Most Skills cost Skill Points to learn. They allow you to take actions as defined by the Skill purchased.

Taking a Knee: This means kneeling down on a single knee. This is an out of game consideration in all its uses. It is preferred that players take a knee during holds; they may also choose to take a knee when they are incapacitated by effects in game. A player may never "Take a Knee" if they are pretending to be incapacitated.

Trophy Rules: This allows a character to claim a trophy from a corpse or location. This does not grant the character treasure but instead an item, such as a Horn or Shard of Crystal. These items carry no base game value and are meant to allow the collection of items for RP purposes.

Virtual Armor- During times this rule is used players are not required to physically wear their armor, though they still receive the benefits of it. Players must still have the appropriate armor rep on site and the rep cannot be shared by multiple characters. This rule can be applied by a chapter if they wish under the following conditions: Temperature is over 80F and Humidity is above 55%, or the Temperature is above 95F.

What Do I See: This is an out of game call that is used to ask for a targets description, since not everything can be properly represented. When responding to this call, your full description must be provided, most commonly your race, and other points that should be visible such as glowing hands.

White Head Band: White headbands not only signify a player is OOG game there are also set rules that must be followed. While wearing a White headband the player is to have no game interaction with players who are In Character. Further they are to do what they can to stay at least 20 feet away from players that are In Character for a number of reasons. This is mostly in place to reduce meta-gaming and to keep the field of play clear of obstructions. Only Marshals and NPC's that have been tasked by a Marshal should interact with In Character players and even then, that should the conversation should be moved away from other players should one need to be had. All out of game conversations should be had away for In Game players and while wearing white headbands, so everyone is aware who is In Game. All Players must have a White Headband at check-in or they will not be allowed to do so; NPC camp should have headbands for sale.

Glossary of Effects

+ Strength: This effect increases a character's damage with weapons. It must be split evenly between both of the character's hands, with odd numbers going to the primary hand of the character. Full + Strength is added to all two-handed weapons. Each + Strength allows the character to move freely with one hundred and fifty pounds. Strength comes in 2 types, Permanent and Temporary.

Affinity<Type>: This effect causes creatures of the listed type to see the character as a non-hostile. This effect will end if offensive actions are taken towards the affected creature. Creatures that are being commanded or controlled may also ignore this effect.

Abomination: A creature with this Type exists outside of normal body functions of living creatures. Examples include Oozes and altered humanoids. Due to their unnatural state, they are Vulnerable: Lightning.

Altered Metabolism: A character with this descriptor suffers the following downsides- They die at zero body and have no bleed out, they are healed by specific magical effects. They gain the following advantages- Immunity to Sleep, Stun, and Paralysis.

Animal: A creature with this Type is encompassed by all non-humanoid naturally occurring creatures with no special powers. They are non-sentient for the purposes of magical spells. They do not speak or understand any humanoid language. If they possess Scent, they may track as if they had a single level of the Track skill. Examples include wolves, bears, and fish.

Aura: This effect is a defense that is triggered by melee weapon attacks. When used the character announces "<Delivery Type> Aura<Flavor>, or <Delivery Type> Aura <Effect>" and the target must then take or defend against the Aura. In the case of the first option, the damage is always 30 points of <Flavor>damage. This is an Active ability. If this defense renders the attacker Helpless, then the defender does not suffer the attack that triggered this ability.

Automatic Success: This effect is an instant success in any Contested Roll that is applicable.

Aquatic: A creature with this Sub-Type is treated as if they had Underwater Combat and Breathe Liquid passively.

Bane <Type>: This effect is a damage bonus toward a particular Creature <Type>(Humanoid, Elemental, Fey, etc.). It grants the character a +5 Temporary Damage increase. It is up to the character using this ability to be aware of whom they get the bonus versus.

Banish: This effect sends the target back to its plane of origin. When the target is banished all items, it acquired on this plane are left behind.

Barrier: This effect acts as a damage shield negating 20 points of damage before being exhausted. These points do not stack with other armor buffs, and are the first points lost.

Battlerage: When this effect is activated the character activating it gains the following temporary benefits- +15 Body Points, +2*Permanent Weapon Damage*, Immunity to Charm, Fear, Shun, and Sleep. This ability lasts for an encounter. When Battlerage ends the character suffers the effects of Devastate and Slow, as well as the inability to use Combat Slots for 30 minutes.

Berserk: This effect causes the target to attack the closest target friend or foe. They will continue to attack all targets until the effect is cured or until thirty minutes have passed. The character will actively seek out new targets during the duration of the effect. This is a Metabolic effect.

Bind Form: This effect has two uses. First, it may allow a character that has died to be resurrected without the use of a Life Well as long as a character with the Resurrection Skill is available. This circumvents the penalties for resurrecting without a Life Well. Second, it may be used as an offensive effect against non-corporeal creatures. It reduces "Magic to Hit" to "Silver to Hit", or reduces "Silver to Hit" to "Normal to Hit" for an encounter.

Binding Strike: This effect allows the character with Claws to grapple the target and begin a counted action. The attack must be a legal weapon strike. At the end of the counted action the character must announce the effect of the Binding Strike. While the counted action is taking place both the character and target are not allowed to move but may use Defensive Abilities; and contested + Strength can be used to break free. The character performing the Binding Strike should announce their Strength and may abort the count at any time it chooses. The Binding Strike count begins from the top and the effect is announced after one. Binding Strike's counted action is not subject to interruption with damage, unless that damage incapacitates the character performing the Binding Strike.

Blind: This effect causes the affected target to be unable to use any skills, fight, or use Active Abilities for 10 seconds; additionally, they can only walk. This skill works only on targets that need eyes to see and function, so creatures like Oozes, which lack eyes, would be Immune to this effect.

Blindsight: Characters with this effect use all of their senses to see. This allows the character to detect Hidden and Invisible targets as well as attack them, which removes them from the Hidden or Invisible state.

Break Enchantments: This effect dispels and removes all negative Mental and Magical effects on the target. This includes Enslavement, as well as Silence generated by any ability.

Break Free from Binding: Some creatures have immense strength allowing them to break free from the effects. Binding effects each have a specific amount of Permanent Strength required. This is done on a 3- counted action, and damage does not interrupt this count. Breaking Free causes the user to suffer body damage equal to double the strength required.

Broken: An item with this status is rendered unusable until fixed. After an item has been broken for longer than 5 minutes, all special properties that are not from Advanced Smithing/Engineering are lost, even after it has been Repaired. Broken weapons and shields may not be used for combat, broken armor has its maximum value reduced to 0 and cannot be readjusted, and special properties on items cannot be used. Items that are broken at the end of an event are removed from game and the tag must be turned in to a Marshal.

Burst: This effect allows the character to affect all enemy targets in melee weapon range. Any Skill/Ability may be used with Burst. Skill/Abilities that have been used with Burst may be defended against normally, but must be done so for each affected target. This is a weapon attack Modifier.

Burst of Strength: This effect allows the character to perform feats of amazing strength. It may be used to either resist or break free of any Binding effect as well as Prison. This effect can be used as +10 Permanent Strength for a single task such as breaking down a door or lifting a portcullis.

Burrow: This effect allows the character to Burrow underneath the ground. No Skills/Abilities may be used while under the effects of Burrow. Burrow is visually demonstrated by making a circling motion towards the ground continuously with either hand or boffer. The Burrow effect makes the character un-targetable while they maintain the appropriate gesture. It takes a 10 counted action to enter and leave Burrow during which the character is vulnerable to attack, and leaves the user Helpless. Unlike most Counted Actions, taking damage while leaving Burrow does not interrupt the count. Burrow can only be used in natural terrains.

Carrier Attack<Type>: Creatures with noted Carrier Attacks have a flavor or effect call added to weapon swings. Carrier Attacks are static, and the character may not swing any type of damage except that listed by the Carrier Attack ability. Some characters may have the notation “At-Will” added to their Carrier Attack <Type>, which allows them to not swing the listed carrier. A target may never heal from the effect of a Flavor Carrier. Effect Carriers are by default considered Toxins.

Claws: Many creatures have claws which are natural weapons that are effectively “built into” the monster. These are considered both Passive and Active skill. Passively they do not fall off if you are denied the use of skills and abilities and can still be used to block, but not attack or make Active/Offensive actions. Claws qualify as weapons for the use of Techniques and Focus/Precision, but not powers unless Claws are specifically named. They cannot be Disarmed but can be Maimed.

Cleave: This effect allows the character to duplicate the effect of a legal weapon attack they have landed. When the attack succeeds the character calls Cleave. They may then make an identical attack which may not target the same individual affected by the first ability. Cleave may not be used in conjunction with the Burst or Double Attack Modifiers.

Cocoon: This effect has several outcomes. First, it acts as a “Natural Prison”. Second, it renders the target to Unconscious at 0 Body Points. These effects persist permanently unless ended by cutting the victim free on a 10 counted action, or by use of the Freedom effect.

Compulsions: These are Mental effects that take away the character’s free will and cause them to take actions they would not normally take.

Construct: This Type applies commonly to golems, but not exclusively. The advantages of Construct are: No Metabolism, Immune to Spirit/Shadow Damage, Immune to Daze, and Immune to Mental Effects. The disadvantages are: they have no Body Point total, instead having only an Armor total. This creature usually follows a set of instructions, or the orders of its creator.

Contain: This effect creates a transparent barrier that cannot be passed through, even by non-corporeal creatures, and will stop most effects; however, Delivery Types like Voice will often bypass.

Courage: This effect will dispel all Fear/Terror effects from all targets, as well rendered them Immune to Fear/Terror effects for the remainder of the Encounter or up to 5 minutes.

Critical: This Modifier, when added to an attack, will cause that attack to ignore passive reductions to damage, such as Damage Cap; and defenses that only reduce damage, such as Roll, cannot be used as defenses.

Cross the Barrier: This effect allows the character to travel across planes by circumventing the normal mechanics of planar travel. They do not open gates, portals, or rifts that others can move through, nor can they carry a dead creature with a spirit across planes.

Curse of Death: This effect will not cause the target immediate harm, instead the next time the target receives a Killing Blow effect they will immediately go to resurrect.

Damage Cap: This ability reduces all damage the character takes to a set amount, no matter the source; this only applies to attacks with a number in the attacks verbal. Though the Critical Modifier can overcome this.

Daze: This effect causes the target to be unable to take any action, while not Helpless, they cannot use any skills or abilities, nor can they move from their current location.

Deathless: A creature with this Type shares advantages with Undead, however, Deathless are Elementals, and are Subtype: Void.

Death Throes: This effect allows the character to make a final attack upon death. Characters with this effect do not choose to activate it, it activates automatically when their status becomes Dead and they have no ability to return to life under their own power. A character who uses Death Throes may not be brought back to life with a spell or ability that restores life. This ability is used with the call “Everyone in the sound of my Voice <Damage><Flavor><Effect>”. This attack is Area of Effect and may be defended against as such. Each character with this effect will denote the “volume” at which the ability will affect targets.

Deconstruct- This ability can be used on any unattained item, up to 8 sq.ft, or against golem creatures. The call for this ability is “Arcane Deconstruct” and is weapon delivered, this effect will instantly destroy the target item reducing it to dust, even if the item was Unshatterable; as well the item cannot be affected by Refit or Rebuild.

Derangements: These effects are mental effects on the character that will force some amount of role-play based on the specific condition. These effects can be temporary, lasting a few months, up to permanent. A character is never aware of their condition and must follow the listed role-play and mechanics as defined under the Appendix: Derangements. These conditions are assigned by a Plot Marshal, and under no circumstance can a character cure their own conditions.

Despair: This effect causes the target to double the cost of all Technique skills, and all other skills must spend 2 uses to generate a single use. This is a Mental effect that lasts until cured with Psionic Clear or Break Enchantments.

Deprive<Skill>: This effect strips the named skill from the target for twenty-four hours.

Devastate- This effect causes the target to take double damage from all attacks that have a numerical value in their call. This effect is permanent, unless a duration is specified by the application, such as Devastate gained from Resurrection. This is considered a Curse, and may only be removed by Practitioner, Priest Rank 2, Resurrection, or the River spell.

Dexterity Armor- This type of armor functions in many ways as physical armor a character could wear, with the following differences. Dexterity Armor does not stack with physical armor types other than Costume, these points are suppressed if the character is wielding a shield, the character does not need to wear any special phys-rep to receive the armor points, and while helpless the armor points do not provide protection. Unless otherwise stated in the specific description the character is still limited by their Class and Powers for the maximum value of armor they can benefit from. These armor points may be healed if a character is at full Body Difficult Terrain: This effect makes those in the area or those affected unable to move faster than a walk. This effect is negated by Non-Corporeal, <Flavor>Aligned, or Terrain Adaptation<Type>.

Diminutive Size: Creatures of this size are those around the size of a house cat or large bird. Their monster stats are one-quarter that of the base creature.

Disarm: This effect causes a targeted hand-held item to become unusable for five seconds. While the target does not need to drop the weapon, they cannot use it offensively nor defensively. Any attack that strikes the item during that time causes the bearer to suffer the effects of the attack. This attack can either be a legal weapon strike or can hit the item to be affected.

Double Attack: This effect may be used when a character has successfully made a weapon attack upon a target and the target defended against it in any fashion. The character may then call Double Attack and force the target to defend again or suffer the effect of the attack.

Dragon Fear: This effect causes all targets lower than the designated level to become afraid of the effect's generator. While under this effect a character cannot take offensive actions or attack the effect's generator; as well they cannot defend against attacks from the effect's generator. This is a Mental Effect.

Dragon Rage: This effect causes all affected to enter into a blind rage attacking all targets they can perceive. If there are no such targets in the immediate area, the character becomes winded and falls unconscious for 10 minutes. The call will always have a level as part of its delivery; characters above the level in the call do not suffer the normal effect but are instead affected by Weakness. This is a Mental effect and a Compulsion.

<Effect> Strike: These types of attacks are weapon delivered attacks, which are one swing hit or miss. The <Effect> in the call is what the target will suffer should the attack land and not be defended; the Strike portion of the call is to make it clear it is a weapon attack and only good for a single swing.

Elemental: This Type denotes that the creature is made up totally of a singular <Flavor>, such as a Fire Elemental. Creatures with this Type are always Extra-Planar, and have the following advantages: Immune to Mental, No Metabolism, and Resistant to their <Flavor>. Their disadvantages are: Vulnerable to their opposing <Flavor>, and Crumbles at 0 Body. Additionally, they often do not have standard sensory features.

Engulf: This effect allows a creature to swallow a target whole. Each creature has its own count to use this effect. Once engulfed, a target immediately drops to -1 Body Points, and they may not be targeted with Skills/Abilities; until they are extracted.

Enslavement: This effect allows the character to gain mental control over a target. The character may give any number of orders during the duration of the effect and the target will obey. The target will take no actions without orders from the effects originator. This effect is both a Mental effect and a Compulsion.

Escape from Binding: This ability allows the character to free themselves of Binding effects, on a 3 counted action, without taking any damage.

Expendable Healing/Effect: This refers to any effect that can only be used in limited amounts in a given time frame. This primarily includes Signature Spell, Potions, and times per reset skills/abilities; skills that do not affect this are one that have no limit on usage like Healing Arts.

Fast Healing: This ability allows the character to naturally heal when not in combat or participating in strenuous activities. The character heals X Body Points every 5 minutes, at the end of the count; where X is the amount healed.

Fatigue: This effect causes the character to be reduced to -1 Body Points. A fatigued character cannot be healed by any means. They may receive a Life spell when appropriate but become immediately Fatigued. This effect is Metabolic.

Fear: This effect has a duration of five minutes and causes the target to flee from the character who originated the effect. Once they have broken Line of Sight they may stop fleeing and act normally, but if they see the character who originated the effect before the duration expires they must flee again. This is a Mental Effect.

Feeblemind: This effect will cause the target to have their mental faculties reduced almost completely. They cannot use any Skills/Abilities, nor do they have the ability to communicate. They can still move and will often wander toward bright colors and noises. This effect lasts for one hour, and is removed by Break Enchantments, Priest Rank 2, or Psionic Clear. This is a Mental effect.

Flee: This effect allows a character to escape combat by running away, so long as escape is not physically blocked. This effect may also be used to Resist or Dispel any effect that would prevent running, such as Rot or Slow. Once a Flee had been used it takes the user 5 minutes to reenter the encounter they left.

Fly: This effect allows the character to fly through the air. No Skills/Abilities may be used while flying. Flying is represented by making the gesture of a circular motion over the character’s head with hand or boffer. It is a 10 count to take off or land from flying, during which the character may be targeted with attacks, this count may not be interrupted with damage, and leaves the user Helpless. While flying outdoors the character may not be the target of any effect that does not specifically target flying targets, Such as Voice Delivery and Gaze Attacks.

Fog: This effect limits the vision of a character. While under this effect, the character is unable to make ranged attacks of any kind. This effect lasts 10 minutes.

Fortitude: This ability increases the character’s base Body Points by 30, for 1 hour or Module. When this effect expires, the amount is removed from the character’s Maximum Body Points, not their current Body Points.

Freeze- This effect causes the target to become Frozen, causing them to become rigid and unable to move or take actions for up to 5 minutes. A creature with +6 Permanent Strength can break free of this status; as well fatal damage to the target will remove the effect. This effect is physical in nature.

Fumble: A character under this effect will be unable to hold any physical objects in their hands or handle physical objects for ten seconds.

This skill has several rules that must be followed for its use: First, in order to use this skill, the character must be next to an object that is stationary or cannot be easily moved, and the object must be larger than the player. Second, it takes a 5 Counted Action to enter Hide, which must be done while no one is actively looking at the character in game. Creatures that are normally immune to Fear, downgrade this effect to the normal Fear effect lasting 5 minutes. This is a Mental effect.

understand the common game language under normal circumstance, and allows them to communicate. Most sentient characters are subject to Mental effects.

Shun: This effect cause a target not be able to approach within 10' of the caster, nor may they attack the caster in any way. This effect will cause the target to avoid the caster for the duration, meaning if the caster moves toward them they must move away. This however does not force them into a corner, in such a case if the only way to move away from the caster is to walk past them to get out into the open they can. The creature may still attack people other than the caster. This effect is on the target and not the caster. Dispelling the target will rid them of the effect. This effect is both a Mental effect.
